PDA Announces Three-Pronged Program: Takes Development Lead

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture announced a three-pronged farm program this week to make agriculture the head and not the tail. Steven Crawford, executive assistant to the agriculture secretary, said in a private interview in the PDA office that Governor Robert Casey has recognized that agriculture should take the lead in economic development in Pennsylvania.

"That's exciting," Crawford said. "And to put money where the mouth is, Governor Casey has placed a $3 million line item appropriation in his proposed budget to fund the PDA ag development program. What is important to recognize," Crawford says, "is that it represents a step in the direction that lets agriculture take the lead. In the past, PDA was rather like the tail trying to wag the dog. But we don't want to spoon-feed the farmers and tell them what their programs should be. It's important that people who understand farmers and agriculture develop the programs for farmers. And that's why Governor Casey has given PDA the task of doing this. And that's what the newly announced programs represent. A change of direction in agriculture so that we are the leaders instead of the followers when charting our own destiny."

According to Crawford, one of the first things that Governor Casey did after he was sworn in was to meet with Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff to talk about the state of agriculture in Pennsylvania. "We were able to impress upon the Governor that the economic development in Penn-

Vintage Locks Horns With Feds Over Beef Checkoff

BY JACK HUBLEY

A group of 60-odd farmers and beef industrymen from as far away as North Carolina converged at the Lehigh County Courthouse in Allentown Thursday to watch Vintage Sales Stables go head to head with the federal government.

In a widely publicized test of federal authority, Robert L. Frame, owner of Vintage of Interstate, had his day in court to question the constitutionality of the $1-per-head beef checkoff program that began Oct. 1, 1986.

Mandated by the 1985 Beef Promotion and Research Act, the checkoff assesses cattle producers $1 for every head of cattle sold, including beef cattle, dairy animals and veal calves. Auctions such as Vintage have been designated as collection points for the funds, which are then forwarded to the Pennsyvania Beef Council. Fifty cents of each dollar goes to the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board to underwrite promotion, research and education programs on a national level aimed at increasing demand for beef. The remaining 50 cents stays with the contributing state fro its own efforts in these areas.

While submitting the checkoff funds is required by law, producers have the option to request a refund from a national escrow account held for that purpose. Within 22 months of the checkoff's inception, the beef industry must conduct a nationwide referendum to determine whether or not the program will be continued.

During Thursday's hearing Federal Judge Edward Cahn listened as Vintage attorney

Savages Show Md. Champions

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — Maryland has long been known for its top quality Holstein cattle and the 17th Maryland State Holstein Show, held at the Timonium Fairgrounds, was a display of this quality. A total of 300 registered Holsteins paraded before judge Roy Hetts from Wisconsin, Saturday, April 11.

Savage-Leigh E-Star Grace owned by Savage-Leigh Farm won the grand champion title of the show. This first placed aged cow, sired by Thonyma East Star-Twin, recently freshened. "She is a beautifully framed cow, I just love the openness," said Hetts. Grace stood as grand champion of this show in 1986, improving on her reserve grand title in 1985.

The 6-year-old champion produced a top record as a 4 year old of 22,480 pounds of milk and 828 pounds of fat with a 4.7 test in 365 days.

Gay Ridge Holsteins owned the reserve grand champion cow, C Darcroft Concord Hanna. This Browndale Concord-el daughter, out of Glenside Royal Glenna, placed first in the 5-year-old class with best udder honors.

Seidel, Sweeney and Harding Honored By PSU Dairy Club

STATE COLLEGE — The Penn State Dairy Science Club has a big weekend scheduled for April 24 and 25. It all gets started Friday evening at the State College Elks Country Club where the Dairymen's Club banquet starts the action with the annual meeting and the recognition of the club's honorees for 1987.

George E. Seidel is the 1987 Distinguished Alumnus for the Department of Dairy Science. Raised on a farm in Pennsylvania, Seidel received a B.S. Degree from Penn State in dairy science in 1965, an M.S. and Ph.D. from Cornell in 1968 and 1970 respectively. He currently is working with the Animal Reproductive Laboratory College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences at Colorado State University. In 1973 the embryo transfer laboratory was established at Colorada State. Technics such as nonsurgical recovery and transfer of bovine and equine embryos were developed and refined at the laboratory. Recently, the laboratory has developed a procedure for bisecting embryos to produce identical twins.

Dr. Thomas Sweeney is the 1987 Dairy Expo Dedicatee. Sweeney is best known at Penn State as the dairy science club advisor from 1980 to 1986. During Sweeney's time as advisor, the club enjoyed

Two farms in one lane. When you travel in this farm lane from Route 944 just north of Route 322, you come first to the Bucher Brothers Farm (Mark and Stan). Then the lane continues past the farm house to Raymond Hoover's Farm.

When Editor Newswanger talked to Stan Bucher Tuesday afternoon, it was odd-job time around the farm. But you could tell this young farmer was itchy for the ground and weather to get right so he could get into more important jobs like plowing and planting.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed higher from 1/2 cent to 1-1/2 cents after a choppy trading session. Gains were prompted by late local short-covering before the holiday weekend. Rumors of the possibility of an export bonus offer to the USSR also helped to alleviate pressure from early sales caused by a weakening foreign currency and precious metal market. Declining Texas Gulf CCC PIK prices yesterday influenced early selling.

Generic certificates traded steady at 104% to 105-3/4%

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures settled mixed today from up one cent to down one-half cent after trading lower most of the day. Gains on the close were attributed to delayed Brazillian harvest and late commission house buying connected to the pre-weekend short covering. Locals and commission houses are still holding long positions with ideas that increasing inflation will not disappear.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures closed higher across the board again today with new crop settling up sharply higher. Most gains are directly attributable to the presistant talk of a soon to be announced export bonus wheat offer to the Soviet Union.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures settled basically unchanged while feeder cattle settled mixed. Cash connected long liquidation was the main feature for April, even though cash fundamentals remain strong and supplies are tight. Some floor traders and analysts feel beef cut-out values and dressed beef carcass prices are nearing retail resistance.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed higher again today with May and July bellies limit up. April hogs settled 93 points higher, closing at $ .5410, while May closed up 103 and settled at $ .5190.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, April 16, 1987
Report Supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices held unchanged under a steady trade sentiment. Movement of cartoned eggs was fairly good as holiday orders and retail promotions helped to keep stocks in close balance. Supplies of extra large and large were at best adequate, mediums adequate to fully adequate. Nest run eggs were tight on class one and twos, adequate on the three and fours.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Thursday, April 16, 1987

Comment: Trading activity had picked up and was fair. Distributors were bringing in some extra product into plant closure on Friday rather than a marked improvement in demand. Cutlets and rib breasts were adequate to occasionally fully adequate at current price levels. Line-run breasts were adequate and cleared satisfactorily at 75 cents. Legs and leg quarters were at least fully adequate, and clearances were still a problem in a few quarters. The availability of wings has increased and most sellers were having some trouble in clearing product even at 46 cents today.

Rib-on-breasts .83-.85.
Line one breasts .75.
Legs .36-.37.
Leg quarters .25-.26.
Wings .44-.46.
Backs and necks .11-.12.
Livers .20.
Gizzards (hearts) .25.

Today's negotiated sales as of 11:30 a.m. prices paid per pound on ice packed part delivered in pool trucklot and trucklot quantities.

Wednesday, April 15, 1987
Report Supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices were mostly unchanged. The market tone was only about steady. Offerings were light but more than sufficient for the unaggressive buying interest. Some late week curtailment in schedules with most plants operating four days next week. Finished product sales were slow to fair with some product moving into storage.

Prices Paid at Farm:

Light Type Hens: .05-.07½; mostly .06½.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

APRIL 20-26, 1987

Rain pelts and last snow melts.

Last quarter of the moon April 20 (Mon.) City of Rome founded by Romulus April 21 753 B.C. Baron Manfred von Richtofen German flying ace killed in action, April 21 1918 Average length of days for the week, 13 hours 44 minutes Playwright William Shakespeare born April 23 1564 at Stratford-on Avon Warwickshire Library of Congress established April 24 1800 The tongue always turns to the aching tooth

Ask the Old Farmer: In researching my family's history I find that my earliest American ancestor built the first tide mill in Connecticut What is or was a tide mill? L.M. Readsboro, Vt.

It was a waterpowered mill built on an estuary having a dam whose gates allowed the incoming tide to fill a catch basin. The miller would then control the outflow of water through the sluice gates to power his equipment

Home Hints: Use the black striking portion of a matchbook to resharpen razor blades for shop use.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Beginning of week rainy, midweek clear and mild, end of week cloudy and cold

Greater New York-New Jersey: Heavy rain with cold temperatures at beginning of week, midweek sunny and warm, end of week cold with light rain

OPINION

Not For Capital Gains

From time to time we get reports that food supplies are being damaged by contaminated fallout from industrial and nuclear operations. This week The Deutch Press Wire reported that in Bangladesh more than 65,000 bags of powdered milk imported from Polland have been destroyed because a harmful level of radioactivity was detected. Officials say the milk was contaminated by fallout from the Chernobyl nuclear accident.

Another report on our desk indicates that contaminated milk from Chernobyl has been sold to unsuspecting customers in other foreign countries. In addition, while much research has been done to disassociate any link between cancer and low dose radiation, yet the reports that keep coming back to show more incidences of cancer around nuclear installations in Britain. And in Oklahoma a company won permission from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to test a fertilizer product made from the filtered liquid waste taken from the company's low level radioactive fuel waste pools.

While we don't have first-hand knowledge of any of these reports, yet we have no reason to doubt them. And we mention the reports here to remind us again that all segments of the population need to be conscious of our tendencies to pollute the air and water around our modern civilizations. If farmers over apply manure to their fields, they can cause down stream pollution, too.

So let's set up some personal and company guidelines for ourselves. Let's say to ourselves, "I won't pollute the part of the environment that has been entrusted to me with any thing for any reason. Especially not for capital gains."

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

SPRINGTIME

Striped fields of barley and of rye,
Are greening 'neath the April sky.
Deep-delved earth with beauty Spring endows
She follows close upon the plows.
The showers come in desarray
Drab dregs of winter washed away.
Last season's leaf is brought along
By brook that sings her ancient song.
Veiled willows hold a warming nest
For robin as a welcome guest.
The very air seems dewey wine
As petals from the stem untwine.
So God in splendor walks the earth

To Clean Pastures Before Turning Animals On Them

A careful check of pastures before turning cows into them can be time well spent. Trash, broken glass, and wire may produce bad udder and foot injuries. So remove or bury the debris.

Nails sticking through boards may produce serious puncture wounds in feet. Old farm implements should be hauled away; cows seem unable to resist stepping through old discs or harrows, often with disastrous results.

Fertilizer and fertilizer bags are deadly; especially those containing nitrates. Cows will eagerly kill themselves eating it.

In spite of laws, we still have a few people who will pitch a bagful of junk out of their cars while they drive along our highways. A walk through your pasture fields before turning your cows out, is time very well spent.

To Practice Strict Sanitation

Livestock and poultry producers must take a special effort to prevent contagious diseases. Many of these infections are brought home by the owner, or with the purchase of a new arrival. There are a number of infections that can be spread very easily from farm to farm.

In this part of the country, where the density of poultry and livestock is so great, producers should be alert to the possibility of spreading diseases. When returning from another farm, or public place, different clothes and footwear should be used. Stray dogs, cats and wild birds should be controlled as much as possible. New purchases should be segregated and tested before mixing with the home herd or flock. In many cases vaccination should go along with very strict sanitation practices. Every producer should give attention to the prevention of disease through good management and the use of good sanitation practices.

To Understand Persistent Weed Problems

Just how persistent do we have to be in order to control weed problems? Well, the answer to this question comes from weed scientists who ran germination tests on weed seeds.

They report that 29 percent of Johsongrass seed germinated after being buried for 3½ years; morning glory 74 percent after 5 years; pigweed 66 percent after 40 years and dock 52 percent after 50 years. They further reported that 51 of 107 species tested still had live seeds after 20 years.

The reason these seeds remain in the soil for such a long period without sprouting is apparently related to environmental conditions. According to weed experts, some seeds need just the right combination of moisture, temperature, and nutrients before they will germinate. This explains why we may suddenly be faced with a weed problem we thought was cured several years ago.

To Manage Poultry House Equiment

General management of poultry house equiment is important in maintaining a comfortable environment for chickens and turkeys. Defective equipment should be repaired or replaced promptly, especially if it is involved with the delivery of feed or water to the birds.

Rusty or bent cages will allow some birds to escape and may trap or injure other birds. It can also cause an increase in cracked egg shells. All sharp edges on the poultry equipment must be removed to avoid injuries. Rusty and decaying feed bins are another problem; they allow moisture to seep into the feed, resulting in mold and sick birds.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE SUPERSTITION OF REASON

April 19, 1987

Background Scripture: Luke 23:50 through 24:12.
Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:1-11.

If I have been addicted to anything in my life, it has probably been to reason. I don't mean that there is anything wrong with reason; in fact, there are lots of people whom I wish were more reasonable and lots of situations in life in which I would like to see reason prevail more often.

No, the problem is not with reason per se, but with me. I have asked of reason what often it cannot give. There have been times when I have forgotten the limitations of reason and tried to understand what is forever beyond my powers of reasoning. My reluctance to acknowledge this, in fact my stubborn resistance against this realization, has subjected me to a superstitious passion for reason that has sometimes been my undoing.

AN IDLE TALE

Of course, I'm in good company with my superstitious belief in reason. There are lots of people just as addicted to it as I am — often with pretty much the same consequences. And, although I can't take any real satisfaction in it, I can't help feeling a bit relieved to know that the twelve disciples of Jesus also suffered from the same addiction. When the women from Galilee returned from Jesus's tomb with the news that Jesus was risen and that this had been attested by an angel whom they encountered there, the disciples reacted the way any good church officials would react: "these words seemed to them an idle tale, and they did not believe them" (Luke 24:11). How strange that today there are still many people who would deny that women should serve as priests and ministers, despite the fact that it was the women who alone initially accepted the reality of Jesus's resurrection.)

Why did the disciples — the male disciples, at least — reject the resurrection news as "an idle tale" and refuse to believe it? Particularly in the light of some of Jesus's own words which had suggested that he would rise again?

BEYOND REASON

The answer must surely be that the disciples of Jesus, like many of us, were addicted to reason. And because the report of the women seemed to contradict their reasonable minds, they could not accept it. Of course, they were wrong — the resurrection does not contradict reason, it goes beyond it. That shouldn't really be hard for us to accept, for, when we really think of it, there are lots of experiences in life that, although not irrational, are surely super-rational: love is super-rational phenomenon, so is loyalty, courage and faith. So, although we must avoid living irrationally, we must not impoverish our lives by failing to accept and embrace the realities that carry us beyond the superstition of reason.

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS!!

The Farmer's Friend!

PARADISE TOBACCO SALES

THANK YOU FARMERS!

It was your support this year that has strengthened the auction system of marketing tobacco for the future.

Several goals, which we auction organizers set out to accomplish, were met this year. We have attracted a sizeable, reputable company to our market. We maintained a market for all grades of your tobacco, not just your good tobacco.

Our last sale was one of our best. Top market price was 70¢. Large volume of tobacco sold for 65 to 67¢. If more farmers would have resisted selling tobacco on the farm, we feel that market prices may have increased to more acceptable levels earlier in the season.

We will be receiving tobacco for one more week for processing. - April 21, 22, 23, 24 from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. - with Parker Tobacco Company. Please call for appointment so we can have graders here when you deliver your tobacco.

We Will Be In Touch Throughout The Growing Season And Hope To See You All During Next Years Tobacco Marketing Season!

Electra Daughter Tops Weim-Sharr Dispersal

BY JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

NEW OXFORD — A stylish bred heifer topped the Weim-Sharr dispersal sale April 10, with buyer Rodney Greist placing the winning bid on the catalog headliner.

Weim-Sharr-J Electra Delight sold for $4,500 to the Coatesville purchaser, after a round of spirited bidding interest from the crowd which turned out on one of Spring's most perfect afternoons. It was a total herd dispersal for the dairy farm owned by Richard and Daniel Sharrer, with Stanley Weimer the farm manager, and son Thomas Weimer handling the herdsman reponsibilities.

Sired by Thonyma Electra, Delight is from the Weimer herd's prized Daisy family, and due in August to Tri-Town Steady Spipper. Her dam is Weim-Sharr-McEl Daisy Doll-ET, scored VG-88 as a 3-year-old, and nominated Junior All-American Senior 2-year-old in 1984. In her first lactation of 365 days, beginning at 2 years, 6 months, Doll produced 25,202 pounds of milk, with 3.9 percent and 987 pounds of fat, and 3.4 percent and 866 pounds of protein.

Granddam was Echo-Glen Willow-Farm Daisy, EX-92-4E, with three lactations over 1,000 pounds of fat, two over 30,000 pounds of milk, and a lifetime production of 196,387 pounds of milk and 7,222 pounds of fat. The Daisy offspring was the largest family group of the sale, with eight direct descendants of this brood cow put on the block.

"The best heifer we had on the farm," she was described from the auction box by son Mike Weimer, a partner in the Backus Sales firm which co-managed the Weim-Sharr dispersal with the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Second high seller of the day was an unscored two-year-old by Glenafton Enhancer. Weim-Sharr Enhancer Winny went to Stephen Hershey of Mt. Joy for a final bid of $3,100. Fresh in December, she milked 67 pounds of 4.4 percent milk on her latest DHIA test.

Winny's dam is Weim-Sharr-Molly C Windy, a Molly Chief, and her granddam was a Conductor.

Two young homebreds each commanded bids of $2,600, to tie for the third high selling spot in the sale list.

Raymond Getz, Myerstown, was high bidder on Weim-Sharr-MC Mars Debbie, 3-year-old by Lime-Hollow Elevation Mars. Scored GP-81 as a 2-year-old, she sold newly-bred to Steady, still milking 94.5 pounds at test. Her dam is the EX-91-3E Mel-Aire Promis Star, sired by Black Star, and with lifetime records of 190,205 pounds of milk and 6,949 pounds of fat.

Weim-Sharr Conductor Gail, GP-83, went to Robert Hoffman of York Springs. As a 2-year-old, she completed a first 365-day lactation of 22,690 pounds of milk and 610 pounds of fat. Her VG-85 dam is Tyrone-M Astro Girl, with records over 21,000 and lifetime production over 100,000 pounds of milk.

Average for the 90 head, not including small calves, also sold, was $1,265. Several show-age heifer calves commanded prices upwards of $1,000, encouraged by the Weimer's offer to allow a $50 credit per person to 4-H and FFA buyers.

At least 15 Excellent cows were bred or developed from the Weim-Sharr herd over the past eight years; and two Excellents, 17 Very Goods and 23 Good Plus individuals were among the neatly-fit and well-presented lineup offered at the dispersal.

Ring action turned extra lively as sale headliner Weim-Sharr-J Electra Delight went on the block. After a round of heated bidding, she went under the gavel for $4,500 to Rodney Greist, Coatesville.

Most of the Weimer's family of eight children and their families were on hand for the sale. Their youngest, daughter Jenny, is a student at Penn State, and Rose and Stanley Weimer look forward to relocating in Maryland.

Jersey Heifer Tops Franklin County 4-H Sale

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

MARION — A Jersey heifer topped the Franklin County 4-H Calf Sale April 10 selling for $1,600. Consigned by Tina Martin, Chambersburg, the 9-month-old calf was sired by Milestone Zorro. The calf's dam, Ruperts Promoter Floe, received first place in the 1987 Pennsylvania State Farm Show aged cow class; first place in the 1984 Junior State Show 4-year-old class; and fifth place at the 1985 National Junior Show as a 4 year old. Her top record as a 3 year old in 382 days was 14,028 pounds of milk and 762 pounds of fat with a 5.3 percent test.

Fawn sold to James Heeter of High Spring Farm, Shade Gap.

Second highest selling animal and top selling Holstein at the event was JCY Lee Ira. Bred and consigned by Jaye C. Young and J. Charles Young Jr., Greencastle, the Coldsprings Ira daughter sold to Douglas Parsons of Blairs Mills for $1,040. Her dam, JCY Elevation Lacy, a Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation daughter, classified GP-82. As a 2-year-old, in 256 days she milked 16,056 pounds of milk with 548 pounds of fat.

The sale averaged $632.63 on 19 head of calves and young heifers.

Farmers and Merchants Trust, a Chambersburg bank, bought one of the calves for $400 then donated it to the 4-H Club for resale. It brought $520 the second time.

While the 4-H Dairy Club sponsors the sale, anyone may consign and buy animals. Ten percent of the proceeds go to the 4-H Dairy Council. Ralph Horst, local auctioneer, donated his time and building for the benefit of the 4-H'ers.

Promotion Board Announces Two Celebrations For Pa.

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will hold not one, but two, June Dairy Month celebrations this year, it was decided last week at the April meeting of the 21-member Advisory Board.

A June 11 kickoff in downtown Pittsburgh is already scheduled, with free ice cream novelties, cows, band, dairy princesses and media involvement planned.

Site for an eastern kickoff is still being negotiated, it was reported by Bill Smedley, commodity program chief for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The dual celebrations will lift the curtain on a full summer of milk and ice cream promotions by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

The popular Make-it-with-Milk recipe contest will get underway July 1 to maintain the promotion momentum following June Dairy Month, it was revealed by Promotion Coordinator Cindy Weimer.

And a mammoth ice cream social July 28 on the state capitol steps in Harrisburg will keep public interest high well into August, Smedley told the board. Called "The Summer Love Sundae Tuesday", it will be co-sponsored by the Keystone Ice Cream Association.

"Summer Love" again will be the theme for all PDPP ice cream advertising and promotion, it was indicated at the meeting. Two new "Summer Love" radio commercials were among five okayed at the board to refuel a heavy summer radio schedule.

The board rounded out its summer schedule by approving an instore milk promotion with Lady Fingers in 47 Food Rite supermarkets in Central Pennsylvania. Set for September, consumers will receive a free quart of milk with each four packages of Lady Fingers purchased. Instore milk sales could increase 800 percent for the week, it was estimated.

In other action, the board:

• Voted $1,600 for the Pennsylvania "Dairy of Distinction" program after a presentation by Penn State extension dairy specialist Steve Spencer. This was PDPP's pro-rated share of the $8,000 budget; Spencer explained. Other promotion groups are expected to pick up the balance.

Several members questioned why milk quality was not considered in the scoring. "Hopefully it can be included in the future," said board member Don Duncan.

• Released a $25,000 grant to Penn State to help underwrite the milk quality work of Extension Dairy Specialist Sid Barnard.

• Gave green light to a film documentary on Pennsylvania dairy farmers by Filmspace Inc., State College. Primary audience will be public TV and schools. "It could be our most effective public relations effort," board chairman Jim Harteis thought. Price tag was $92,450, to be paid over two fiscal years. Production starts this spring.

• Found themselves without a Penn State football broadcast deal for 1987. Contract with TCS Sports was void when Penn State decided this spring to handle all radio broadcasts and forego television syndication of home games.

On hjand with a new proposal was radio and TV coordinator Dean Jordan of Penn State with a $46,700 proposal. The money was right but not some of the fine points, board members concluded. They asked a final look at the May 18 meeting.

Dairy Board Votes $25,000 For Penn State Research

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvania State University lost its bid last month for a nationally funded dairy research center but not the local research dollars pledged by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

"A check for $25,000 will be in the mail this month to further milk quality research at Penn State," according to Board Chairman Jim Harteis, Ebensburg.

The Cambria County dairyman said the grant was part of the money originally budgeted for the proposed center.

"This is our vote of confidence in Penn State's Food Science department and its world renowned research team," he added. Harteis also asked Penn State to propose other research projects for board consideration.

The Ebensburg farmer heads a board of 21 dairymen who oversee Pennsylvania's advertising, promotion and research program. It is financed by over 4,000 dairymen.

A joint proposal by Penn State, University of Maryland and Virginia Tech University was one of 12 considered by the National Dairy Promotion Board.

Six were selected late last month, with the national board voting to establish a Cornell/University of Vermont Center in the Northeast. Each center will be allocated $2.7 million per year for five years.

Berks, Linganore Teams Win DVC Dairy Judging Contest

DOYLESTOWN — A Berks County 4-H'er posted the highest scores of all contestants to win the 4-H division of a recent dairy judging contest.

Doris Stump received a total score of 374 points out of a possible 400 points to lead the Berks County A team into the winner's circle as the high 4-H team. The team posted a total score of 1,034 points. At the contest sponsored by Delaware Valley College, Stump netted 94 points out of a possible 100 points for two sets of oral reasons to garner the trophy for high individual reasons.

Also on the Berks County A team, coached by Jerry Krone, were Duane Stump and Darryl Hoch. In the FFA division, Joe DeLong of the Solanco FFA chapter scored 84 points out of a possible 100 to receive the award for high individual reasons. Dwight Stoltzfus of the Twin Valley FFA chapter recorded a total of 356 points to place as the high individual overall in the FFA contest.

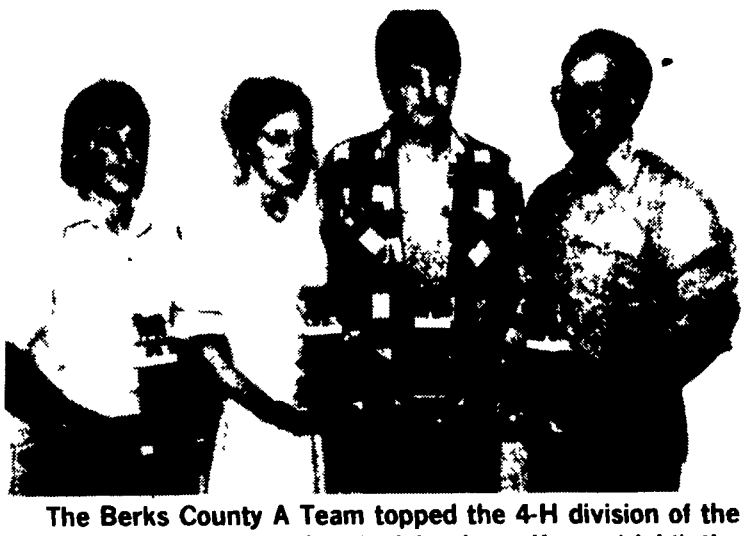
The Linganore FFA chapter from Maryland ranked as the highest team with points of 1,040 to win the FFA team division of the contest. Coached by Thomas Hawthorne, team members included Regina Williams, Troy Moxley, Sonny William and Yancy Stephens.

Twin Valley ranked as the second high FFA team with a total score of 974 points.

The Lebanon I team placed second in the 4-H contest with a total team score of 1,021.

Angie Lang of the York County team received 361 total points to place second overall in the 4-H division. Karen Shontz of the Burlington, N.J., 4-H team placed as the second high individual for reasons with a score of 88 points.

The awards for second high FFA individual overall and for reasons went to Regina Williams.



The Berks County A Team topped the 4-H division of the dairy judging contest. Coached by Jerry Krone (right) the team included Darryl Hoch, (left), Doris Stump and Duane Stump.

Order 2 Milk Set At $11.92 For March

NEW YORK — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during March 1987 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $11.92 per hundredweight, 25.6 cents per quart; the price for the corresponding month last year was $11.50 per hundredweight. Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson stated that the price was $12.42 in February 1987. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan removed 20 cents per hundredweight from the dairy farmers' uniform price for March, a total of $1,995,181.66. Deductions will continue through June and will be returned in the August through November uniform price calculations.

A total of 15,025 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 997,590,830 pounds of milk during March 1987. This was a decrease of 5.3 percent, about 55 million pounds, from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $122,266,163.93. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers used 397,146,426 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.8 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For March 1987, handlers paid $14.25 per hundredweight, 30.6 cents per quart, for Class I milk compared with $13.37 a year ago.

The balance, 600,444,404 pounds or 60.2 percent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. Handlers paid $10.98 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For March 1987, there was a price differential of 15.8 cents for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

sylvania is keyed to a lot of things. But agriculture is extremely important in that development. By helping agriculture, you are going to have a snowball effect on the rest of the economy. That's why we are concentrating on the value-added idea of agriculture enterprise. We have been working very closely in PDA almost on a daily basis with the Governor's office to try to get acceptable amendments to the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act," Crawford said. "The Governor is very interest in seeing that the producers get a program that they can live with and provide ample protection for them as well as make possibilities for promotion.

"We are also looking at the animal health initiatives. In the very near future, we hope to fill the avian influenza specialist position in the department. That position was left vacant during the two major AI outbreaks. We don't want that to happen again. Of course, we are involved in working through the pseudorabies problems for hog producers, too," Crawdford said. "We have met with producers to get their imput."

One philosophy that comes directly from Secretary Wolff is that farmers already have enough debt and shouldn't be encouraged to take out more loans even if they are so-called low-interest loans. As a member of the farm credit board, Secretary Wolff has seen first-hand what can happen when farmers get themselves extended too far. He feels agriculture loans should not come through PDA at this time.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT FOR PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURE

"While some farm problems are universal, Pennsylvania farmers have been insulated from many factors driving the farm crisis of the midwest," Crawford said. "The future of agriculture in Pennsylvania lies in our ability to capitalize on those factors that have protected Pennsylvania agriculture from the farm crisis."

—small family farms average 150 acres (US average=437)

—87% of PA farms have annual gross sales of less than $100,000

—farms here are more diversified than large one-crop operations that face difficulty in parts of the US

—PA farmers rank highest in the nation in mushrooms, and among the highest in apples, peaches, pears, grapes, eggs, chickens, and dairy

—58,000 PA farm families live and work in a rural population of 3 3-million people

—income from off-farm employment exceeds net family farm income

—PA farms are close to NE markets

"Accordingly, the future of Pennsylvania agriculture lies in our ability to aggressively market a diversified list of quality products and in our ability to promote state of the art efficiency, good management and planning techniques, to utilize all available on-farm resources, and to tailor production to consumer desires."

"While recognizing the need to coordinate effort with other government agencies and the academic community, it is the intent of the Administration to make PDA the catalyst for agricultural development initiatives," Crawford said.

We prepare to establish an Agricultural Development Data Base. Up-to-the-minute data is a critical factor in any program planning initiative. PDA needs the ability to access and utilize correct information in a usable form. Thus we propose to establish and continually update a comprehensive data base which will be used to aid in processing facility site planning, market development, vertical integration, and promotional program targeting. Such a data base would include such factors as digitized soil samples, climatic conditions, distribution systems, alternative crops, and other elements unique to agriculture. The data base will also offer information on rural infrastructures, education, and health services and will provide significant assistance to agri-entrepreneurs interested in locating or expanding in the Commonwealth.

It is recognized that much of this information presently exists, but we intend to enhance its quality and insure entrepreneurs who need it get data at speeds only computers can provide.

The data base will also fuel PDA's enhanced export efforts. The recent accomplishments of PDA's Export Division graphically illustrate the advantages of a computer-based system. The PDA Export Division was established over three years ago, yet no foreign buyers were recorded as of the beginning of FY87. With new direction, the Export Division has developed a computerized international marketing data base to expedite the availability of product and exporter information to foreign buyers. As a direct result accounts from foreign buyers for Pennsylvania agricultural products went from 0 to 400....in nine months.

In addition, the new PDA program calls for an agri-entrepreneur development fund. The PDA proposes a matching grant program that will take advantage of the value-added nature of the farm economy. While ag accounts for 1 in 5 jobs, 1 out of 5 persons is not employed on the farm. They are employed in farm supply businesses, processing plants, warehouse distribution centers and restaurants. At present, PA has no concentrated effort to encourage the growth of these value-added factors.

*Very little red meat consumed in the northeast is processed east of the Mississippi

*While there is a great demand for PA hardwoods, the raw product is shipped to plants in North Carolina to be made into furniture and shipped back for sale. There are 300,000 private woodlot owners in PA. In addition to domestic markets, there also exists an untapped foreign demand for hardwood.

*In the past three months, PDA has been made aware of several groups or individuals interested in expanding or locating just such value-added facilities in PA. For example:

— 1 firm located in NY because PA couldn't compete with the package offered by NY.

— 1 was referred to a local Chamber of Commerce.

— 1 was referred to a local Industrial Development Committee

— 1 was given a brochure of state contracts.

PDA, actively working with the EDP, is now attempting to "rescue" three out of the four above referenced examples, but this illustrates the need for a program within PDA. We intend to work with the Response Team to include within a package such ingredients as job training, retraining, etc.

The third proposal is to enhance animal waste utilization PDA proposes to provide financial incentives to farmers interested in turning a problem into an opportunity Simply put, to provide matching funds to encourage on-farm development of technology for alternative uses or redistribution of manure

The animal intensive nature of ag throughout Pennsylvania requires an alternative to traditional practices. Alternatives include:

— composting
— cogeneration
— digestors
— incinerators (87% volume reduction)
— redistribution to manure deficient areas

"It is not our intent to replace existing programs, but to compliment them, emphasizing marketability of animal waste for nutrient deficient areas, or as an energy source," Crawford said.

Thinking about cutting production costs? If so, why not consider putting more acres into no-till. And when doing it, why not use MVP, the Most Valuable Pair new GRAMOXONE® SUPER herbicide and LI 700!

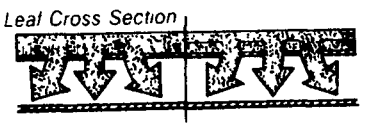
GRAMOXONE SUPER paraquat at its best! The herbicide that makes no-till possible GRAMOXONE SUPER burns down weeds in no time, every time whatever the weather! When using the MVP no-till approach, you have nothing to lose and everything to gain your soil, moisture and added income!

LI 700 is the New Generation Surfactant from Loveland Industries LI 700 penetrates the defenses of plants and powers GRAMOXONE SUPER into the weeds faster. The MVP team ensures a complete kill because of the swift absorbtion of GRAMOXONE SUPER and LI 700 It's rainfast within 30 minutes!

Why pay more for a herbicide that's this effective and easy to use? This Most Valuable Pair is very economical So while you're cleaning up your fields, you'll also be cleaning up your bottom line with the MVP

HOW LI 700 WORKS...

Leaf Cross Section



LI 700 contains technically superior agents which drive pesticides through the natural protective barriers of the target weeds (hairy and waxy surfaces) This rapid penetration along with uniform coverage and the increased contact activity of the herbicide with the weed results in a greater absorption of the herbicide into the weed thus giving a more complete kill

GRAMOXONE SUPER is a restricted use pesticide

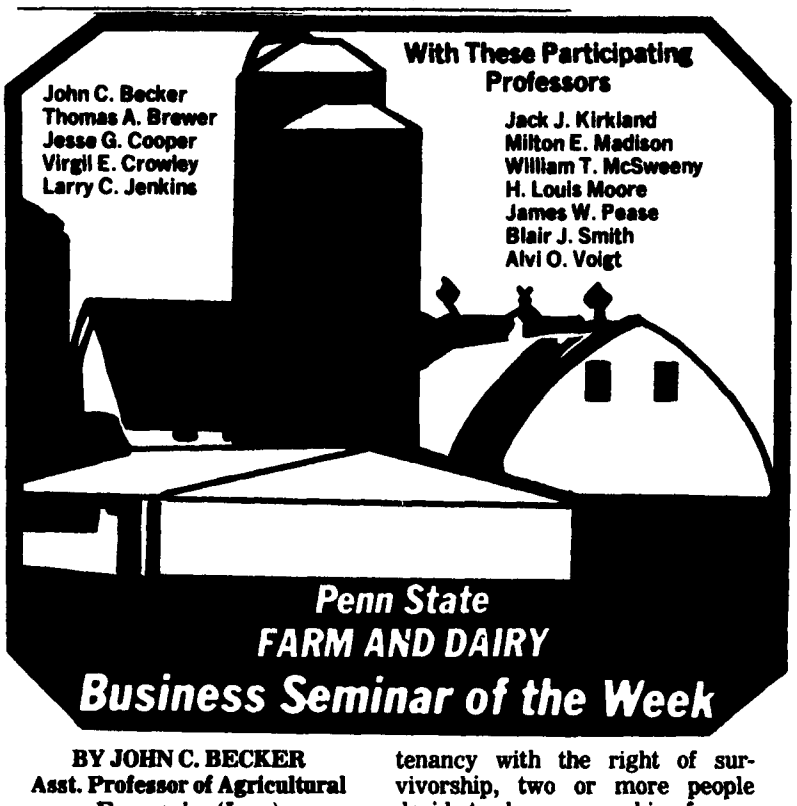
Garden Spot Wins FFA Land Judging Contest

Dr. William Fredd (center) explains land judging scores with the FFA students participating in the Lancaster County FFA Land Judging Contest Wednesday at Roger and Donnie Wenger's Farm at Sporting Hill.

In the team placings, Garden Spot was first followed by Penn Manor and Ephrata. In the individual placings, Dean Wenger from Garden Spot was first followed by Sharon Zimmerman, Ephrata, and Duane Hess, Penn Manor. Manheim FFA Chapter was this year's sponsor of the event.



BY JOHN C. BECKER
Asst. Professor of Agricultural Economics (Law)

During a recent series of Extension estate planning meetings held throughout Pennsylvania I tried to focus some of my discussion on helping people to understand what would happen to their property if they never got the chance to complete the estate plan they said they'd complete, "when I got around to it." This is a very important question since it highlights the application of laws dealing with jointly held property and intestate distribution in Pennsylvania. In many situations this discussion makes people realize that certain decisions, or the failure to make decisions, will affect the transfer of their property. In this article I would like to examine these areas to help you understand them and determine whether the result they create is acceptable to you.

Joint Ownership of Property

In regard to the concept of jointly held property, two farms are involved, joint tenancy with the right of survivorship and tenancy in common. In a joint tenancy with the right of survivorship, two or more people decide to share ownership of some item. The interest of each owner is equal to the interest of each other owner and their interests arise at the same point in time. There can be two or more joint owners, but each owner's interest is equal in amount to each of the other owners. No single owner has a greater ownership share than the other owners.

John C. Becker

The unique feature of this type of ownership form is the fact that at the death of one of the joint owners, each of the surviving joint owners will receive an equal share of the portion owned by the decreased owner. For example, if a joint owner died owning a one-third share of a particular piece of property, the two remaining joint owners who survive will divide the one-third share equally among themselves and increase their shares from one-third to one-half. This transfer of ownership occurs automatically because of the legal effect given to the form of ownership that the owners chose when the property was acquired. Even if deceased joint owner had prepared a will that gave all of the owner's property to some other person, the surviving joint owners will acquire ownership of the property as a will does not control the transfer of ownership of jointly owned property when one of the joint owners dies. Therefore, it is important to keep in mind that a will is effective only in regard to property that is owned separately by the person who prepared the will.

If the joint owners are legally married to each other, the owners have a special form of joint ownership, known as tenancy by the entirety. In this form, the same type of automatic ownership transfer occurs at the death of one spouse and survival by the other spouse. When a transfer occurs at the death of one spouse, there is a difference from the situation that prevails at the death of a joint tenant with the right of survivorship and this difference invloves the application of Pennsylvania inheritance tax. The transfer from a deceased spouse to a surviving spouse under a tenancy by the entirety is not subject to Pennsylvania inheritance tax. A transfer of property from a deceased joint tenant to surviving joint tenants is subject to inheritance tax on the fractional share passing to the surviving joint owners. Since the rate of Pennsylvania inheritance tax depends on the family relationship between the person who receives the property and the person who died, this tax could be as much as 15 percent of the value of the fractional share that passes.

A second form of joint ownership is known as a tenancy in common. In this type of situation, the shares of each joint owner need not be equal to the share of all other joint owners, although they often are equal. There can be any number of owners in such a relationship and new joint owners can come and go during the time the property is owned. This is a substantial difference from the joint tenancy with right of survivorship that requires the interest of all joint tenants to be created at the same time.

Commission Requests Consumption Study

WASHINGTON — Citing an urgent need for a comprehensive explanation of the recent increase in dairy product consumption, Clyde Rutherford, chairman of the National Commission on Dairy Policy, requested the United States Department of Agriculture to analyze the causes for the increase in consumption.

"Explanations of the upward trend in consumption are numerous. Expanded dairy product promotion efforts, increased real consumer income, lower employment rates, decreased prices for dairy products and changes in dairy product prices compared to other food groups are among the reasons cited for the increase," Rutherford said, in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng. "The commission has been unable to locate a comprehensive analysis of these and other influences on the apparent change in the demand for dairy products."

Rutherford went on to say that the commission is determined to produce recommendations and findings which will be useful to the Secretary of Agriculture and Congress and that a study of consumption trends and influences is an essential part of the commission's work.

Between 1984 and 1986, USDA has estimated that the commercial disappearance of dairy products has increased by 10 percent. In 1987, USDA estimates that commercial disappearance will increase another 2 percent.

EASTER LAMB COMES HIGHER THIS YEAR—Shoppers will have to pay more for the lamb for their Easter and Passover feasts this week. How much more may depend on the extent to which stores feature the holiday favorite at bargain prices. Prices paid to farmers for their lambs are running $15 per cwt. higher than a year ago.

Al Keating, director of the American Farm Bureau Federation livestock department, said sheep and lamb numbers on Jan. 1, 1987 totaled 10.3 million head, up 3 percent from 9.98 million a year earlier. But, said Keating, that was the first upward movement in sheep numbers since 1982. The sheep industry has not fully recovered from heavy losses suffered in summer drouths and winter storms of the early 1980s.

Lambs have been selling exceptionally well in the spring markets and prices of finished cattle and hogs have been strong for several months as well, Keating said.

FARMERS LEAVING LAND LEAVE DEBT BEHIND—Lenders are often left holding the bag when a farmer-borrower quits. According to a recent study by North Dakota State University, only 38 percent of farmers who quit paid all of their debts. Thirty percent of the total debt of quitting farmers went unpaid with the Farmers Home Administration the biggest loser. FmHA carried 51.5 percent of the unpaid debt burden. Commercial banks lost only 8.8 percent of the total unpaid debt, unsecured creditors were stuck for 10.8 percent of the losses while the Federal Land Bank losses amounted to 20.8 percent of the total debt. Those farmers who did not pay all of their debt when they went out of business held average unpaid claims of $123,000.

The odds are heaviest against an unsecured creditor recovering his money from a farmer going out of business. The study said 77 percent of obligations owed to unsecured creditors were not repaid by the debtor who quit. The study also showed that most of the farmers who quit within the last five years began farming in the 1970s, a period of rapidly escalating land values and high interest rates. Most farmers who are still operating started prior to that period.

A MARKET OPENING EFFORT—When U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng and Trade Ambassador Clayton Yeutter go to Japan this week they will be carrying the hopes of U.S. farm groups for more open markets with our Asian trading partner. Spokesmen for the National Cattlemen's Association, the Feed Grains Council and the American Farm Bureau all expressed hope for an end to the frustrations of market restrictions. Paul Drazek, international trade specialist with the American Farm Bureau Federation, said that although no major breakthroughs are expected of this mission, the Japanese are worried about changing attitudes toward trade restrictions.

Meanwhile, two days before leaving for Japan, Yeutter visited an Aurora, Illinois Caterpillar, Inc. plant where he was applauded for recent success in holding South Korea's feet to the fire on a deal to buy excavators from the Illinois-based firm. Korea had threatened to set back the opening of their market to the U.S.-made machines for two years. Yeutter intervened to convince the Souuth Koreans to maintain their original timetable. As a result the firm has sold eight excavators to Korea and has orders for more.

EVENTS SPUR TRADE TALKS WITH JAPAN—Just as U.S. Agriculture Secetary Richard Lyng and Trade Ambassador Clayton Yeutter are about to leave for Japan to talk trade comes the news that our February trade deficit plunged to $15.06 billion, the third worst monthly result in history, lagging only Jan. 1986 and last November's deficit.

What does this mean to U.S. agriculture? "It will affect agriculture if the perception in the U.S., especially among members of Congress, is that the way to address the problem is through import controls across the board," said Paul Drazek, international trade specialist for the American Farm Bureau Federation. "There's always the risk in taking such action, thereby resulting in retaliation against U.S. agricultural products." He said if we have a trade deficit of $168 billion then the deficit of the industrial sector is about $174 billion because we still have a trade surplus in agriculture.

Another pressure point is the retaliatory duty on imports of Japanese semiconductors recently imposed by the U.S. because Japan is dumping the product on our markets, and elsewhere around the world, at prices under the cost of production.

Lyng's trip and trade talks were planned before the duty was announced by President Reagan, "but the timing will be very good to encourage discussions of open markets instead of restrictions," he said.

Lyng and Yeutter said American farmers are losing patience with the idea of free trade with Japan. "American farm groups have resisted protectionism because Japan has been a good customer for U.S. farm products, but that public support for free trade with Japan is waning very, very rapidly," Lyng told a press briefing yesterday.

Yeutter said the main objective of this trip is to "get a wholehearted commitment from Japan to participate fully in the Uruguay round," of the long-term global trade talks under way in Geneva. "We will not have a successful trade round in Geneva if Japan sits on the sidelines," Yeutter said.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL FORMED---U.S. Agriculture Secretary Lyng has appointed 30 people to a National Advisory Council on Rural Development. The council will advise the USDA secretary on rural development activities and policies. Co-chairmen are

Guernsey Breeders Complete Plans For Convention

BY MARTHA J. GEHRINGER

MERTZTOWN — Dairymen from across the nation will converge on Pittsburgh for Memorial Day weekend. The draw will not be Fireworks or other Memorial Day festivities, instead they will be attending the national convention of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

In the thick of the convention preparations is an unassuming Berks County Guernsey breeder. William Zollers, Mertztown, has been serving as the general chairman for the event. "I'm happy I can do this for the Association," he said. Quick to credit others, he added, "There are a lot of people in the state association who have chipped in."

Pittsburgh, "city with a smile," is the host city for the convention which runs from May 22 to 25. The Sheraton at Station Square will be the host hotel for the convention.

The theme for the convention is "Guernsey heaven in '87," Zollers noted. Highlights of the convention include educational seminars, the business meeting, the Cow and National Heifer Sale, the National Guernsey Queen Contest, and the first national youth convention.

The seminars will run four times, twice on Friday and twice on Saturday, Zollers explained, "so everyone has a chance to hit all of them."

One of the seminars will feature a discussion on Johnes Disease by Dr. Robert H. Whitlock of the New Bolton Center, Kennett Square. The New Bolton Center has been conducting extensive research on Johnes for the past several years.

Doug Wilson of 21st Century Genetics will talk about promoting the breed inwardly and outwardly. Zollers noted, this seminar will offer tips for selling Guernseys to fellow breeders and those who raise other breeds.

The third seminar will focus on handwriting analysis and will be presented by Louis P. Ciancio, Pittsburgh. Ciancio is a certified handwriting analyst who will talk about and demonstrate this analysis by taking writing samples from the group.

Beginning on Friday, May 22, the convention begins with the continental breakfast at 8 a.m. and registration opens at 8 a.m. A continental breakfast opens each day, Zollers noted.

At the 11:30 luncheon Friday, the Mayor of Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, and the Sheraton Hotel Manager will welcome convention-goers to the Pittsburgh, the state, and the hotel, Zollers explained.

Saturday's lunch will feature speaker Pat Leimbach. She is a farm wife humorist from the Midwest. Leimbach has written two books — A Thread of Blue Denim and All My Meadows. She is a very enthusiastic speaker who can relate to everyone in the audience, Zollers said.

In the afternoon an open forum is slated.

Following a craft auction which will feature antique milk bottles, the Cow and National Heifer Sale is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday evening.

Sunday, after a short church service in the hotel, buses will leave for tours of three Washington County Guernsey farms — Co-Hill Farms, Elsview Farm and Twin Brook Farm. At the last stop, John Marchezak's Twin Brook Farm, the group will have a barbecue lunch.

Zollers said the committee plans to have a relaxing day on Sunday. The evening will feature the youth banquet and the crowning of the new National Guernsey Queen.

Monday morning begins with the annual business meeting. The membership will receive the results of the vote on by-law changes and a name change from the American Guernsey Cattle Club to the American Guernsey Association. Two area directors and one director at-large will be elected at the annual meeting. At the noontime luncheon following the annual meeting, awards will be presented.

Youth Convention

A totally independent youth convention is planned to coincide with the regular national convention. "We want to try and get as many youths as possible involved," Zollers said. "We have a good, strong youth division in Pennsylvania and we thought this would be the place to start the youth convention," he added.

Friday afternoon the youth convention begins with the dairy bowl competition. The convention chairman anticipates good representation from across the country.

Two suites of rooms have been reserved for the youths. For $15 per night, youths may bring their sleeping bags and stay in these suites.

Saturday morning Dennis Wolff of Pen-Col Farms, Millville, will tell the group about getting involved, the benefits and how to go about it.

In the afternoon the group will travel to Kennywood, the roller coaster capital of the world. A pool and pizza party is planned for the evening hours.

Sunday when the farm tours conclude at Twin Brooks, the youths will participate in Ag Olympics. These Olympics will test their skills in such favorites as hay throwing, tug-of-war, and, Zollers noted, cow chip tossing is also a possibility.

In the evening they will hold their youth banquet. Here the National Guernsey Queen will be crowned.

Monday morning the group will attend the youth annual business meeting. Zollers said that one topic to be considered will be forming a national youth organization.

In addition to the event on Sunday, the committees have planned other relaxing items on the agenda.

The Gateway Clipper sails Friday night at 7. Convention-goers will have an night of dinner and dancing on the Clipper as it threads its way up the river next to the Sheraton at Station Square.

Saturday evening a square dance is planned for everyone.

Zollers explained the finance commitee attempted to minimize convention costs by selling exhibitor space, having meal sponsors, selling ads in the convention program, having youth sponsors, contributions for distribution of company literature, and outright contributions. Because of the response to these items, Zollers noted, "We can have a reasonably priced convention."

Convention Chairman William Zollers checks his notes on the upcoming national Guernsey convention slated for Pittsburgh, May 22 to 25.

Evolution of a Chairman

The convention program was the original vehicle which drew Zollers into planning for the convention in January 1985. At the Farm Show that year the first organizational meeting for the 1987 convention was held. He volunteered to chair the displays and souvenir booklet committee, Zollers explained.

From there he was invited to a finance committee meeting. The committee members decided to have Zoller chair the committee which would determine how to raise funds for the convention. A contributing factor to this decision was the idea that the booklet would be a prime money raiser.

This move lead to an invitation in September 1985 to sit in on a steering committee meeting with Ruth Ann Johns and Janet Harding Ruslavage. Johns and Ruslavage had already selected Pittsburgh as the site for the convention at this point. "The next thing they told me was 'you be the chairman and we'll assist you.'"

He noted that last year he attended the national convention in Illinois. "There's where we put most of the program together," Zoller recalled.

"Everyone was involved. There were a lot of great ideas that came out too late," he noted. "I almost wish we could have another convention to use some of these great ideas," Zoller commented enthusiastically.

"Everyone pitched in. Without them it wouldn't have come together. Nothing is going to stop us now," he said.

Guernsey breeders from across the state have contributed to the planning of the convention. The committee chairmen for the event are:

Transportation and tours, John Marchezak Sr.; dairy bar/hospitality, David Lash; registration, Jean Celestine; program and meals, Janet Harding Ruslavage; mall promotion, Albert and Marian Hack; and youth program, Patty McMurray.

Also Queen contest, Millie Linde Widmann; decorations, Eileen Moore; cattle sale, William Cannon; sale ring decorations, Elsie Wolff; ladies program, Lee Ann Marchezak; craft auction, Louise Witmer; history, Vaughn Moore; and publicity, Alisa Fava.

Zollers anticipates over 400 adults and 150 youths will attend the four-day convention.

Anyone interested in more information on or attending the 110th national Guernsey convention should contact Zollers at Longsdale Drive, Mertztown, Pa., 19539, 215-682-7880, or the state association in Waynesboro at 717-762-3301.

Registrations are needed by May 7.

The Local also elected a delegate, Issac S. Huyard of New Holland, and an alternate delegate, Luke Ray Zimmerman, to represent local farmers at cooperative business meetings.

Fills your bins, fits your harvest

Get better yields and more convenient harvests, one crop after another, with Pioneer® brand soybean seed.

You can plan for a smoother harvest with Pioneer® brand soybean seed varieties that mature before, between or after your corn harvest.

And you can get extra bushels from your soybean acres when you plant Pioneer soybean seed.

Control your harvest schedule – ask your Pioneer sales representative about the Pioneer soybean seed varieties that fit your harvest, 'cause they're the beans that fill your bins. And that can make a big difference for you.

THE DIFFERENCE.
Pioneer® brand soybean seed

This new late group II variety has become a leader almost overnight. You'll find the extra yield potential displayed by 9271 can really make a difference in your operation. 9271 matures one or two days later than 2480 and consistently outyields the competition by one or two bushels per acre. 9271's excellent emergence, lodging resistance, Phytophthora Root Rot tolerance and very good shatter resistance give you the extra performance it takes to make a good soybean crop a great soybean crop.

3981

Your bin is bound to be a little fuller next fall when you plant 3981 this spring. Over the last three years, 3981 has outyielded all competitive varieties in this area by an average of 2.6 bushels per acre in 139 comparisons. What's more, this late-Group III variety performs well in all row spacings, has excellent standability and shatter resistance, very good emergence, and excellent field tolerance to Phytophthora Root Rot along with good resistance to Bacterial Pustule.

Here's a variety that's proven itself to be different from the others. On 56 on-farm comparisons in this area, 9441 outyielded the strongest by an average of 1.4 bushels per acre. And with strong emergence, excellent field tolerance to Phytophthora Root Rot, resistance to shattering and very good standability, 9441 not only makes a difference in yield, it also performs better in the field. See for yourself. Plant 9441.

many honors such as being named the outstanding club in the United States as awarded by the American Dairy Sciences. While at Penn State, Dr. Sweeney worked in the department of dairy and animal science as an assistant professor of dairy science. He was also an academic advisor for dozens of dairy production undergraduate students and seven graduate students. His other responsibilities included coaching the Penn State dairy judging team and teaching an undergraduate dairy management course for nondairy students and a graduate level class in rumen function. Currently Sweeney is employed as a nutritionist with the development and technical service group for Eastman Kodack headquartered and Kingsport, Tennessee. His specific duties include providing on-farm technical service in the midwest area of the United States and maintaining Eastman's liaison with the universities and corporate feed company's throughout the company.

Jeffrey Harding is this year's recipient of the Young Dairy Award. This award is relatively new and is given each year to a recent graduate who has remained involved with the Dairy Science Club. Harding is a 1981 graduate of Penn State with a B.S. in dairy production. Harding's involvement with the students includes the Nittany Lion Fall Classic Spring Holstein Sale in Harrisburg and the spring judging contest. Harding joined the staff of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association in 1985 as a director of sales and merchandising. Before this, he was a farm manager for Maplevale Farms at Brookville.

On Saturday the judging of the 62nd Penn State Dairy Expo begins at 8 a.m. in the Ag Arena on campus. And Saturday's activities conclude at the expo awards banquet.

Buyout Report Update

WASHINGTON — An estimated 6,900 head of dairy cattle were slaughtered in federally inspected plants during the week ending March 27, as a result of the Dairy Termination Program, the U.S Department of Agriculture announced Wednesday.

This total includes all cows, heifers and calves identified as dairy animals designated for disposition in compliance with the program requirements.

The cumulative total of cattle slaughtered under the program from April 1 through March 27 is an estimated 1.05 million head.

The purchases of meat in addition to normal purchases are to help offset the effects of the DTP on the domestic meat market. The cumulative purchases, reported biweekly as of April 10, total 377.3 million pounds. For the two-week period ending April 10, the government purchased 359,843 pounds of meat.

Dairy cattle reported for export under the program for the period April 1 to April 10 totaled an estimated 55,650 head. A total of 204 head were exported during the week ending April 10.

Alfred State Students Win In Canadian Judging Contest

ALFRED, N.Y. — Two Alfred State College students emerged as international champions by placing first in the recent Canadian Intercollegiate Agricultural Judging competition in Guelph, Ontario.

Eric L. Sickles of Gainesville, a freshman animal husbandry major, was crowned champion dairy judge in the contest which involved 16 teams from Canada and the United States, including entries from such four-year colleges as Michigan State and Ohio State.

Another Alfred State international champion was Daniel N. Greenwald of Barker who led all contestants in draft horse judging. Greenwald is also a freshman animal husbandry major.

A third prize winner for the Alfred entry, which was coached by professor Lee LaRochelle, was Daniel R. Porter of Randolph who was named reserve champion in draft horse judging. He is a senior animal husbandry major.

In class judging, Greenwald was first in Jerseys, goats and draft horses, while Sickles was first in Holsteins.

Alfred had two teams entered, with the quartet of Porter, Sickles, John Donnelly of Alden, and Karl Covert of Farmersville Station placing third overall in livestock judging and 11th overall in crop judging.

Alfred's other entry of Greenwalt, Richard Kostrzebski of Perry, Scott Dingle of Waterford, Pa., and Richard Kralj of Meadville, Pa., was 13th overall in crop and 14th overall in livestock judging.

The competition was a stockman's contest, with entrants required to judge nine crop classes and nine livestock classes. Contestants also had to give oral reasons for their selections and had to take an agriculture-related quiz.

Vintage Versus Feds

William Mitman Jr. questioned the constitutionality of BPRA. While the federal government has enacted other similar self-help programs for other commodity groups, Mitman pointed out that most had been approved by a producer referendum before being instituted.

Moreover, said Mitman, the fact that beef producers had voted down two previous attempts to institute checkoff programs indicated that, in all likelihood, the current program does not enjoy grassroots support from a majority of producers.

"We don't see any rational basis for putting the burden of funding on the farmers alone," said Mitman. "All of the participants in the beef industry (including meat packers and retailers) are coming along for a free ride."

While Mitman conceded that Congress is empowered to regulate commerce, he stressed that there must be a legitimate basis for the regulations. There is no basis, he said, for the assumption that BPRA will improve the beef industry's economic picture.

But Judge Cahn countered this argument by pointing out that the program's validity was not an issue for the courts to decide. He pointed out that, although a taxpayer may have disagreed with helping to finance the war in Vietnam, he had no legal right to refuse to pay his taxes.

Department of Justice attorney Gail Walker argued that the courtroom was no place to debate the merits of the checkoff program. The issue here, she asserted, was Vintage's "clear and flagrant" violation of a federal statute.

She added that, while it was true that the nation's cattlemen had not given the program their stamp of approval, they did have the option not to participate by requesting a refund. She also argued that collecting checkoff funds from the producer was the logical approach, since producers would be the ultimate beneficiaries, and that collecting from all other segments of the industry would be prohibitively burdensome from an administrative standpoint.

Walker said that in failing to collect checkoff funds for the first seven months of the program Vintage had the unfair advantage of reaping the benefits of the program while not helping to finance it. According to government estimates, Vintage owes $56,000 in uncollected funds. That figure increases by about $2,000 a week, Walker said.

As the plaintiff in the case, the government seeks to collect all checkoff monies in arrears and to prevent Vintage Sales Stables from operating a cattle auction without complying with the checkoff program. Judge Cahn called for a recess without ruling on the case, but Mitman was optimistic. He noted that the fact that the judge had not dismissed a request for an injunction to halt the national beef promotion program indicated that Vintage had not lost the battle.

At the conclusion of the hearing Pennsylvania Beef Council president Paul Heffner said auction compliance with the program has been "fairly good." He said two or three other auctions in the state are "on the fence," waiting for the outcome of the Vintage case before making a final decision on whether or not to comply with the program.

Heffner said that although some opposition has been voiced by dairymen, no states have mounted a coordinated effort to seek a dairy cow exemption to the checkoff.

The PBC head said the veal industry is apparently divided on the issue. While dairymen selling so-called "bob" veal calves (predominantly dairy bull calves less than two weeks old) are opposed to the checkoff, other farmers in the business of feeding calves specifically for the veal market have for the most part approved of the program.

Kathleen Lawrence, USDA undersecretary for small community and rural development, and Iowa farmer Hal Manders, a 40-year member of Farm Bureau.

A NEW SAFETY USE FOR SOYBEANS—A light treatment of stored wheat with soyoil may virtually eliminate grain dust explosions, says an American Soybean Association researcher. David Erickson, director of technical services for the St. Louis-based ASA, said there is need to control dust and soyoil fills the bill with no traces of bad results. The experiments to test for harmful effects have turned up none and the idea has the approval of the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Grain Inspection Service. Some commercial elevators have been using the procedure and report no problems. Erickson said the required amount of soyoil is only about a teaspoonful per bushel of wheat and can be applied in a fine spray. Use of soyoil to suppress dust on wheat being stored would use approximately 200 million pounds of soybean oil. That translates into over 18 million bushels of soybeans. "It's not a large market, but it is an important one," said Erickson.

DISPLACED FARMERS PROVE ADEPT AT OTHER JOBS—The study of displaced farmers by North Dakota State University found that 61 percent of the farmers who quit farming found a new job in less than three months. The study also showed that almost a third of the dislocated farmers found other work without seeking help from any of the agencies that offer transition assistance. A third of those who did seek assistance found it through the state job service and 18 percent contacted a county social service office. "Also significant is that 43 percent of those relocating used none of the programs designed to help farm families forced out of farming," said Arlen Leholm, extension agricultural economist at NDSU.

Local Dairy Group Tours The Netherlands

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Members of the local dairy industry have just completed a seven-day tour of the Netherlands. The trip included a look at the new technologies being used in the country's dairy industry as well as visits to local dairy farms and plants. The tour was coordinated through the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, taking place during the last week of March.

The focus of the tour was the Netherlands dairy industry, including visits to the Coberco Zuivel dairy plant, the Baars cheese plant and the Waiberhoeve Experimental Farm. These locations provided insights into the similarities and differences between dairying in the United States and Holland.

At the Coberco plant, the tour was able to view the latest in computerized dairy storage systems. The plant at Coberco has installed the world's first high-rise milk storage plant, developed by Eltend Engineering. The system provides for maximum use of available floor space by using a vertical storage system. Because it's also computerized, it requires no labor, pallets, forklifts or carts during storage and order picking. The system handles over 900 orders per day.

The Coberco Cooperative is the largest dairy cooperative in the Netherlands. Its membership consists of over 11,000 farmers, and it has 20 plants operating within the country.

Another tour was conducted at the Baars cheese plant, one of the Netherlands most modern facilities. This plant also uses the Elten storage unit, using a first in, first out inventory system which is 36 shelves high. The group enjoyed having the opportunity to meet with the person who invented the Elten system.

The group also conducted a tour of the Waiberhoeve Experimental Farm. This is the Netherlands major research institute for cattle, sheep and horse husbandry. There are five dairy units at the facility, with each operating as an independent farm. They contain variations in terms of herd size, milking, feeding and housing systems. Researchers examine the optimal conditions for running each type of farm.

As part of the trip, the tour group was given an overview of the dairy promotion program which operates within the Netherlands. Each farmer contributes approximately 12 cents per hundredweight. Although the program is voluntary, there is strong support and a participation level nearing 100 percent. A variety of products, including cheeese and milk are advertised. The theme for milk is "Milk, The White Engine."

The tour group included 58 members of the New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania dairy industry. Participants included dairy farmers, dealers, retailers and the farm press.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council plans to make the tour an annual event. Plans are already underway for next year's trip. For further information contact ADADC at (800) ADA-MILK (in New York) or (800) HOT-MILK (in Pennsylvania and New Jersey).

Gardner Named President

ULYSSES.- Lewis Gardner of Galeton was elected president of the Galeton Local of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative at a recent meeting here at the Country Cottage, Eastern Director George R. Fuller announced.

Other officers, also elected to one-year terms, are: Stanley Brubaker of Westfield, vice president, and Ivan L. Kibbe of Harrison Valley, secretary/treasurer.

The Local also named Gardner and Brubaker as delegate and alternate delegate, respectively, to represent local farmers at cooperative business meetings.

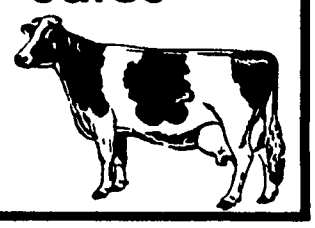
Major Dairy Sales And Dispersals Nationwide



Reports from 11 sales for the week of April 8 to 13 averaged $1,462.88 on 944 head. The top prices ranged from $23,100 to $1,100. The sales were held in Wisconsin, Vermont, Canada, Georgia, Iowa, Massachusetts, Virginia and New York.

Prices from two sales held in Canada have been converted to the equivalent American dollar value.

Here is a brief look at the results of the sales this week.

AYRSHIRE

The 26TH GRENVILLE-DUNDAS SPRING SHOWCASE SALE held in Ontario averaged $1,119.60 on 38 head.

A record top price for the sale came on a September 1986 heifer. The Superior daughter sold for $3,600.

Her dam by Bonnie Brae Kellogg classified Good Plus. She completed her first lactation over 15,000 milk with a 4 percent test. Her BCA for milk and fat stands at over 200.

The next dam produced five records over 200 BCA for milk. She produced a top record of 18,000 milk. All of her lactations were between 15,000 and 18,000 pounds of milk.

A bid of $3,312 came on an April 1986 heifer by Woodland View Pokey, the son of "Polly." She won All-Canadian status six times.

The second high lot's dam classified Good. The next dam classified Very Good.

Sale manager Neil Kittle noted the average exceeded last year's record by $255. He cited a strong sale line-up as the reason for the increase. Kittle selected for the sale and noted he chose animals with records over herd average and a classification over Good Plus.

Hugh Fawcett handled the auctioneering assignment.

The VERMONT SUGARIN' TIME SALE averaged $678.51 on 57 total head. The seven cows averaged $829; 20 2 and 3 year olds averaged $786; 20 bred heifers averaged $700; six open heifers averaged $350; and four calves 6 months and under averaged $271.

Topping the sale with a bid of $1,100 was a fresh 2 year old by Hi Inspiration.

Her dam, by Victory, produced a top record of 15,260 milk and 637 fat. The next dam completed a high record of 14,762 milk and 633 fat as a 9 year old.

The top bred heifer sold for $1,050. She is by a son of Royal Welcome and due in May to a Sycamore Meade bull.

Her dam and second dam produced a two records over 17,000 milk.

Sale manager Tom Whittaker noted the heifers bred for fall brought almost as much as the fresh cows. Bred heifers sold for twice as much as open heifers, he commented. At the sale he said "there was a great feeling of optimism about the future of the Ayrshire breed and the dairy business than was evident for quite some time."

GUERNSEY

The JENSGOLDEN SPRING CONSIGNMENT SALE held in Wisconsin averaged $1,389 on 32 females.

An unborn female embryo by Fayette, due in October, topped the sale with a bid of $4,000.

Her dam, an EX-93 Quantity daughter, produced a high record of 19,448 milk, 1,198 fat with a 6.2 fat test, and 717 protein with a 3.7 test. She has lifetime credits to 105,241 milk and 6,148 fat in 2,352 days.

A 3 year old sold for the second best price of $2,400. Sired by Jamaica, the VG-84 cow sold open. She completed a first calf record of 13,307 milk, 576 fat, and 473 protein in 272 days. Presently she is producing 100 pounds of milk per day.

Her dam has production credits to 14,400 milk.

JERSEY

The CROWE-BAR FARMS COMPLETE DISPERSAL held in Georgia averaged $1,276.09 on 160 total head. An average breakdown shows 88 cows averaging $1,600.28; 24 bred heifers averaging $1,146.88; 48 open heifers and calves averaging $746.35.

Topping the sale was a 4-year-old cow by Top Saint selling for $9,250. Classified EX-93, she produced a 3-year-old record in 365 days of 16,990 milk and 986 fat with a 5.8 test. She will freshen again in September to Mayfield Favorite Blossom-ET.

She was the reserve grand champion at the Georgia Dairy Day Show in 1986. She owns a MCD of plus 1,534 milk, plus 203 fat, and plus $423.

Her dam, an EX-90 Volunteer Bruce daughter, produced a high record of 16,060 milk and 681 fat in 305 days. She carries a MCD of plus 2,135 milk, plus 63 fat and plus $219.

The daughter of the sale topper sold for the second best price of the day at $4,000. The January 1986 heifer was sired by Top Brass.

An EX-90 cow netted the next high price of $3,900. The 5-year-old Black Magic carries a MCD of plus 1,862 milk, plus 154 fat, and plus $358. She completed a top record of 17,570 milk and 928 fat in 308 days.

Her dam, VG-87, produced a top record of 15,970 milk, and 815 fat in 291 days. The next dam classified EX-93 with production credits to 15,650 milk and 684 fat.

Sale manager W.R. Lutz Jr. reported 38 buyers came form 13 states. The Crowe-Bar herd ranked fifth in the nation for milk and second for fat in the 75-cow category. The 1986 rolling herd average stood at 15,271 milk and 745 fat on 75 cows.

The herd breakdown showed 10 Excellents and 44 Very Goods. Herd owner Robert Crowe, who assembled the herd four years ago, died last year. His widow, Sarah, attempted to keep the herd going, however, after with her recent bout with cancer, she decided to disperse.

Lutz noted the demand for good cows remains strong in the South. He auctioneered the sale with his son Rusty Lutz.

The MID-STATES FASHION REVUE XII and MID-STATES HEIFER SALE held in Iowa posted a total average of $1,688.95 on 61 head.

The Fashion sale averaged $1,930.17 on 29 cows. Topping the sale with a bid of $4,300 was a 4 year old by Golden Faithful. The show-type cow was never tested or classified. She was fresh two months and producing 60 pounds per day.

The heifer sale averaged $1,470.31 on 32 head.

Leading this portion of the sale was a junior yearling by Golden Faithful and selling for 6,300.

Her dam, an EX-90 Babes Master cow, completed a top record of 14,443 milk and 788 fat. The third dam classified EX-90 with records to 14,350 milk and 704 fat. The next two dams classified Excellent.

One cow sold under $1,000; 16 head sold over $2,000. The sale was steady and consistent, sale manager Norman Nabholz reported. The sale attracted new Jersey buyers and Holstein breeders interested in increasing the protein content of their milk. He noted the Iowa area prices milk on a protein basis.

Henry Bartel served as auctioneer.

HOLSTEIN

The PAPERMAN COMPLETE DISPERSAL held in Ontario averaged $1,434.24 on 195 lots.

A 7-year-old cow sired by Sheik sold for $4,464, the high price of the sale. Classified Very Good, she produced a top record of 19,956 milk and 924 fat in 360 days. She will freshen in October to Starbuck.

Her Unique dam classified Very Good and produced a best effort of 22,000 milk with a 4 percent test.

A just-fresh 2 year old by Enhancer sold for the next best price of $4,248.

Her dam, a Very Good Triple Threat daughter, has credits to 14,678 milk and 622 fat. The second dam, sired by Marquis, classified Excellent with records to 1,080 fat.

A spokesman for the sale manager, Shore Holsteins International, noted it was a strong sale particularly on milking-age females which sold for over the $2,160 mark. He noted there has been a strong demand for milking-age females in Canada for the past six to eight months.

Robert and Hardy Shore served as auctioneers for the sale.

The KOW KOUNTRY KLASSIC held in Wisconsin averaged $2,034.29 on 70 total head.

A 4 year old, sired by Tradition topped the sale with a bid of $3,450. Classified VG-85 EX-MS, she completed a top record of 24,530 milk and 838 fat in 365 days.

Her dam, an 89-point Prince Lad daughter, produced a top record of 20,240 milk and 811 fat in 360 days.

A bred heifer by Quickshot sold for the next highest price of the sale, $3,400. Her dam is an 88-point Valiant daughter with an incomplete record of 26,974 milk and 1,183 fat in 239 days.

Keith Stump served as auctioneer and Alvin Piper Associates managed the sale.

The NORTH AMERICAN SPRING SHOWCASE SALE held in Massachusetts averaged $1,900 on 87 lots.

Topping the sale with a bid of $9,000 was an unborn female embryo by Chief Mark due in June.

Her dam, a VG-88 4 year old sired by Bell, produced a top record of 31,749 milk and 1,388 fat.

Control Gully Erosion

The melting snow and resulting runoff have cut gullies into unprotected fields, according to Karl Hellerick, Soil Conservation Service. If you can see erosion, you have a serious problem and have lost over ten tons of soil per acre. Eroded drainageways should be shaped to be crossable and seeded to grass. The Penn State Agronomy Guide has seeding recommendations using fescue and perennial ryegrass or redtop.

Often grassed waterways need subsurface drainage to carry the prolonged flow from seeps, road culverts or developments. SCS provides technical assistance and there is cost sharing from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office.

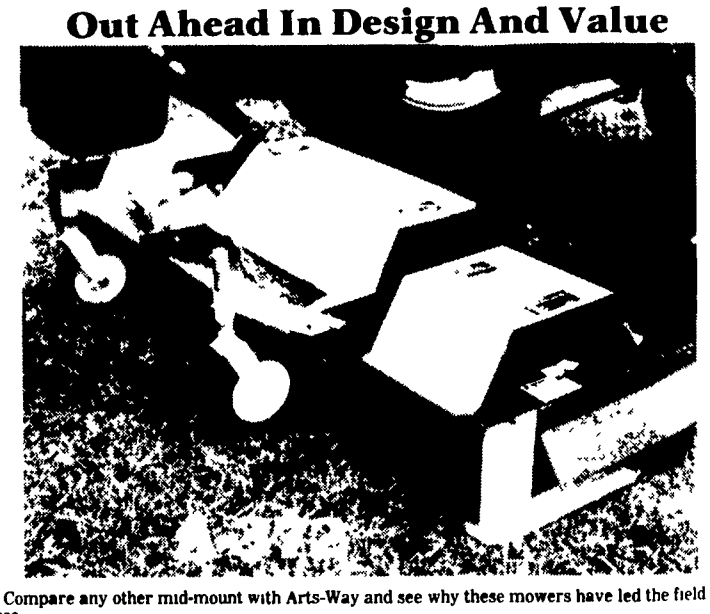
ARTS-WAY

MID-MOUNTS

Out Ahead In Design And Value



Compare any other mid-mount with Arts-Way and see why these mowers have led the field since 1939

Arts-Way uses a separate power belt between tractor PTO and the mower's drive pulley, with a second belt to drive the three blades This 2-belt system eliminates the need for belt twisting, prolongs belt life, makes tension adjustments and belt changing easy (Compare with some makes that use a single belt turning and twisting around as many as 7 pulleys and PTO)

Other features: 7-gauge steel decks ■ High-suction, drop-design blades for a smoother cut ■ Full 1" diameter machined spindles with Timken roller bearings top and bottom ■ Sealed bearings on PTO idler pulleys ■ Puncture-proof semi-pneumatic tires ■ Designed for side, rear or front-PTO drive tractors up to 49 HP ■ Cutting height adjustable from 1" to 5" ■ One-Year Limited Warranty.

And Arts-Way mid-mounts fit a wide range of tractors from the newest models (including imports) to old farm favorites See your dealer for a complete list

She owns a Cow Index of plus 1,920 milk, plus 100 fat, and plus $270 with a CTPI of plus 1,147.

The next dam, a VG-88 Arlinda Chief, produced a high record of 24,260 milk and 1,062 fat in 365 days. The next two dams classified Excellent with records to 33,230 milk and 24,350 milk.

A 7-month-old calf by Chief Mark sold for the next price of $5,000.

Her dam, a VG-88 Bell, carries a Cow Index of plus 1,774 milk, plus 68 fat, and plus $210 with a CTPI of plus 901. She has production credits 28,879 milk, 1,045 fat, and 882 protein.

The second dam, a VG-87-GMD by Elevation, completed a top lactation of 27,951 milk and 1,031 fat.

Auctioneer A. Bruce Whittier noted the sale was slightly stronger than last year. Milking cow and bred heifer, anything which will generate cash flow, sold well, he commented.

Pioneer Valley Sales managed the sale.

The LONGHURST FARMS DISPERSAL held in New York averaged $1,020 on 100 head.

Topping the sale with a bid of $2,300 was a just-fresh 3 year old. The 76-point Bell daughter produced a 269-day record of 15,268 milk and 601 fat. She owns a Cow Index of plus 1,474 milk, 52 fat, and plus $166. There was stud interest in this individual.

Her dam, a GP-82 Ford daughter, is projected at 31,000 milk and 1,100 fat in her current lactation.

The second highest price of $1,700 came on a 4 year old by Sexation. Classified VG-85, she completed a first-calf lactation of 15,672 milk and 685 fat in 306 days.

Her dam, an EX-90-2E Modelmaker daughter, owns a lifetime record of 107,590 milk and 4,213 fat with a top of 19,380 milk and 778 fat in 304 days.

Owner John DeLong decided to disperse to reduce his herd to a manageable level of 20 cows and some heifers.

The WINDCREST SPRING SHOWCASE SALE held in Virginia averaged $1,503.96 on 53 adult animals.

Topping the sale with a bid of $4,000 was a 2-year-old daughter of Valiant. Fresh in January, she produced 74 pounds of milk on her first test.

Her dam, an Excellent Elevation, owns two records over 1,000 fat. The next three dams classified Very Good.

The second high price of $3,000 came on a 3-year-old Bell daughter. Classified GP-83, she will freshen in May to Caprie. In her first lactation she produced a record of 17,891 milk and 723 fat. She carries a Cow Index of plus 1,392 milk, plus 49 fat, and plus $156.

Classified GP-82 GMD, her dam produced a best effort of 29,480 milk and two records over 1,000 fat.

Denny Remsburg served as auctioneer and Norman Hill read pedigrees. Remsburg Sale Service managed the sale.

RED AND WHITES

The NINTH INTERNATIONAL SPRING RED AND WHITE SALE held in New York averaged $2,047 on 91 head.

A bid of $23,100 on the fresh 6-year-old cow, Golden-Harvest C Olou-Red-Twin, topped the sale. Classified EX-92, she sold with a red contract and pregnancy guarantee. Her high record, in 379 days, stands at 31,234 milk and 1,399 fat. She won best udder and grand champion honors at the Southern New England Showcase. At the previous day's show, she captured grand champion honors.

Her dam, an Excellent Triple Threat daughter, completed a best effort of 21,860 milk and 879 fat in 365 days.

Selling at the next high price of $5,800 was the dry 3-year-old, Marlu Garcon Poppy-Red. The EX-91 cow completed a first-calf lactation of 24,350 milk and 882 fat in 365 days. She was due to freshen in May to Kid-Red.

Classified Excellent and sired by Triple Threat, her dam recorded a high lactation of 25,420 milk and 971 fat in 365 days. She owns lifetime credits of 132,230 milk and 4,984 fat.

The next dam, GP-81, has records to 18,580 milk. The fourth and fifth dams classified Very Good.

"The is the best sale we've had in years," said John Carpenter, of the Red and White Dairy Cattle Association. The sale averaged over $1,800 without the top seller, he noted. Very few animals sold under the $1,000 mark. About half of the sale consisted of open heifers and calves, Carpenter said.

Don Albrecht, David Rama and Jack Treadway served as auctioneers. The Cattle Exchange and the Red and While Dairy Cattle Association managed the sale.

Honey Brook Local Elects Officers

HONEY BROOK — Fred G. Seldomridge of Gap was elected president of the Honey Brook Local of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative at the Local's recent annual meeting here in the Grange Hall, Eastern Director Daniel W. Fox of Ephrata announced.

Other officers, also elected to one-year terms, are: Leon F. Ebersol of Narvon, vice president; Linda Seldomridge, of Gap, secretary, and Amos K. Ebersol of Honey Brook, treasurer.

The Local also elected a delegate, Elvin Martin of Kinzers, and an alternate delegate, Fred Seldomridge, to represent local farmers at cooperative business meetings.

Gehl® answers your haycutting needs

Self-propelled, swing-frame, pull-type or disc— you're sure to find the mower conditioner that's just right for your crops and field conditions in Gehl's full line. And because a Gehl® is designed simply yet efficiently, you'll get higher production for less cost.

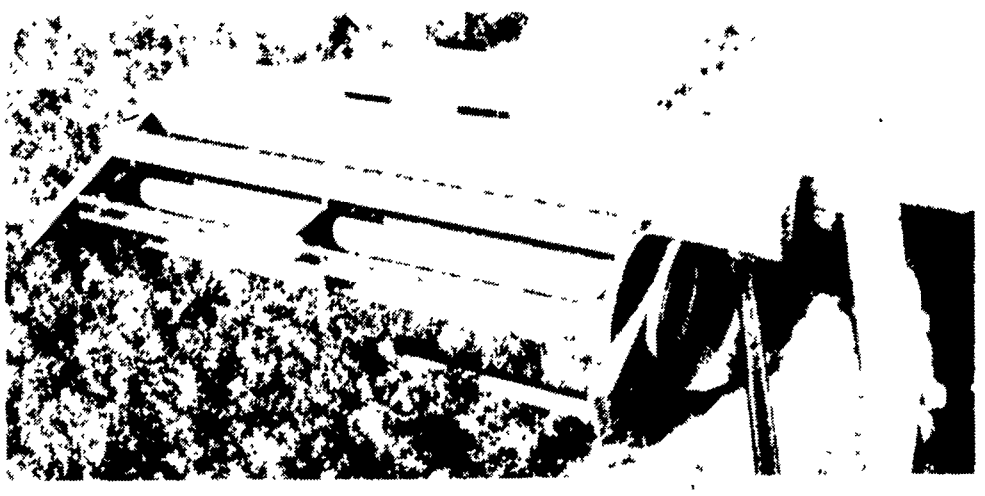
Innovation pays off

Take a look at the newest addition to the Gehl line—the 2170 with a cutting width of 9 ft., 3 in. This pull type mower conditioner is built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing-ribbed rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. Gehl also has a model 2140 with a 7 ft. cutting width.

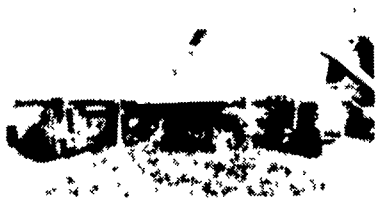
Cost savings add up

You'll save with the built-in efficiency of a Gehl. The simple pivot-arm sickle drive on the 2170 is virtually maintenance free — no costly wobble-box to maintain. And, the header hugs the ground, thanks to the 3-point flotation systems.

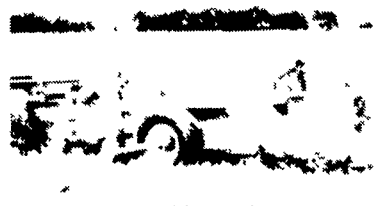
Gehl's full line includes two pull type, two swing-frame, a self-propelled, and three disc mower conditioners. Ask your Gehl dealer for a demonstration, and find out why Gehl mower conditioners are today's performance leaders. Gehl Company, West Bend, Wisconsin 53095



Self-propelled mower conditioner features state of the art drive system and unmatched cab comfort. 14½ and 16½ ft. auger headers available.



Center-pivot swing-frame mower conditioners deliver big capacity with outstanding maneuverability. Choose from 12 or 14 ft. cutting widths.



Disc mower conditioners feature non stop cutting and conditioning in the toughest hay crops. Three models range from 7 ft. 9 in. up 10 ft. 6 in. cutting widths.

Handle Easter Eggs Safely

HARRISBURG – The egg can be eccentric at Easter time unless you know the secret in handling them. Just a few simple rules will insure edible and beautiful Easter eggs without making a disaster area of your kitchen.

The secret begins with the boiling or rather — hard cooking — of the eggs. To prevent breakage while cooking, begin with eggs that are four or five days old. Be sure they are room temperature before cooking.

Cover eggs in a pan with enough water to come at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to a boil and turn off the heat. If necessary, set the pan off the heating element to prevent further boiling. Cover and let eggs stand in the hot water for 15 minutes. Then cool them immediately in cold water. This makes the shell easier to remove and helps prevent dark surfaces on the yolks.

A few tips for dying eggs, which can be helpful whether you are using a "home brew" or commercial dips. If the dye seems weak and does not penetrate as well as expected, often it is caused by the oiled surfaces of the egg.

To increase the dyeability of the egg, reduce the amount of water and increase the amount of vinegar. Cold water may be used, but hot tap water will prolong the life of the dyes. A simple homemade dye can be prepared by placing 1-3 teaspoons of food coloring into 4 tablespoons vinegar and ⅓ cup hot water. Do not use aluminum containers during the dyeing process, as they counteract the dye process.

Sub-Regional Dairy Hearing Schedule Revised

WASHINGTON — Sub-regional hearings will be held in Ft. Wayne, ..., on June 16 and in White River ..., Vermont in August, ...ording to Clyde Rutherford, ...irman of the National Com... ...sion on Dairy Policy. The ...rings were to be held May 6.

"I am pleased that the Senate ... approved a one year extension of the commission's charter. The House of Representatives approved the extension on March 3 and, now that both chambers have given approval, we can get on with the commission's work," said Rutherford, noting, "The commission is grateful that we were able to reschedule our hearings in Indiana and Vermont."

The Ft. Wayne hearing was originally scheduled to be held in Indianapolis, but was changed to accommodate dairy producers from southern Michigan, northern Indiana, Ohio and Illinois. The commission will set a definite date for the Vermont hearing at its regional hearing and meeting in Syracuse, N.Y., May 4 to 5.

Rutherford pointed out that one of the key objectives of the commission is to gather testimony indicating the views of milk producers from around the country.

"The members of the commission believe that we must hear from as many dairy farmers as possible," he said, "We would also like to know the views of processors, distributors and handlers of milk and dairy products."

Other regional and subregional hearings to be held include; Atlanta, Georgia; June 1, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; June 3, Denver, Colorado; July 13, Dallas, Texas and Springfield, Missouri; July 15.

The commission has conducted hearings in Sacramento, California on March 2 and in Hudson, Wisconsin on April 6.

Specialty Vegetables Promising

Highly- perishable specialty or "gourmet" vegetables offer promise for increased commercial production in some areas. Before planting one of these crops, however, a grower must be sure that specific retail, wholesale, restaurant or processing markets exist.

Promising perishable crops are asparagus, Belgium endive, dandelion (blanched), greens (collard, kale, mustard, turnip and tyfon), herbs, oriental vegetables, red leaf lettuce types, romaine lettuce (red and green types), scallions, snap beans (small sieve, harvested less mature), snap peas, snow peas and sweet corn types with enhanced sugar and high quality.

Less perishable types that offer promise are bok choi, Chinese cabbage, endive and escarole (blanched), garlic (pink skin), leeks, pak choi, red radicchio, rhubarb, sweet onions and sweet potatoes (moist-types with unusual colors).

Miniature or baby vegetables which can be grown are beets (harvested less mature), carrots (finger types), cucumbers (harvested less mature), eggplant (Little Fingers type), Jersey Golden acorn (immature with blossom attached), pickling corn, snap beans (small sieve harvested less mature), and summer squash (immature with blossom attached).

Get a copy of The Pennsylvania Commercial Vegetable Production Guide (cost: $5.00) at the local County Extension Service Office, for more information on commercial vegetables.

House Extends Life Of Dairy Commission, Modifies Conservation Rules

WASHINGTON — The House gave final passage on April 9 to legislation extending the life of the National Commission on Dairy Policy and modifying soil conservation compliance rules for alfalfa producers, Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee announced.

The bill, as initially adopted by the House, had included only the extension of the dairy commission. The Senate added the conservation amendment in action last week and the House, accepting the Senate amendment, has now completed Congressional action on the legislation.

Under the conservation amendment, a farmer who had planted alfalfa on highly erodible land between 1981 and 1985 as part of an approved rotation practice would be eligible to use the land for price-supported crops in 1987 if he has submitted a conservation plan approved by a local soil conservation district. In such cases, under the amendment to a 1985 law designed to discourage plowing up fragile land for production of row crops, the producer would have until June 1, 1988, to comply with the conservation plan.

The dairy section of the bill extends for one year – until March 31, 1988 – the deadline for a report to the administration and Congress by the National Commission on Dairy Policy which was created by the Food Security Act of 1985 to study the future outlook for dairy policy. It was directed to look into areas including the current milk support system, possible alternative programs for the future, the impact that developing technologies may have on the dairy industry in years to come, and the future structure of the industry.

The 1985 Act required the Commission to report to the Secretary of Agriculture and Congress by March 31 of 1987. But de la Garza and Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Tex., chairman of the subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy and Poultry, explained that the original deadline could not be met because the Commission's members – dairy farmers from all sections of the country – were not appointed until late last year.

De la Garza said the extension has the support of members in both parties. He said passage of the legislation will "help make sure that this commission can give careful and thorough study to proposals that will be important in helping Congress plan for the future of the dairy industry."

Easter Celebrants Will Deplete Colorful Blooms Cultivated At Lost River Orchids

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

STRASBURG — Growing orchids for commercial sale is not an activity limited to Hawaii and other exotic sounding locales. Lancaster County boasts a greenhouse devoted entirely to raising orchids, and a step inside is like a visit to a South Pacific island.

Easter weekend will see the depletion of the thousands of beautiful flowers which have been blooming over the last few months. Easter is second only to Mother's Day in the demand for flowers, according to Pat Yohn who nurtures the beautiful flowers on a daily basis at Lost River Orchids, located on Millport Road east of Lancaster.

This is the first year for the greenhouse and commercial operation, but it grew from a hobby which began when David's parents visited Hawaii and brought back a plant for him. Since Pat and David's marriage in August, they rented the greenhouse and the business is now firmly established.

She does the day-to-day work of maintaining the more than 3,000 plants because her husband travels widely as a snack food consultant. Previously, she worked as a bank teller.

Through phone calls and taking samples to potential customers, Pat has built up a business with local florists. All flowers are sold wholesale, while plants can be purchased retail. Pat said the flowers are used mostly for floral arrangements. She noted that in the fall, they will have divisions of the plants available for sale.

Pat said it was difficult to decide how many plants they needed for the cut flower market. She added, "A lot of people have come in who have never grown orchids before."

The first season has been a learning experience for the couple, and it has meant adjusting to the conditions of the greenhouse, which Pat characterizes as a "cool house." Experience has also taught her where the drips are located.

A warm, dry February pushed the buds too fast on many of the plants, and caused the crop to come on before the market. She used the near-disaster as a marketing tool, delivering the flowers to potential customers.

She says many of the orchid plants in the greenhouse are in distress because of adjusting to the growing conditions, and because of the wide variety of plants growing in one greenhouse. She added that moving or shipping plants often causes stress because of varying temperatures and humidity.

Moisture and humidity are extremely important, and when the brilliant sunlight comes streaming in, Pat shows up at the greenhouse to make sure there is proper ventilation. When to water is a crucial decision, and is affected by the soil mix and the size or pot. Plants at the greenhouse range from seedlings to full grown.

Pat, who admits to being fond of other flowers besides orchids, speaks expertly about the orchids under her care, easily naming the exotic sounding plants. Part of her expertise comes through David and the seminars she attended with him, and part comes from experience on a daily basis. She says, "It has been a 'guess method' for me. I don't have a real green thumb." The beautiful, lush blooms belie her modesty.

Pat almost makes it seem as if anyone can grow an orchid. She insists that cymbidiums, the most commonly used variety, are not difficult to grow. Indeed, she says many varieties can be successfully grown in a home with no greenhouse or special conditions necessary.

She says, "Most orchids are fairly tolerant and the plants are not fragile." Nevertheless, she candidly admits, "Some are easy to kill. Some can die overnight." But, she adds, "Very few people can kill cymbidiums."

One reason few people grow them at home, Pat says, is "they grow so large. They are definitely the hardiest." In this climate they should be outside in the summer, but must be sprayed before being brought indoors for the winter.

Cymbidium orchids do not grow well in Hawaii although they like dampness and bright sunshine. The heat of the islands is too much for them, and the only place they can be found is high in some mountains.

The cymbidium remains Pat's personal favorite because they "get a lot of flowers and last a long time." Indeed, most orchids have long-lasting flowers, some blooms staying for up to four months.

Standard cattleyas take up a large share of greenhouse space. The lush large blooms are not only showy, but fragrant as well. Mini-cattleyas are equally popular, however, because of the smaller

Cymbidium orchids are perhaps the most frequently used variety and remain Pat Yohn's personal favorite because of their numerous flowers.

Cutting beautiful blooms is just one small part of the orchid business. Here Pat Yohn works with some of the smaller plants. Patience is required when working with orchids because many varieties take years to mature and bloom

Homestead Notes

These showy orchids are phalaenopsis, a variety which comes in a wide range of unusual color variations.

Lost River Orchids

size of the blooms.

Pat and Dave have found many local hobbyists who enjoy raising orchids, some of whom have small greenhouses. Pat remarks, "The hobbyists are usually men. Men seem to like gardening more than women. Most judges are men, and 65 percent of the Orchid Society members are men."

The Yohns are members of the Susquehanna Orchid Society, though Pat says that most major cities have their own Societies and hold their own judging. Some of their flowers have been shown successfully.

The Yohns have found that redwood or fir bark works best for them as the growing medium. The bark decomposes eventually and then the plants must be repotted.

She points out, "Some plants are very expensive to buy. It is a very expensive process to propagate — they must be propagated under sterile conditions. Some are very, very slow growing plants."

Some varieties can be successfully cloned. Pat notes, "David's favorite is the most expensive. The seed doesn't germinate well and it comes from areas in the world where the plants are restricted and cannot be taken out of the country."

Their orchid plants are purchased literally throughout the world, although some come from such commonplace areas as California, Florida and Chicago. Others are puchased from out of the country, including some from Holland, though Pat laments, "The Dutch are going into orchids in a big way. The growers are subsidized by the government, and they can grow them under light." This subsidy will mean a big advantage on the open market.

Though the blooms themselves are exotic, Pat finds the work very down to earth. She says, "It is hard work and dirty work. I cannot work with the bark and use gloves because it punches through." Consequently she works with her hands in the dirty medium, often getting splinters and stains.

She has also learned the need to dress warmly as she goes about her work in the greenhouse. Much of the work is done on gray wintry days, when the greenhouse does not generate a lot of warmth.

One aspect of the job that she doesn't care for is the need for using pesticides and fungicides. Pat says, "I have a healthy respect for them, and I don't like messing with them." Nevertheless, for healthy, productive plants, the chemicals are a necessary part of the process. Pat also sterilizes her cutting tool between each plant when there is danger of transmitting disease.

She has also gained a new appreciation for farmers. Having been raised in Lancaster County, Pat never spent time on farms, but compares her orchid growing to farming. She needs to worry both about too much sun and too little sun, and the humidity which affects the conditions inside the greenhouse. Pat says, "I really and truly would hate to have full fields. I would really worry. I have a new respect for farmers."

With one successful marketing season behind her, Pat will turn to cultivating the wide variety of orchids in the greenhouse and preparing for the next blooming season.

If you've enjoyed orchids as part of an Easter arrangement, they could be from Lost River Orchids. Lancaster County's only commercial orchid growers.

York Offers Homemaker's Day

YORK — Get some tips for "Looking Terrific at any age" at the Spring Homemakers Day being sponsored by the York County Cooperative Extension Service.

It will be held April 30 from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. at St. Matthews Lutheran Church. Tickets are $6.75 (includes lunch). Child care is available for a small fee.

Barbara Emergy, owner of "Looking Terrific," will show how the right accessories can reflect your personal style and "make" your outfits.

Other topics on the program are: Issues in Drinking Water Quality for Families by Mitch Woodward, project associate-Chesapeake Bay Project in southeastern Pennsylvania for Penn State University; and Rev. Elmer Horst, a cartoonist, will present a humorous narrative relating to the different stages of life.

Tickets must be purchased in advance by April 22 at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

There are many changes around our farm these days and I suppose this is only the beginning.

Our son, Philip, has decided to give up his job as a senior design engineer in Chicago and come home and form a partnership with his father. This was his ideas as we did not urge him to give up a good paying job.

Now he is in the process of moving furniture and belongings to Lancaster County. As soon as he finishes using the big trailer that we rented, his sister, Judy, will use it to haul her things to Georgia.

It seems that our family is in upheaval and I can't say that I like it. Keeping things the way they were was the easiest path. But as they say, "There is nothing so constant as change." So we will all have to adapt to the changes.

Thank goodness, there is lots of work to keep us busy and hopefully our minds off of our problems. The strawberry rows have sprouted their usual amount of weeds to be removed before they blossom, and the flower beds need attention too.

It is a bit too early to put the gladiolas, dahlias, Aztex and Persian lilies in the ground. But, I've cut potatoes and planted a 100-foot row. This is certainly not enough to feed us, but it will help out over the summer.

The men are busy hauling manure to empty the slatted-dam holding area. They plan to plant many strips to alfalfa this spring. Philip is repairing machinery and doing a lot of welding.

Only time will tell how this arrangement will work out on Manheimdell Farms — wish us luck.

Premium Pork Promotion

DES MOINES, Iowa — With boneless pork sales increasing daily, the nation's pork producers have decided to undertake the development and promotion of a standardized boneless premium pork cut.

Delegates at the 1987 annual meeting of the National Pork Producers Council in Indianapolis March 5, approved a resolution submitted by Iowa delegates, with support from Illinois, Texas and S. Dakota delegates, that would specify the standardized cut as "a boneless center cut chop, thickness of one-to-one-and-a-half inches, with a maximum trim of ¼ inch."

The NPPC was instructed by delegates to explore the possibility of registering the premium pork cut as a trademark.

Salads Aren't Just For Calorie Counters

As the warmer temperatures of spring replace winter's icy chill, heavy winter clothing is packed away. But if the new season's fashions reveal more bulges than you'd like, you still have time lose a few inches before bathing suit season arrives.

Salads, the dieter's staple, don't have to be boring. Lettuce, tomatoes and carrots are no longer are the only options in salad ingredients. A host of alternatives awaits the creative cook. Just take a look at the recipes below for a few ideas. Then, experiment on your own, combining the flavors that most appeal to you.

Even if you're not working to pare pounds, you'll probably want to take advantage of the fresh taste of salads!

GARDEN MACARONI SALAD
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon basil leaves
8 ounces elbow macaroni, cooked and drained
1 cup diced cucumber
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
¼ cup slices red radishes
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tomatoes, diced
2 tablespoons sliced scallions (optional)

Grace Reed
Chambersburg

BROCCOLI SALAD
1 large head broccoli
1 medium onion, chopped
½ cup raisins
8 to 10 slices bacon
¾ cup salad dressing
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar

Cut bacon in bits and fry. Mix with salad' dressing, sugar and vinegar. Pour over remaining ingredients and let stand 1 hour or more before serving. Easy to make and very delicious!

Mrs. Leon Musser
Manheim

ZESTY CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE SALAD
1 5-ounce can chunk white chicken
1 cup broccoli flowerets
1 cup cauliflowerets
⅓ cup sliced dill pickles
¼ cup cherry tomatoes, cut in half
⅓ cup bottled vinegar and oil salad dressing
Lettuce leaves

In medium bowl, combine all ingredients except lettuce leaves, stirring to coat well. Cover; refrigerate 2 hours to blend flavor, stirring occasionally. Serve on lettuce leaves if desired. Makes 3 cups or 2 servings.

TACO SALAD
1 head lettuce, torn up
1 onion, chopped
2 tomatoes, chipped
1 cup grated chese
1 pound fried hamburger
8 ounces taco or corn chips

Toss salad. Add slightly crushed chips last. Note: We omit the hamburger. Serve with dressing. Absolutely scrumptious!

Dressing
2 cups oil
2 cups sugar
¾ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup ketchup

Virginia LeAnne Musser
Manheim

LAYERED LETTUCE SALAD
1 head lettuce, torn
1 cup shredded carrots
1 10-ounce package peas (raw and frozen)
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup diced celery
4 eggs, boiled and diced
8 slices fried and crumbled bacon

Layer all ingredients in order in 9x12-inch pan. Mix 2 cups salad dressing and 1 tablespoon sugar. Spread on top as frosting. Sprinkle grated cheese on top. Cover and refrigerate 8 to 12 hours. Very good!

Krystene Lynell Musser
Manheim

SEASHELL TUNA SALAD
7 ounces tuna, drained and flaked
2 cups cooked shell macroni
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded colby or monterey jack cheese
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
½ cup plain lowfat yogurt
1 teaspoon dillweed
½ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients and chill. Serve on lettuce leaves. Serves 4.

CHICK PEA-CABBAGE SALAD
2 cups (1 pound can) drained and rinsed chick peas
6 cups cabbage cut in squares
½ cup green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
¼ cup onion, chopped
1 large clove garlic, minced

Mix ingredients well and add this salad dressing:
½ teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

SPINACH MUSHROOM SALAD
8 cups (about 1 pound) spinach, torn into bite-sized pieces
8 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 small tomatoes, diced
1 sweet green pepper, cut into strips

Quick Tomato Dressing
¼ cup tomato sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 anchovy fillets, finely chopped
2 scallions, sliced
1 teaspoon basil
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup olive oil

Combine all dressing ingredients in a bowl and mix or whisk well to blend. Drizzle over salad ingredients and toss. Serves 6.

GREEK STYLE ENDIVE SALAD
1 head of endive, washed and torn into bite-sized pieces
2 or 3 large tomatoes, cut up
1 green or red bell pepper, cored and cut into small pieces
1 cup cucumber slices
1 small sweet onion, sliced and separated into rings
⅓ pound feta cheese, broken into half inch pieces
18 Greek or Italian-style olives

Dressing: Whip together ¼ cup fresh lemon juice, ¾ cup olive oil and 1½ teaspoons dry (3 teaspoons fresh) oregano.

In a large salad bowl, layer the endive, tomatoes, pepper, cucumber, onion, cheese and olives. Cover and refrigerate to chill well. To serve, pour about ½ cup of the lemon dressing over the salad and toss lightly. Serves 6.

CITRUS WALDORF SALAD
3 medium oranges, peeled and sectioned
1½ cups chopped apple, unpeeled
2 teaspoons honey
½ cup lemon yogurt
½ cup chopped celery

Cut orange sections over a bowl, reserving the juice. Toss oranges and juice with apple and celery. Chill. Combine yogurt and honey. Stir into fruit. Serve on lettuce leaves if desired.

CARROT SALAD
½ cup bottled French salad dressing
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 jars (16 ounces each) whole baby carrots, drained
1 small green pepper, chopped (about ½ cup)
1 small onion, thinly sliced

Mix dressing, mustard and Worcestershire sauce in 2-quart bowl. Stir in vegetables until coated with dressing. Cover and refrigerate at least 8 hours but no longer than 48 hours.

COTTAGE CHEESE WITH VEGETABLES
16 ounces lowfat cottage cheese
½ cup carrots, shredded
1 teaspoon onion, very finely chopped
2 tablespoons green pepper, very finely chopped
2 tablespoons celery, chopped
½ cucumber, chopped
2 radishes, sliced
½ teaspoon pepper
Salad greens, as desired

Mix all ingredients except salad greens together lightly. Serve on crisp salad greens. Or, for variation, serve as a dip for crackers.

Easy to prepare and convenient for take-along lunches, this zesty chicken and vegetable salad features chunk white chicken and crunchy veggies.

SPRING SALAD BOWL
1 cup frozen or fresh peas
Boiling water
1 large head iceberg or romaine lettuce
1 small cucumber, thinly sliced
3 green onions, chopped
1 stalk celery, sliced

Dressing
¼ cup salad oil
3 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon oregano leaves
1/8 teaspoon black pepper
Salt to taste

In a medium bowl, place frozen or fresh peas; cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. In a large bowl, tear lettuce into bite-size pieces; drain peas and add to bowl with remaining salad ingredients. Prepare the dressing by combining the dressing ingredients in a cup. Stir with a fork to mix well. Toss salad gently with dressing to coat lettuce.

FRESH DAIRY SPINACH SALAD
Dressing:
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon dijon mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
Salad
7 cups fresh spinach, washed and torn
1½ cups cream-style cottage cheese
4 strips bacon, cooked until crisp, drained and crumbled
½ cup walnuts, chopped

Place spinach in salad bowl; top with cottage cheese, bacon and walnuts. Add dressing; toss lightly to coat spinach leaves. Serves 6 to 8.

Men are becoming increasingly interested in cooking chickens as evidenced by the number of male participants in the 37th national Chicken Cooking Contest. The recipe below was created by a former contest winner, Frank Mullin of Washington, D.C., who placed third last year. For more on this year's contest, turn to the story in this section of Lancaster Farming.

Teen's Easy Cheesey Chicken
4 broiler-fryer chicken breast halves
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
½ teaspoon thyme, crumbled
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons cooking oil
8 thin slices fresh tomato
1 egg, beaten
½ cup mayonnaise
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Parsley
Tomato wedges

In plastic bag, mix together flour, salt, pepper, thyme and cayenne pepper. Add chicken, one piece at a time, shaking to coat Place oil in 8-inch square baking pan; arrange chicken, skin side down, in single layer Bake, uncovered, for 30 minutes at 400°F Turn chicken and bake 10 minutes more. Place 2 tomato slices on each chicken breast. In small bowl, mix together egg, mayonnaise, Cheddar cheese, onion and Worcestershire sauce; pour over chicken. Bake about 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease and cheese is bubbly. Garnish with parsley and tomato wedges. Makes 4 servings.

Twin Valley FFA Chapter Honors Members, Friends At Annual Banquet

ELVERSON — Approximately 150 members, parents, friends and guests enjoyed the 22nd annual awards banquet of the Twin Valley FFA. The banquet, held in the high school cafeteria, featured a ham and roast beef dinner.

The Twin Valley chapter officers conferred the honorary chapter degree upon Mr. and Mrs. Gary Keenan, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stoltzfus, and Mr. Harvey Smith. The Keenans, Klines, Rocks, and Stoltzfus' are parents of 1987 Keystone Farmers, and Mr. Smith is a vocational consultant for the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

Naomi Herbert, state FFA sentinel, delivered greetings from the Pennsylvania FFA Association.

Chapter vice presidents Rick Hicks and Tom Morgan presented certificates of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Beiler, who have employed chapter members and donated eggs for our annual Ag Day Breakfast. Frederick McCoy, assistant principal of Twin Valley High School; Mr. and Mrs. Titus Beam; and Mr. and Mrs. William Beam, who have employed chapter members.

Certificates' of appreciation also went to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peachey, grandparents of president Kevin Stoltzfus, who have worked with him in developing his projects; Mary Jo Cancelmo, chairman of the Pa. FFA Foundation sponsoring committee; Blue Ball National Bank, for providing a scholarship for a chapter member to attend the National FFA Leadership conference last summer; and Goods Foods/Zooks Molasses for their support of our breakfast and for providing a Washington Leadership Conference scholarship.

Chapter advisor Ronald Frederick then presented FFA Foundation Awards, which signify excellence in a particular area. Awards presented were: ag electrification - Rich Hicks; ag mechanics - John Keenan, Dan Nonnemaker, and Duane Stoltzfus; ag processing - Bob Geedy; ag sales and service - Ann Kline; beef production - Kevin Stoltzfus; dairy production - Dwight Stoltzfus; diversified crop production - Rick Hicks; diversified livestock production - Butch Harrison; feed grain production - Sue Burkhart; floriculture - Shelly Suttle and Scott Richie; forage crops - Kevin Stoltzfus; forest processing - Bob Carlson; fruit production - Eric Marshall; home improvement - Doug Shantz; horse production - Marybeth Hassler; nursery operation - Marc Schnable; outdoor recreation - Mike Stoltzfus; placement in ag production - Rich Slonaker and Jeff Ortlip; poultry production - Troy Gieringer; extemporaneous speaking - Kevin Stoltzfus; sheep production - Bunny Hicks, Bob Bell, and Bob Amey; swine production - Mike Stoltzfus; public speaking - Tom Morgan; specialty production - Sue Wilson and Lisa Kimball; turf and landscape production - Rich Slonaker; and wildlife management - Steve Pavlesich and Eric Wisniewski.

Harvey Smith presented plaques to the chapter's 1987 Keystone Farmers — Ann Kline, John Foreman, John Keenan, and Kevin Stoltzfus. President Kevin Stoltzfus presented a Distinguished Service Citation to Omar Beam for his continuing support of chapter activities, especially the field corn test plot.

Advisor Ron Frederick presented trophies to those members who had won county and area contests. County project books trophies were presented to Lisa Kimball, Marybeth Hassler, Bob Amey, Mike Stoltzfus, Robert Bell, Tom Morgan, John Keenan, and Kevin Stoltzfus.

Gold state project books medals were awarded to Sue Burkhart, Mike Stoltzfus, John Foreman, and Bob Amey. Jason Albright received a silver medal. Bronze medals went to Tom Morgan, Marybeth Hassler, and Duane Stoltzfus. Bob Carlson and Dan Nonnemaker received honorable metnion awards.

Trophies were awarded to Rick Hicks, who won the livestock judging contest at both the Kutztown and Allentown Fairs. Other trophies were awarded to chapter members for their state contest placing — Beth Morgan, third in the state forestry contest; Sue Burkhart, third in the state interview contest; Mike Stoltzfus, eighth in the state livestock contest; Kim Brossman, state horse contest; Scott Burnett, state small engines contest; and Lauren Schwartz, horse juding contest.

A representative of the Berks-Lehigh Farm Credit office presented bond to Sue Burkhart, whose project book was judged district winner. Sue's project included market swine, field corn, and pumpkins.

Past chapter officers Gail Raser and Glenn Stoltzfus presented plaques to senior officers Ann Kline and Kevin Stoltzfus.

Mr. Frederick named the three chapter stars representing the best first year and senior members. Star Greenhand was Marybeth Hassler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hassler of Morgantown. Star Chapter Agribusinessman was Ann Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kline. Star Chapter Farmer was Kevin Stoltzfus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stoltzfus.

Senior officers Kevin Stoltzfus and Ann Kline introduced the 1987-1988 chapter officer team: president, Rick Hicks; vice presidents, Sue Burkhart, Kim Brossman, and Mike Stoltzfus; secretary, Rich Slonaker and assistant Bunny Hicks; treasurer, Duane Stoltzfus and assistant Chuck Stoltzfus; reporter, Dwight Stoltzfus and assistant Scott Richie; sentinal, Tom Morgan and assistant Lisa Kimball; chaplain, Bob Carlson and assistant Dan Nonnemaker; historians Sue Wilson and Bob Bell; photographer, Jeff Ortlip.

ANSWER- Dotty Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y , requested recipes for light macaroon cookies and for sweet pickled peppers canned with oil Thanks go to Ann Schofield, Medford, N J , and Mrs. Eugene Martin, New Holland, for the cookie recipes and to Doris Szmodis, Hellertown, for the canned peppers recipe

Merry Macaroons

2 eggs
¾ cup sugar
⅓ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2⅔ cups flaked coconut
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
Maraschino cherry halves, optional

Beat together eggs and sugar Fold in flour, baking powder and salt Fold in melted butter, vanilla and coconut. Fold in orange rind Drop by teaspoons on greased and floured cookie sheets Top each with cherry halves. Bake at 325°F for about 15 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. This recipe makes a light, chewy cookie.

Macaroon Kiss Cookie

⅓ cup butter or magarine
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
¾ cup sugar
1 egg yolk
2 teaspoons almond extract
2 teaspoons brandy
1¼ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
5 cups (14-ounce package) flaked coconut
1 9-ounce package chocolate kisses

Cream butter, cream cheese and sugar until fluffy Add egg yolk, almond extract and brandy, beat well Combine flour, baking powder and salt Blend into creamed mixture Stir in 3 cups of coconut Chill dough 1 hour Shape dough into 1-inch balls Roll in remaining coconut Place on ungreased cookie sheet and flatten with fork Bake at 325°F for 10 minutes Remove from oven and press a chocolate kiss into the center of each cookie Return tc oven for 15 seconds. Men Enter Cooking Contest

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A computer programmer. A doctor. A firefighter. A geographer/photographer. A remodeling contractor. What could men with these diverse occupations possibly have in common? The National Chicken Cooking Contest.

Nine men will don aprons to compete at the 37th Cook-Off May 13 through 15 in Jackson, Miss., for the top prize of $10,000. And the recipes they will prepare show a flair for creativity in the kitchen, with imaginative concoctions of chicken cooked with a variety of fruits, vegetables, cheeses, nuts and spices. Far from the traditional, the combinations created by the male finalists include Brie cheese and walnuts, cream cheese and apricots, vodka and lime, and cucumbers and yogurt.

Fifty-one contestants — one from each state and the District of Columbia — will compete for a total of $20,000 in prizes at the contest. The recipes will be judged by a panel of national food experts on four points — taste, appearance, simplicity and appeal.

Winners will be announced the evening following the contest at a special awards dinner. And if the last cook-off is any indication, the male contestants have a good chance of being among the winners. Two of the last five winners were men and two men have become national chicken cooking champions.

One of the nation's leading food events, the National Chicken Cooking Contest is sponsored by the National Broiler Council.

York County Seeks Dairy Princess Contestants

YORK — York County's dairy promotion committee is finalizing plans for the annual Dairy Princess pageant, scheduled for the evening of Saturday, May 30, at the 4-H Center.

Highlight of that program will be the crowning of the 1987-88 York County Dairy Princess by the county's current "first lady" of the dairy industry, Debra Kann.

Young women eligible to compete for York's Dairy Princess title should contact contest chairman Marge Rutter, 53 Lightner Road, York 17404, or call 848-8316. Entry deadline is April 27

Eligible young women must live in Pennsylvania. They must be the daughter of a dairy farmer, dairy farm manager or herdsman, or she must be a full-time employee on an operating dairy farm or own at least two dairy animals in a 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1, 1987.

She must also have completed her junior year of high school and not reach her 24th birthday by December 31, 1987. If a contestant is under 21, she must have her parents' or guardians' consent. She must be single, never married, have had no children and must not marry during her reign.

Contestants should present a wholesome healthy appearance and be of a weight recommended for her height. Winners must attend the Training Seminar July 7 through 9 at Shippensburg University to participate in the State Pageant. Former local winners and state contestants are not eligible. State contestants must be the winner of a local area contest

Armstrong County Seeks Dairy Princess Candidates

WORTHINGTON — The Armstrong County Dairy Princess Committee is seeking candidates to compete for the 1987 Armstrong County Dairy Princess title.

All single young women from Armstrong County who are between the ages of 16 and 24 and who are from a dairy farm background are eligible to compete for the title, says committee chairman Charlene Bundy.

The winner of the pageant, to be held May 16 at 8 p.m. at Lenape Vocational-Technical School, Ford City, will be eligible to compete at the state level for the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess title.

Thirty state princesses and hundreds of county princesses have served as spokesmen for the dairy industry in Pennsylvania. They appear in shopping malls, fairs, supermarkets and on radio and television to educate consumers about dairy products.

Any single young woman who has completed her junior year in high school, who is not over 24 years of age, never married and whose parents or guardians are engaged in dairy farming is eligible to compete. A young lady is also eligible if she is a full-time employee on an operating dairy farm or owns at least two dairy animals in a 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1, 1987.

The winner of the state dairy princess pageant receives $1,200 cash. The first and second runners-up will receive a $500 and $400 cash award respectively. The state title is honorary and will not interrupt school or regular employment plans.

Young women interested in entering the Armstrong County pageant should contact Charlene Bundy at R1 Worthington, 297-3034, by April 26.

Farm Women Visit Campbell Soup Plant

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

CAMDEN, N.J. — You would expect that a group of farm women from Lancaster County would take a trip to see how soup was made. And the expected happened last week when Farm Women Society #14 and some of their husbands, including this editor, went to Camden, New Jersey, to visit the Campbell's Soup Company kitchens and museum collection.

It all started in Strasburg when 42 persons boarded a bus for a time of comradery to the place where Campbell's soups are prepared, cooked, mixed, canned, boxed and shipped. The 20 miles of tin cans rushing in a line to get filled and capped made a loud rattling sound. Talking was almost impossible.

Campbell's Company began in 1869 in Camden where the ladies visited. Here one of its largest production facilities still exits. Adam Anderson and Joseph Campbell established a canning and preserving business which rapidly gained a reputation for quality food products. Now in its second century of continuous operation, Campbell has been best known since 1987 for its popular canned condensed soups, which began to be identified by the famous red and white label one year later. The familiar medallion, which has decorated labels of Campbell's condensed soups throughout the century, was awarded the company at the Paris International Exposition in 1900. The Campbell kids, another famous company trade mark, were launched in 1904 on a career that has made them among the most-widely featured and lovable characters in the history of American advertising.

During the 1920s, Franco-American spaghetti products were added to the Campbell line. The company's first foreign subsidiary, Campbell's Soup Company Ltd., was established in Canada in 1930. And the first overseas subsidiary, Campbell's Soups Ltd., was established in England in 1933. Since that time, more than 20 companies and 1,000 different items have been included under the Campbell Company name. Today company facilities are located in more than 90 locations worldwide making high quality convenience products for home and institutional use.

Many of the farmers on the tour last week remembered when Campbell bought produce and poultry from Lancaster County. Even the one tour guide who had been with Campbell's for 44 years remembers the high quality of Lancaster County's vegetables. But economics now dictate that ingredients come from cheaper markets.

The top of the Campbell Soup Company in downtown Camden, New Jersey.

The Campbell museum chartered by the state of New Jersey in May of 1966 is a nonprofit educational institution that was visited by the Lancaster County tour after seeing the soup made in the manufacturing plant. It's objective has been to assemble an exhibit to the public a collection of tureens, bowls and utensils made for food service dating back 500 B.C. to the present. Not surprisingly, the majority of items collected to date were made in the Eighteenth Century in western Europe where the decorative arts received abundant attention and financial encouragement from the royal families and other great houses. Formal dining during the period was done on a grand scale with an elegance that is probably unmatched in our history.

From the Campbell museum it was on to the Fulton Mint Museum, dinner and back home. Arriving in Strasburg in the evening, the tour participants knew the plaque on the front of the bus that asked "Are we there yet?" had been answered.

White Sharks Prowl In Australian Waters

WASHINGTON – Huddled underwater in a steel-mesh cage off South Australia's Dangerous Reef, Richard Ellis breathed his air supply faster than usual as he awaited a face-to-face confrontation with a great white shark.

He didn't wait long before the shark appeared. At first it was a vague shadow in the green distance. But soon the phantom solidified into a gray, cone-nosed mass of muscle, heading straight for the cage.

Steadily, majestically, irresistibly, the shark approached. Without pausing, it opened its mouth and crunched into one of the cage's steel flotation tanks. Ellis's scientific objectivity vanished.

Most Famous Jaws

"I was only a couple of feet from the most famous jaws in the world, and they were chewing solidly on the cage in which I cowered, my scuba tank clanking noisily against the mesh as I tried to get as far away as I could from this remorseless maneater," Ellis writes in a recent issue of National Geographic.

But his initial shock and terror soon became an unexpected calm, as if he were part of the shark's element and not a clumsy intruder. His breathing slowed to near its normal rhythm, and he became awed instead of frightened:

"I saw the shark for what it was – a powerful state-of-the-art predator, as modern as the latest jet fighter, but with an ancestry that can be traced back 300 million years."

The great white shark, the world's largest flesh-eating fish and one of the most dangerous predators, isn't common anywhere. But it seems relatively plentiful in South Australian waters.

Sea lions are the apparent reason. Ellis joined them beneath the sea, where he watched "the pinniped ballet – big black eyes and whiskery faces and flickering supple beige figures against a glittering backdrop of green water and filtered sunlight."

Although sea lions may be a choice item on the shark's menu, they sometimes escape its attacks. Many of the surviving victims bear scars to prove it.

So do some of the 1.3 million inhabitants of the state of South Australia, most of whom live along its coastline. Most of the people Ellis met work on or under the water, some in fearsome proximity to great white sharks.

One such man of the sea is Rodney Fox, who guided Ellis to the place where he dived. Fox knows firsthand about shark attacks and miraculous escapes.

Held Together by Wet Suit

A great white nearly bit him in half in 1963 while he was participating in a spear-fishing tournament near his hometown of Adelaide. His wet suit held him together while he was rushed to a hospital, where it took 462 stitches to sew him up

Three months later he was back in the water, and today he's considered one of the world's leading authorities on the behavior of the great white shark.

Accustomed to mastery, a 15-foot great white shark nears an abalone diver's mobile cage, developed specifically for work in South Australia's seas. The great white, the world's largest flesh-eating fish and one of the most dangerous predators, is relatively plentiful there, apparently because of the numbers of sea lions.

Fox is living proof that great whites don't always eat their human victims. But there are exceptions. A young woman was bitten in half and devoured off a South Australian public beach in 1985, providing "recent, tragic evidence that this shark does not play by the rules – even its own," Ellis writes.

Why does the great white attack? Sharks are sensitive to smell, sound, movement, electrical impulses, and the earth's magnetic field, and they can see better than once thought. The shark that killed the young woman might have swum near the beach to investigate the commotion caused by her shallow-water diving.

In his travels around Australia's southern waters, Ellis talked to many fishermen. Ordinary fishermen go down to see the sea in boats, but in South Australia he encountered some who go in cages – as protection against great white sharks.

They are the men who dive for abalone, shellfish that cling to underwater rocks and reefs. Today's "ab" fishermen employ sophisticated diving techniques that enable them to stay underwater for hours. Since 1975 they have used one-man, motorized shark cages.

No other group has had so much direct experience with the great white. Some of the fishermen tell harrowing tales of brushes with death.

Neil Williams, for example, told Ellis about a shark that approached him head-on while he was diving in 1983. "The only thing I could think of," he said, "was to shove the bag of abs right into his mouth. It was bloody lucky the bag was half full. What if I had just begun to fill it?"

Evidently lacking a taste for the rock-hard abalone shells, the shark turned and swam away, but not before severely slashing Williams' fingers. Luckily for Williams, the big fish didn't return.

Australians call the shark "white death." Rodney Fox, responding to a question from Ellis about why they weren't heading directly for Dangerous Reef, replied: "Once you see the sharks, you'll never want to go in the water again."

Boyertown Area Historical Society Slates Quilt Show

BOYERTOWN — Members of the Boyertown Area Historical Society are busy preparing for their annual quilt show, scheduled this year for May 2 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and May 3 from noon to 6 p.m. The event will be staged in the Society Building, 43 South Chestnut St., Boyertown.

The display includes over 100 quilts, including 19th and 20th century quilts from southeastern Pennsylvania. The vintage textiles reveal the talent and love of color possessed by women of past generations. The contemporary pieces reflect the abilities and artistry of today's fabric artists.

Included in the display will be a "Carpenter's Square" pattern quilt, made by show chairman Rosie Mutter and society members, and quilted by Katie Reifsnyder. Difficult to assemble, the quilt uses two different fabrics to create an intricate and bold design.

The event will also feature a special exhibit of "Perkiomen Valley and Variation" pattern quilts. Derived from the popular nine patch format, all have a basic light/dark contrast. Subtle variations within the motif usually have different names such as "Center Valley" and "Road to Collegeville."

Historical society members are also planning a display of doll quilts.

In conjunction with the quilt show nationally-known professional quilt artist Jane Blair will present two lectures Saturday, May 2 at the Good Shepherd United Church of Christ, 35 West Philadelphia Ave., Boyertown. At 10 a.m. she will discuss "Design by Doodling," a fun method to help quilters use spare moments to create more original designs.

Described as an "I didn't know I could do it" inspiration, the lecture explores improvisational techniques which help quilters develop designs while making productive use of odd moments.

At 2 p.m. Blair will present "One Color, Two Color, Three Color, More," delving into a personal approach to formulating color schemes for quilts. This lecture will help quilters understand color and learn how to use it more effectively.

Blair's quilts have been on the covers of national quilting periodicals and on the PBS television series, "Quilts."

The cost of attending one lecture is $10 and $15 for both; advanced registration is suggested. Lecture reservations can be made by sending a check, payable to the Boyertown Area Historical Society, and a stamped self-addressed envelope to: Mrs. Edwin Reed, Box 703, R.D. 5, Boyertown, PA 19512.

A $2 donation is requested for the show and children under 16 are admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Melissa Horn, left, and Holly Green display several quilts that will be part of the Boyertown Area Historical Society's annual quilt show. This year's show is scheduled for May 2 and 3.

Lebanon County Dairy Promoters Seek Princess Candidates

LEBANON — The Lebanon County Dairy Promotion Committee is seeking candidates to compete for the title of 1987 Lebanon County Dairy Princess.

All single young women who have completed their junior year of high school, who are not yet 24 years of age, and who have a dairy farm background are eligible to compete.

This year's dairy princess pageant will be held at Annville Elementary School June 13 at 7:30 p.m. The winner of the county contest will be eligible to compete for the state dairy princess title.

Thirty state princesses and hundreds of county princesses have served as spokesmen for the dairy industry in Pennsylvania over the last 31 years. They appear in shopping malls, fairs, supermarkets and on radio and television to educate consumers about dairy products.

Any single young woman whose parents or guardians are dairy farmers is eligible to compete. A young lady is also eligible if she is a full-time employee on an operating dairy farm or if she owns at least two dairy animals in a 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1, 1987.

The winner of the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant receives a $1,200 cash award. The first and second runners-up will receive a $500 and $400 cash award respectively. The state title is honorary and will not interrupt school or employment plans.

The state pageant is coordinated through Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services Inc.

Dandelion Greens Are Main Attraction At Canusarago Grange Dinner

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

HUGHESVILLE – Everything's coming up dandelions for the Canusarago Grange a few miles from Hughesville and members couldn't be more delighted. In a novel turn of events, Grangers here have discovered how to turn dandelion greens into green cash. Their eighth annual dandelion and ham supper was held last Saturday night and they served 300 people, a number that is increasing every year.

According to Helen Schultz, a Grange member for 20 years, the supper began at the suggestion of one of their members who had heard of a similar supper being held elsewhere. Although the event has now become their main fund raiser, Helen says, in the beginning they barely broke even.

"It was a disaster the first couple years, but last year we turned people away," she recalls.

They served about 200 people last year, Helen says, and this year, including help, around 300 people.

At first, Helen reports, Grange members picked the dandelions, but it wasn't long until they started to purchase them. Anyone who has ever cleaned dandelions can sympathize with Helen when she notes, "I stood here one year for five hours cleaning dandelions and I decided that was for the birds!"

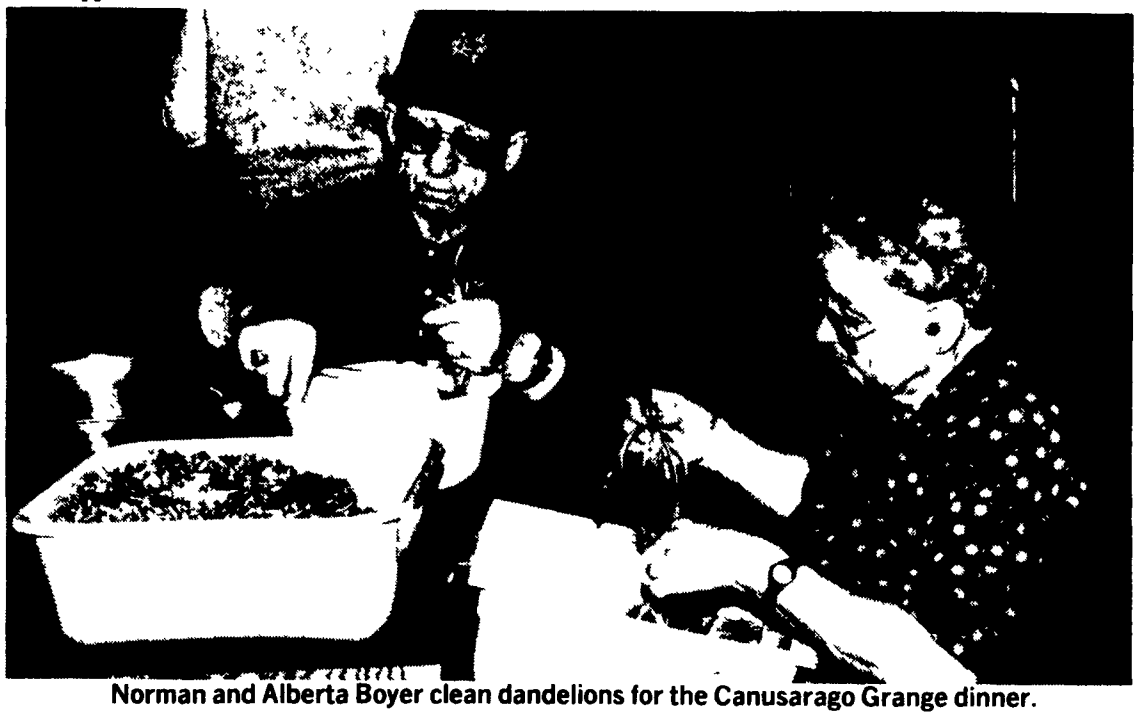
Now, she says, it takes about three hours for 16 or 17 people to clean the 75 pounds or bushel and a half of dandelions necessary for the supper. The dandelions are purchased at a cost of $14.50 per half bushel.

Grange member Shirley M. Bitler drizzles hot bacon dressing over dandelion greens.

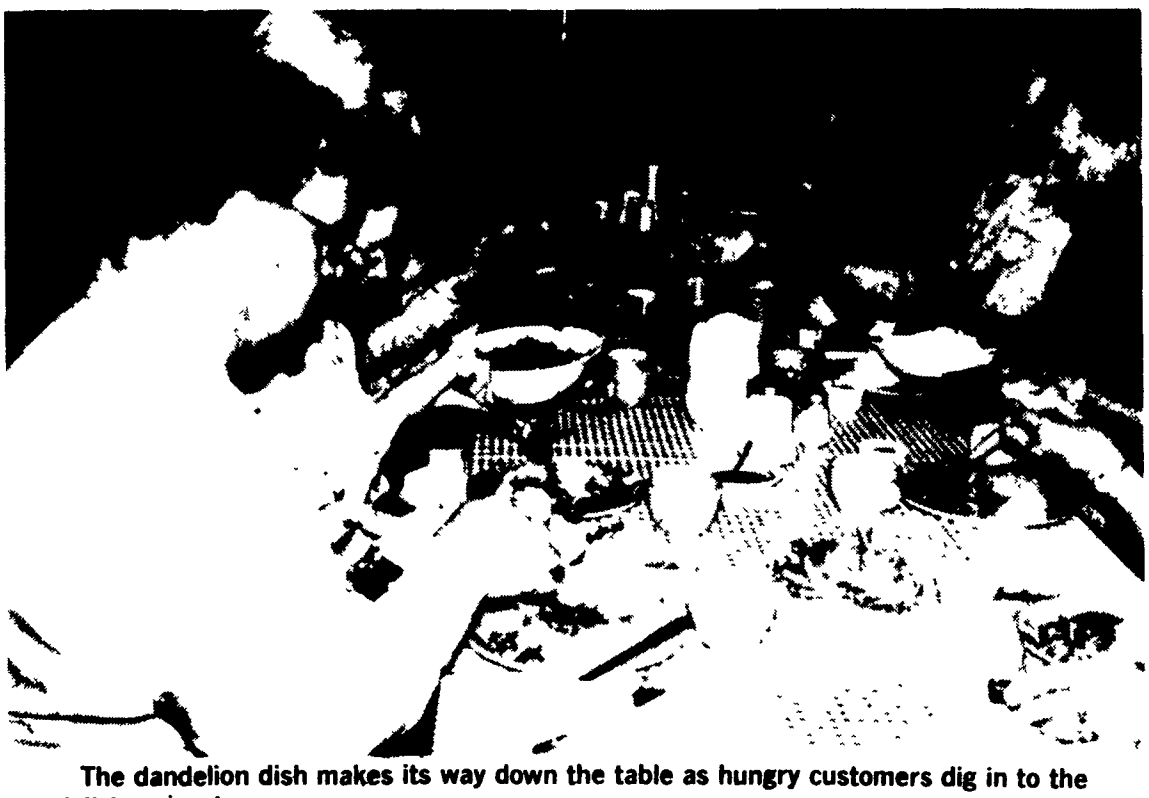
The night of the supper a hot bacon dressing is drizzled over the dandelions and they are served family style with plates of ham and bowls freshly mashed potatoes and gravy. Home made bread and pies round out the menu.

Some people apparently will go to great lengths to attend the supper. Ruth Houseknecht, another grange member, notes one customer frequently rode his bike a distance of 15 miles to attend while another woman said she came all the way from Lebanon for the dandelion supper.

At any rate, members of the Canusarago Grange are content that everything for them is not coming up roses, but dandelions.



Norman and Alberta Boyer clean dandelions for the Canusarago Grange dinner.



The dandelion dish makes its way down the table as hungry customers dig in to the delicious meal.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Holidays have always been special days, at least for most families. They're interludes of celebration in a daily routine of everyday life.

Through holiday celebrations, families establish traditions, roots, continuity. Sociologists increasingly seem to attribute a lack of such family roots and stability to a whole range of social and insecurity problems in children.

We've always cherished certain holiday traditions, including those that come with the Easter season. But, as the offspring left those early childhood years and began maturing toward adulthood, I've experienced a nostalgia for some of the traditions they so loved as youngsters, but take little note of as they grow older.

Or so I thought.

"We ARE going to have an Easter dinner, aren't we?" was the mixed question and command heard in the kitchen some days ago.

Now, the number of heads that can be counted around the table at any given mealtime is no longer a certainty. It might range from two to five, occasionally six, depending on whose friends happen to be around at chow time.

Yes, there would be an Easter dinner, extended family invitations would go out, and yes, friends were welcome, too. What's one more mouth at a family holiday dinner?

As for the menu, perhaps we would deviate this year. Having just refilled the freezer with homegrown beef, a nice beef roast (or, "roast beast" as we sometimes refer to it) with all the trimmings might do just fine for Easter Sunday, I thought aloud.)

"What? No ham? You're not making ham for Easter!!?"

Good grief. Selling the family jewels (don't worry, there aren't any) couldn't have created any more fuss.

When I didn't give in immediately, they hauled out the big guns.

"If you don't make ham, I'll call Grandma and tell her. She'll make ham and bring it for us."

And Grandma would, you know.

With promises of ham on demand conceded, we could turn to yet another tradition.

"When are we going to color Easter eggs?"

As they were growing up, we often colored eggs once, twice, perhaps even three times before the day of the Big Bunny. But recently, well, coloring eggs had faded behind in importance.

Nevertheless, this point of tradition, too, demanded commitment.

So, thus it came to be that, to the blaring blast of punk rock on an oversize silver "box," the teenage Easter egg creativity troop rampaged through a dozen and a half hardboiled blank canvasses, assorted bottles of dye, one pan of fresh brownies, and the milk to which they have unlimited consumption rights in our kitchen.

To do so, they parked battered skateboards, abandoned attempts at thrashing their bodies for the sake of this "sport," and briefly set free to color Easter eggs that little kid which hopefully still lives somewhere in each one of us.

The traditional basket of colored eggs now sits in the traditional spot on the buffet, tribute to this blessed Easter Day when we will definitely (I promise!) eat the traditional ham and sweet potatoes.

Colored eggs. Eggs which, when you pay close attention, bear totally untraditional skateboarding and punk rock symbols, and bear ornately colored messages like "Skate till you poop" (skateboard fatigue) and silly notations in that garbled lingo we always knew as pig Latin.

Traditional ham. Punk, New Wave, Easter eggs. Sometimes even traditions have to be flexible.

Happy Easter.

Cumberland County Executive Board

The Cumberland County Farm Women Executive Board met April 6 at the Cumberland County Extension Office.

Members presented ideas for promoting interest in the organization. One member made the group aware of the pressure on farmers concerning housing or confining livestock in certain reas.

The state Spring Rally will be held May 20 at Elizabethtown College; 17 counties will send representatives.

A Woman's Paycheck: How To Handle It

If you are a working woman, you should use your paychecks as your male counterpart does — as a means of saving, investing, insuring and paying the monthly bills.

Women — married or single — are often not prepared to handle money in this way or encouraged to do so.

For example, there should be no "double standard" for the ways in which a woman's or man's paycheck is allocated. After bill paying, remaining money should be put to work. Decide what the money is needed to do: For investments? To finance retirement? To pay for children's college expenses? Answers depend on the individual's circumstances and on the family's situation and certainly whether the woman or man is single, married, childless, young or old.

Experts agree that women tend to downgrade or undervalue their financial worth. Putting aside even small amounts regularly will ensure a nest egg — sizable or not — upon retirement. Analyzing the fringe benefits that come with a job, such as retirement benefits, health insurance, life insurance or profit-sharing, may free some of the regular income for investment purposes.

Working couples should decide what money management system is best for them. Joint accounts for shared expenses and separate accounts for other expenses work well for many couples. Maintaining this independence is recommended by financial experts in case of death or dissolution of the marriage.

The income from a second paycheck should be added to the total income, not thought of as "extra" or "play money." Since often two incomes push a family into a higher tax bracket, proper investments are often advised, such as tax-free municipal bonds and bond funds of tax-deferred annuities.

Since women outlive men, on the average, it is especially important that women arrange for retirement income in addition to Social Security benefits. Self-employed women should look to Keogh plans; those covered by their employer should examine retirement plans carefully, estimating income and outgo with an eye on inflation. Then plan accordingly.

A New Look At Thread

We take it for granted, but thread is an essential element of fashion. Considering the time and skill needed to sew, it makes sense to choose the best thread for the job.

Here are some tips on selecting thread — synthetic or natural. Because thread appears lighter when stitched, try to select the exact color or a color one shade darker than the fabric it will be used with.

Coordinate the type of thread with the fiber content of the fabric, too. For synthetic fabrics, select a synthetic thread or one that has a polyester core wrapped with cotton. Also consider fabric weight, construction details, garment use and the care requirements of the fabric.

For a plaid or multi-color fabric, choose a thread that matches the dominant or background color.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 1

Members of Lancaster Society 1 entertained members of Society 34 April 4 at the Farm and Home Center.

Members and guests shared a covered dish luncheon that featured a variety of delicious foods. Hostesses were Dorothy Hollinger, Helen Firestone, Ruth Bollinger and Edna Shearer.

Martha Jane Brubaker read Luke chapter 24 for devotions. Members were reminded of the following events: April 27, members will sew at the Lancaster General Hospital; April 25, members are invited to attend the monthly meeting of Society 3 at the Lincoln United Church of Christ; June 14, members will help with the Lawn Fair at Conestoga View.

The Lititz Kitchenaires Band, under the direction of Polly Conrad, provided the entertainment.

The society will meet next for a monther/daughter banquet Friday, May 1 at 6:15 p.m. in the Brunnerville Firehall. Guest speaker will be Miriam Kauffman.

Lancaster Society 8

Members of Lancaster Society 8 met April 8 at the home of Nellie Blake, Maytown. Grace Bixler was chairman of the meeting, Ruth Musser led songs, and Margaret Heisey conducted the devotional period.

The county has selected two projects for this year — Make a Wish and the Water Street Rescue Mission.

The group gave a donation to the Lancaster County Dairy Princess.

Program for the afternoon was provided by Karen Smith from the Lancaster County Office of Aging. Hostesses for the social hour were Nellie Blake, Anna May Ney and Elizabeth Shuman.

The next monthly meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 13 at the home of Bonnie Funk, Marietta R1.

Lancaster Society 19

Members of Lancaster Society 19 met Saturday, April 11 for a nature hike on the wooded trail of Shenk's Ferry near Pequea. Carl Nolt, an expert wildflower photographer, was the guide.

After the hike members enjoyed a buffet luncheon at the Conestoga Wagon Restaurant. During the business meeting, the group finalized plans for a bus trip to Pennsbury Manor and Valley Forge on May 7.

The Spring Rally will be held May 20 at the Thompson Gymnasium, Elizabethtown College.

Lancaster Society 25

Members of Lancaster Society 25 entertained Society 23, two county officers and friends April 11 at the Farm and Home Center. Evelyn Ames read the 23 Psalm for devotions.

Diane Good of Lititz presented a parable of quilts. She suggested sewing and making quilts as a way to show love and friendship to others and to carry on the heritage of our mothers and grandmothers. Scriptures used in the parable were from Colossians 3:23-24; Acts 7:9; and Isaiah 55:8-9.

Sixteen members will attend the Spring Rally May 20.

Bea Newswenger reported 126 hours of service at the Heart Association, 60 bed pads and 50 soppers made for cancer patients.

The society will hold a food sale at John Herr's store in Millersville Saturday, April 25 beginning at 8 a.m.

The next meeting will be May 9 at the home of Helen Happle, 114 Musser Ave., Lancaster. Pam Kindig, the Lancaster County and Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, will be the speaker.

Berks Group 1

Twenty members of Berks Group 1 met April 8 in the home of Agnes Noll, R1 Oley.

Topic for the evening was "Youth Night." Heidi Schlegel, a junior from Oley Valley High School and an FFA member, showed slides and spoke about the trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

The next meeting will be held May 13 at the home of Mrs. Pearl Evengood, R2 Douglassville. Each member should bring items worth at least $3 to be auctioned at the meeting.

Berks Group 4

Members of Berks Group 4 made favors for recipients of Meals-on-Wheels of Boyertown during the group's April 7 meeting. The meeting was held at the home of Virginia Taylor, R4 Boyertown.

President Ferne Kulp conducted the business meeting for the 11 members present. Each member answered roll call by giving a scripture verse that mentions a flower.

Berks Group 2 has invited the group to attend its 35th anniversary celebration June 23 at the Bethel Community Center.

Mary Fizz, Ferne Kulp and Verna Taylor helped at the Berks Heim annex game party April 9. Final plans were made for three members to attend the Berks Heim volunteer recognition dinner April 23. Three members will also attend the Boyertown Multi-Service volunteer dinner April 30.

Seven members will attend the Spring Rally at Elizabethtown College May 20.

Charlotte Mauger, Marguerite Rush and Mary Fizz volunteered to help serve hamburgers at the Heim festival May 30 on the Heim grounds.

The group extended congratulations to member Lottie Burkepile and her husband, Walter; the couple celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary April 2.

AND FOR ALFALFA

Use the recommended amount of Nema Pro + 12-50-0 and spray on your alfalfa early in spring, and a follow up right after the second cutting to keep up the phosphate level The Nema Cal and black strap molasses is applied after each cutting when new growth reaches about six inches Once you get the sugar brix reading to 12 or more, you will have a high level of both mineral and real protein in your hay Insects will not damage your alfalfa when the sugar brix level reaches 14 or more But your cows will love it They will make more milk with less feed, and stay healthier in the bargain, plus a longer productive life span Nema offers a full line of natural transitional fertilizers for all soil and plants needs that are non toxic and safe to use anywhere These natural products help to increase the live bacteria in soil Our soil products help to raise the humis, loosen compact soil and hard pan conditions We also have a full line of high producing foliar sprays For your livestock and poultry, we have a full line of natural vitamins and minerals for your feed program Nema's full line of water purification systems are designed to take care of most of your water problems on your farm and home, at a very reasonable price

Our soil testing service includes both the water soluable method, plus a new experimental high tech intensity reading for the general vitality level for both soil and plants with recommendations This method is also used for water testing

You need a truck body and hoist that work as hard as you.

Your favorite truck dealer and the local Omaha Standard distributor can help with the work. Omaha Standard's name on a truck body plus hoist means good looking, rugged equipment that doesn't wear out You'll need to replace the truck before you'll need to replace the Omaha Standard body or hoist That's quality working for you, year after year When it's time to purchase a combination grain and livestock body, a stakeless steel grain body, all aluminum grain body, a scissor or stabilized Olympic telescopic hoist, Omaha Standard has the right equipment for the job, the load and the road It's a fact — your Omaha Standard distributor is the single source for truck bodies and hoists.

Eby trailers or truck bodies can haul anything you want — even Brahman bulls

Eby Gives You Choices

You can haul livestock in a trailer hooked to your pickup Or on the other hand, you may prefer a truck and livestock body for its maneuverability

Perhaps you need to haul dairy cattle Or calves Hogs Sheep Horses Even a Brahman Bull

You decide what you want Then practically design your own Eby trailer or livestock body before it's custom made Choose length, width and height Select from a variety of partitions and doors Even decide whether or not to have a tool box In short, our versatility lets you own just what you want

But you don't have to make all the choices

Every Eby livestock body and trailer is aluminum No matter what options you choose, your trailer or body will never rust or need paint It's as much as 35% lighter than steel and wood construction for increased load capacity and better fuel economy And heavy-duty standard components ensure safe, trouble-free hauling for years to come

Now all these choices can be yours for probably a lot less than you expect In fact, when you figure in the durability and low maintenance, an Eby all-aluminum livestock body or trailer is a fantastic value So give us a call, or write, for more information and the name of the dealer nearest you

CARTER 1987

We Put More Men In The Field Than The United States Army.

Currently, Uncle Sam keeps around 300,000 army soldiers on active duty.

Farm Credit, on the other hand, helps keep over 2 million farmers on active duty. With more loans for more farming needs than any other lending institution.

For many of you, we've been there from the beginning. With money for land, as well as your house and barn.

We help stock the farm, too. With loans for everything from cows to catfish. Seeds to saplings. Fertilizer to fencing.

And when it's time for a new tractor or pick-up, just call us to get the wheels turning.

Farming has been our only field of interest for seventy years. That's because we're farmers too. Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the same farmers who use its services.

What's more, come rain or shine, we'll stick by you in any kind of weather. And when you think about it, that's reason enough to join our ranks.

FARM CREDIT. A Bank Of Local Farmers.SM

Contestants Sought For Upper Shore Dairy Princess Contest

RISING SUN, Md. — Applications are being accepted from Cecil, Kent, and Queen Anne's Counties for the 1987 Upper Shore Dairy Princess Contest held in conjunction with the 26th Annual Maryland Dairy Princess Contest.

The purpose of the Dairy Princess program is to promote milk and milk products. The program is sponsored by the state's dairy industry.

The Upper Shore Dairy Princess Contest will be held Saturday evening, May 23, 1987.

Rules for the contest are:

1. Candidate must maintain residency within the territorial boundaries of Maryland.

2. The candidate must live on a dairy farm where milk was produced within the last four years and/or must have carried a dairy related project for at least two program years (4-H and/or FFA programs) except dairy goats and dairy steers.

3. The candidate may enter the area contest only in the area where the family maintains residency.

4. The candidate must have completed her junior year of high school and will not reach her 22nd birthday by Dec. 31 of the year of the contest.

5. Applicant must have parents' consent if under 18 years of age.

6. Applicant must not be or have been married.

7. Applicant cannot marry during her reign.

8. Applicant must be available for personal appearances during the year and must agree to meet reasonable requirements set forth by the area and state committee.

The winner of the Upper Shore Dairy Princess pageant will be eligible to compete, at the state level, for the title of Maryland Dairy Princess.

Since 1961, 25 state princesses and hundreds of local princesses have served as spokespersons for the dairy industry in Maryland. They appear at shopping malls, fairs, supermarkets and on radio and television to educate consumers about the dairy farmer's product.

The state title is honorary and will not interrupt school and employment plans.

Young women interested in entering the Upper Shore Dairy Princess Pageant should contact Joy Crothers, 658-3380, (Cecil Co.); Marty Patterson, 778-4578, (Queen Anne's Co.); or Pat Hill, 348-5784, (Kent Co.); by Friday, May 15, 1987.

Price Lowered On Soil Insecticide

PHILADELPHIA — You'll get some good news when you order your Furadan insecticide/nematicide this year: the price has gone down. "As a result of our special promotional programs, farmers can expect to see the effective cost per acre of Furadan down approximately eight percent for 1987," says FMC sales manager Howie Shmerler.

"Furadan has always been the highest cost per acre product, but that is no longer the case," says Shmerler. "It's right in there with all the other now."

The FMC price reduction follows the course many agricultural suppliers are taking. Other chemical manufacturers have announced price reductions, and some machinery and seed suppliers are also cutting prices and offering special financing plans.

NY Pesticide Book

ITHACA, NY – The 1987 New York State Pesticide Recommendations ("Redbook") has been released for general distribution through Cornell Cooperative Extension, according to the Entomology Department Chairman, Roger A. Morse. The Department is in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell University.

Published for the first time in 1954, this reference has become widely known and used by Cooperative Extension Agents, commercial farmers and consultants. Information included covers: disease and insect control for field, forage and cereals; stored-grain insects, florist and fruit crops, livestock and poultry, ornamentals and Christmas trees, turf, vegetables and potatoes, weed control for aquatic plants, pest control for home and public building insects and control of vertebrate pests.

Introduced annually at the New York State Pest control conference, copies of the book are available by mail from: Cornell University Distribution Center, 7 Research Park, Ithaca, NY 14850. Costs to cover printing and shipping are $18 softcover and $24.50 hardcover. Checks should be payable to Cornell University.

Franklin Co. 4-H,ers Exhibit Projects In Spring Roundup

Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Approximately 157 4-H projects were exhibited at the Franklin County 4-H Center for the Annual Spring Roundup April 11. The exhibits represented a wide range of foods, crafts, clothing, woodworking, small engine and rocketry projects offered through the 4-H program.

Christine Divelbiss, Chambersburg, captured best of show with her cake decorating project.

While the judges considered the merit of each project, 4-H'ers in attendance participated in a program in which they learned more about opportunities in 4-H. Karen Beaver shared her experience at National 4-H Congress in Chicago and Christi Keener gave a demonstration to show 4-H'ers how a good demonstration should be done. Bob Kessler told the group about 4-H camp.

The program concluded with an awards program during which the following 4-H'ers were awarded Best of Show honors.

Cermics I- Michelle Miller; Knitting- Melanie Benedict; Cake Decorating- Christine Divelbiss; Intro. Cake Decorating- Lisa Stahl; Candy- Dawn Shank; Latch Hook- Heather Cordell; Tin Punch- Kim Paylor; Corn Husk- Andrea Briggs; Baskets- Shannon Weaver; Wood Science-frames- Holly Long; Wood Science-figures- Collene Kessler; Rocketry- Meredith Yoder; Wood Science- Tool Box- Matt Shirk; Wood Science-Clothes Pole- Jeremy Wenger; Stenciling- Sherry Oberholzer; Small Change- Elizabeth Wagaman; Clothing and Textiles I- Travis Poling; Clothing and Textiles II- Marla Hawbaker; Food & Nutrition VIII- Chris Reichard; Fit It All Together- Michelle North; Breads- Bonita Angle; Food and Nutrition II- Miranda Lake; Food and Nutrition III- Suzanne Brendle; Pet Care- Justus Hartzok.

Best of show in wood science - frames, went to Holly Long of Welsh Run, left. At right is Bonita Angle, Mercersburg, who had best of show in breads.

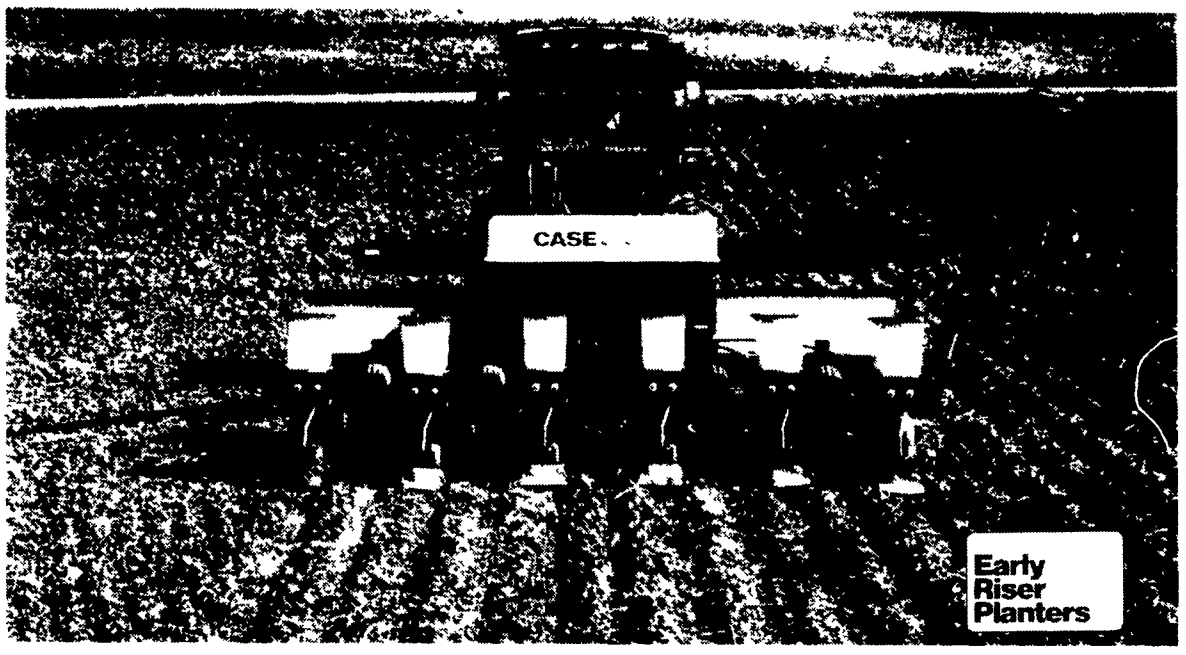
TO TILL or NOT TO TILL...

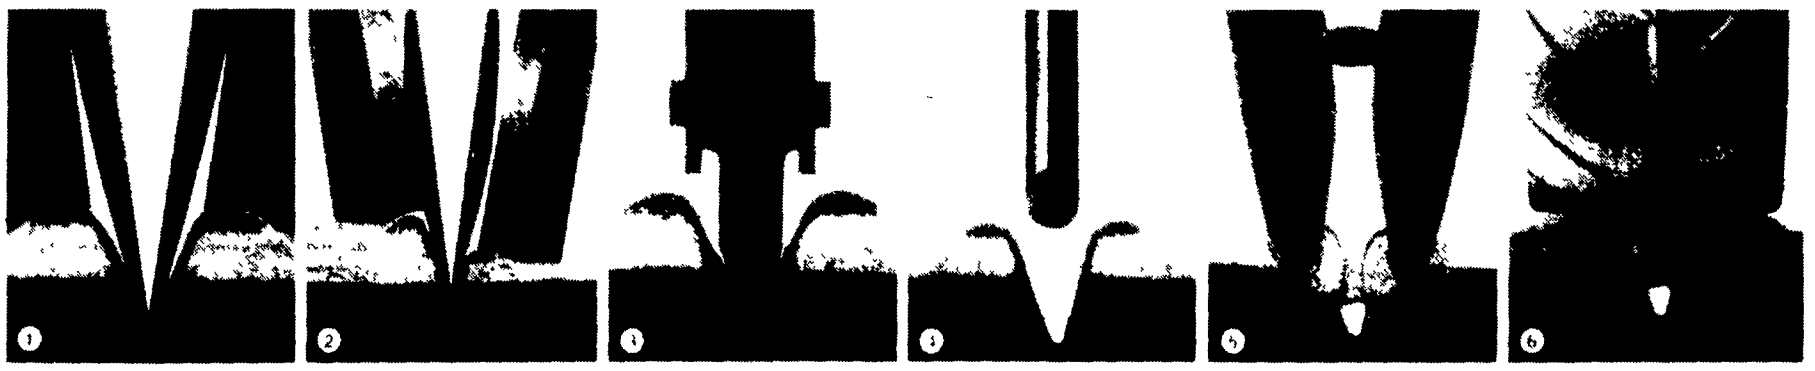
The Choice Is Yours

EARLY RISER PLANTER

THE ONE FOR CONVENTIONAL, MIN-TILL, NO-TILL & SOD



The 900 Series Early Riser Row Units Are The Secret!



1. Case IH staggered doubled disk openers reduce power demands, effectively cut through trash and penetrate hard soils, eliminating the need for costly colter attachments common to so-called "no till" planters.

2. Exclusive front pull equalizing depth gauge wheels are connected through special linkage that maintains equal pressure on the gauge wheels at all times. Grooved gauge wheel tires work to trap the moist soil brought up by the openers so that soil is placed back into the bottom of the seed trench following seed placement.

3. Improved Furrow firming point forms a well-defined "V" furrow bottom offering optimum depth control, seed spacing and germination.

4. With the clean "V" furrow bottom and smooth, narrow seed trench, seeds are delivered to the same depth and held in place for reliable uniform emergence.

5. Twin inverted staggered covering disks mounted directly behind the openers, return moist soil to the seed trench and provide good seed/soil contact.

6. Chevron-tread press wheels seal the closed seed trench and firm the furrow, eliminating air pockets and promoting optimum germination.

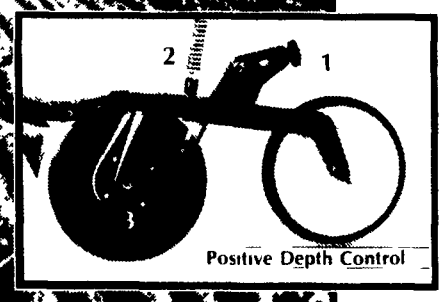
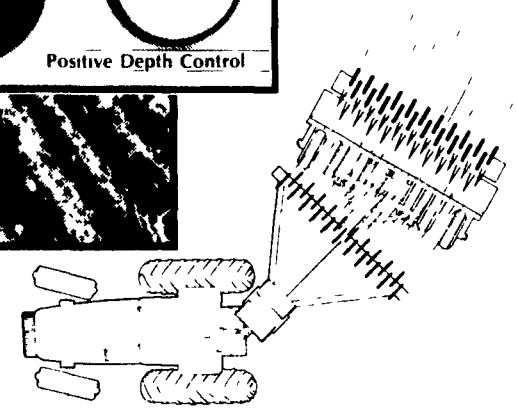
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS

Great Plains Solid Stand drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need;
(1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release.





THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

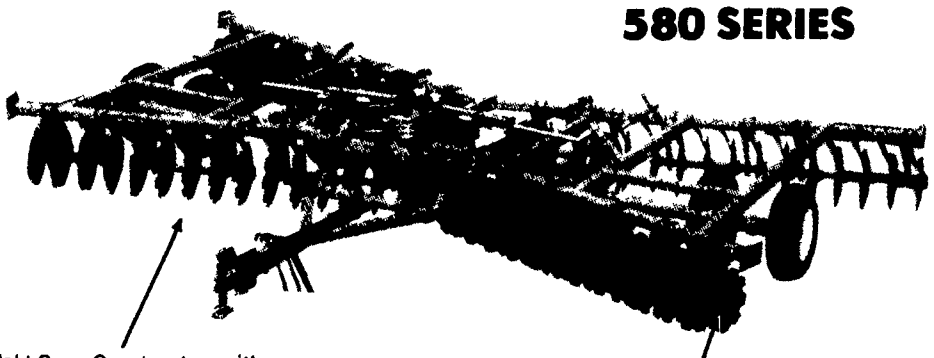
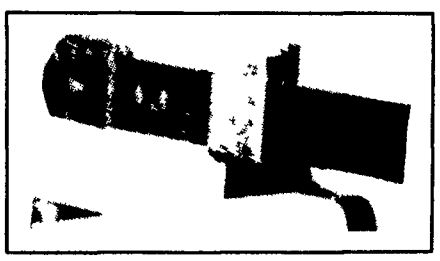
FLEXIBLE WHEEL TANDEM HARROW

580 SERIES



Split Gang Construction with more bearings eliminates axle stretch due to excessively long axles

1-1/8" or 1½" square axles and split gangs give ample strength and durability



Adjustable depth control holds the cutting depth constant Then simply lock bar for transport to eliminate wear and tear on hydraulic transport cylinders on those rough and rocky roads

12'9" TRANSPORT WIDTH

17'5" to 31'4" CUTTING WIDTHS

Introducing

MITSUBISHI ENGINE

"There's more than just power in the name."

The new Mitsubishi engine network is fully committed to a stable independent distributor network - reliable product support services available nationwide.

As the new area distributors, we are proud to join forces with Japan's oldest and largest engine manufacturer. Vast resources and a major commitment are expected to make Mitsubishi the U.S. Leader among off-shore engines.

MITSUBISHI ENGINES - ALL WATER-COOLED

Diesels from 2 cyl., 5 hp mini-diesels to 360 HP turbo and charge-air cooled large engines. Tremendous model concentration in 5-150 HP range. Choose the best engine for your application; conservative power for continuous stationary applications or high speed, high performance diesels for portable equipment. 3000 RPM capacity to 150 Hp range.

Gas engines from 33 CID 3-cylinder engine to 181 CID V-6 engine, from 15 HP to 90 HP.

"THE PRIME CHOICE IN PRIME MOVERS"

Numerous Mitsubishi engines already in service in U.S. construction equipment. Owners have consistently reported being extremely well pleased with their Mitsubishi. Quiet operation and high reliability are the most frequently mentioned features.

Tillage Tool SPECIALS

John Deere tractor-matched tillage tools in many types and sizes. Get the new tools you need at our special prices

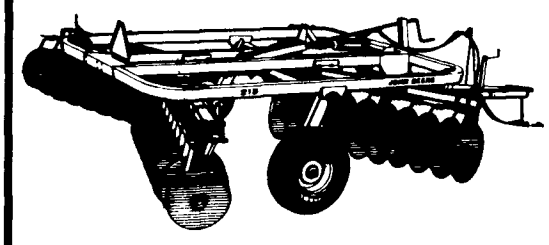
NEW LOW PRICE, FEATURE PACKED



- The new John Deere 215 Standard Disk is packed with quality and features at a new low price. Look what you'll get:
- Level-Action™ design for smooth disking. Dura-Flex™ bearings for long-lasting performance. Strong, rigid scrapers to work in a variety of field conditions. A choice of blades on 9-inch spacings.
- Crank-adjust fore-and-aft leveling. And John Deere's double-offset design lets all the gangs work as a team for level disking performance.

JOHN DEERE

710 MULCH TILLER

Now you can take advantage of conservation tillage with as little as 60 horsepower

Stop in and take a look at John Deere's 710 Mulch Tiller—an economical conservation tillage tool that lets you fall till in one pass with as little as 60 horsepower. You get a rugged 4x4 inch welded tubular steel mainframe. Choice of straight coulter or spherical disk gangs. And rigid or optional spring reset standards.

With 32 inches of underframe clearance, soil and trash flow through smoothly. Standard 3 inch concave twisted shovels (4 inch optional) bring ribbons of soil to the surface for aggressive tillage action.

Choose a 5 shank model 6 feet 3 inches wide or a 7 shank model 8 feet 9 inches wide. Remember John Deere's the leader in conservation tillage and we have the equipment to meet your needs.

Find Out Why The Wrapper Is Better Than Hay Bags.
SilaWrap System... New For 1987

- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off.

CONVENTIONAL SILOS

On many dairy farms, FORAGE QUALITY is the single most important factor relating to profitability!!! The better the forage, the lower the cost for purchased feed, and therefore the higher the profit.

Don't depend upon second-rate storage for your valuable feed crops for your dairy herd!

Nothing stores feed better than a poured concrete SOLLENBERGER silo, and you will appreciate the quality for many years to come. Your cows will appreciate the good feed and you will see their response in the milk tank.

- Solid 6" Poured Concrete Walls
- Horizontal and Vertical Reinforcing Steel (Exceeds ISA Standards)
- Concrete Chute - Poured with wall
- Redwood Doors - Large 24"x32"
- Fill Pipe
- Outside Galvanized Ladder With Safety Cage
- Many Extras To Reduce Maintenance Costs For Many Years.

RIDOMIL STOPS DISEASE IN TOBACCO FIELDS.

The only way to ward off disease is to put Ridomil® out there. Just one application, before transplanting, protects tobacco against black shank and blue mold all season long. And with disease under control, you can grow better quality tobacco, and more of it.

No black shank. Ridomil stops the black shank that can rob you of hundreds of pounds per acre. Studies in burley fields show an average yield increase of 483 pounds an acre when they're treated with Ridomil. In 1986, Ridomil was especially important when black shank losses in tobacco reached an all-time high.

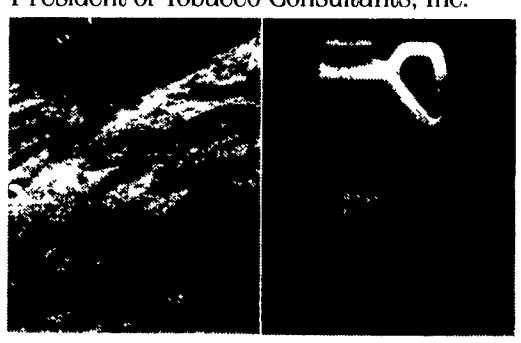
No blue mold. Ridomil used at label rates protects your tobacco from the roots all the way to the top. Its systemic properties keep the entire plant safe from blue mold all season long. Blue mold's airborne spores can travel 100 miles a day, and devastate crops in their path. Blue mold can spread quickly, but Ridomil can stop it from doing damage.

Nothing less than Ridomil. If you want better quality tobacco, Ridomil is the only choice. It not only stops disease that can ruin your tobacco crop, but helps tobacco plants develop a healthier root system and get the most out of their environment.

With healthier roots, plants get maximum use of water and nutrients in the soil. They grow more vigorously and show an increased resistance to other diseases. The end result is a higher quality tobacco.

And more of it. Make Ridomil part of your tobacco program this year.

If you have a question about tobacco, call Ciba-Geigy's Monday Hotline, 1-800-862-2229. Ask for Professor Furney Todd, President of Tobacco Consultants, Inc.



Ridomil® Unlocks the potential

75 Head Sell At Maryland Simmental Assoc. Sale

BY SHARON SCHUSTER
Md. Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — Showers didn't dampen the spirits of the consignors and bidders at the 13th Annual Maryland Simmental Association Sale last Saturday. A rainbow appeared after the rains, arching over the Frederick Fairground sale barns. The auctioneer for the evening was Colonel Bob Mullendore. "They always told me that the pot of gold was at the end of the rainbow," commented Mullendore. "If you went out and looked, it settled right back there where the cattle were."

President of the Maryland Simmental Association, Bud Gosnell, echoed those sentiments with his comments in the sale catalog. "Last year was a tough year on all of us...that's behind us now. We have cattle with excellent pedigrees. The kind that you can take home and work into your particular program." Seventy-five head of cattle were run through the ring at an average sale price of $872.

Top bid of the evening was $1600 for MB Toni Carrie, a horned purebred cow, with a Bellringer calf born January 17. A Toni daughter, the cow's 205-day weight was 464 pounds. She was consigned by Mr. and Mrs. John Hull of Meadow Branch Simmental, Westminster, Md. The buyer was Frank Dell of Hampstead, Md.

Several show quality heifers brought some hefty prices during the evening. John Myers came from his family's Dunkard Valley Farm in York County, Pennsylvania, in search of show animals. With his bid of $875, the junior member of the Pennsylvania and National Simmental Associations has one more heifer to add to the show string at home. "She'll fit right in," said Myers. The dark red heifer was bred to "one of the hottest bulls going," Lightning, on March 23. Bar Deans Beauty was consigned by Bar Dean Farm in Finksburg, Maryland.

Miss Lightning No, a polled purebred heifer, brought a top bid of $1000. She was consigned by Clyde Grossnickle of Middle Creek Farms in Myersville, Maryland.

Top selling bull of the evening was a polled purebred bull consigned by Schmidt Farms in Settlersville, Maryland. His 205-day weight was a hefty 727 pounds. His pedigree boasts such names as Abricot and Achilles. He was purchased for a bid of $1500.

The Maryland Simmental Association has an active junior membership. Preceding the sale, 42 straws of semen were auctioned off for their benefit. The Association also presented the J. Fred Groomes Memorial Scholarship Award for the first time.

"We hope to do it every year," said Wanda Groomes, secretary for the association. Groomes said she and her late husband, for whom the award is named, established the Maryland Simmental Association 13 years ago. "What's the use of having money if you can't make it work?" Groomes said the 13 percent commission that the association charges funds the scholarship and keeps the chapter going.

The first recipient of the scholarship was Nancy Townsend, president of the Md. Junior Association. "She was outstanding in records that came back from the National," said Groomes. "She is very hard working and deserving of the award." The Junior Association is preparing for the AJSA Summer Classic to be held in Springfield, Missouri.

MB Tonie Carrie and calf were top sellers at Simmental sale at $1600.

Wool: Prepare It With Pride

Wool is probably one of the more valuable raw products sold from the farm, and yet in many instances it is one of the most poorly managed commodities marketed. For years many producers have taken the attitude that wool is just a by-product of lamb production. Subsequently, little conscious effort has been given to the genetic, environmental and management factors that influence most the production of quality wool.

"Grade for grade, domestic wool may actually be a little better than imported wool," says Jim Walters, a wool buyer from Pendelton Woolen Mill. If this is true then why does wool of comparable grade from our foreign competition sell for more? Walters offers this explanation: "Foreign wool is put up to be a value-added package. For instance, in Australia and New Zealand the sheep are managed under pasture conditions where the fleece remains clear of excessive vegetable matter. Extra care is taken to remove any other contaminants and undesirable wools through a complete skirting and grading program at shearing time. The wool has been packaged and marketed according to grade, average fiber length and a clean wool yield analysis. Woolen mills are willing to pay more for something when you know exactly what you are getting," adds Walters.

Walters believes the domestic producer has had the advantage of not having to prepare his wool because he was guaranteed it would sell. That guarantee may be disappearing, though. Even if producers are willing to accept discounts for poorly prepared wool, more buyers are becoming increasingly reluctant to purchase it at any price.

Representatives of domestic mills and textile manufacturers say that higher labor costs and new electronic high-speed equipment make contaminated wool too expensive to process. "We just quit messing with domestic wool for blankets," says Sam Brickle, of the Hyman Brickle Company in Woonsocket, Rhode Island. "We prefer domestic wool for its loftiness and the way it blends with other wool, but it's just too much trouble and not economical to use. It's a shame, too, because there are some relatively inexpensive things a producer can do to add value to his product."

Fortunately, increased emphasis on wool preparation has not passed unheeded by most county and regional wool pools throughout Pennsylvania. Approximately 93 percent of all Pennsylvania wool is fleece-graded and has been core-tested for fiber grade and clean wool yield.

Rod Gilbert, chairman of the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association's wool board agrees this type of information puts Pennsylvania wool pools in a much stronger bargaining position when it comes time to sell. Gilbert adds, "We are looking down the road when we can better define what it is we need to do to improve its value in the market place. We want to be price makers rather than price takers."

Following are some wool preparation and marketing tips:

Sheep Care - Avoid polypropylene contamination, excessive paint branding, straw and hay chaff, manure stains and burrs. Sheep should be sheared prior to lambing.

Shearing Time - Clean shearing area, remove all tags, skirt and grade fleeces when practical, avoid second cuts, shear only dry sheep, shear black-faced sheep last.

Wool Packaging and Storage - Tie fleeces only with paper twine, package larger clips in wool bags, keep show clippings and lambs wool separate from staple wool, store in clean, dry well-ventilated area.

Wool Marketing Pools - Wool pool management should include implementing wool value incentives. Acknowledge quality producer clips annually.

E. Regional Jr. Angus Show Scheduled

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. - This year's Eastern Regional Junior Angus Show is scheduled for June 26-28 at Jackson's Mill 4-H Camp in Weston, West Virginia. A full program of events is lined up for the two-days of activities.

Junior Angus breeders will have from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. on Friday, June 26 to arrive and check-in their entries at the Livestock Unit. A Hospitality Party at the Picnic Pavilion and swimming pool is planned from 8:00 until 11:00 p.m.

The Eastern Regional Junior Angus Show will begin on Saturday, June 27 at 9 a.m. with the judging of bred-and-owned bulls, registered steers and cow/calf pairs. Judge for the show will be Dee Woody, Carbondale, Illinois.

Following the show, games for young and old alike are scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Then at 6:30 p.m., everyone will want to gather at the Picnic Pavilion for a family meal. A dance at the Assembly Hall, from 8 until 11 p.m., will end the day's activities.

On Sunday, June 28 at 8 a.m. is Worship Service at the Campfire Circle. The Show will resume at 9:30 a.m. Bred-and-owned heifers, owned heifers and state groups will be judged.

For more information on the Eastern Regional Junior Angus Show, contact the American Angus Association Junior Activities Department, 3201 Frederick Blvd., St. Joseph, Missouri 64501 or phone 816/233-3101.

Exotic Newcastle Disease Found In Pet Birds In Md., NY

WASHINGTON — Exotic Newcastle disease, a highly contagious disease of pet birds and poultry, has been confirmed in two pet-bird dealer facilities in Maryland and New York, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture officials. No domestic poultry are involved in the outbreak.

"Our laboratory tests have shown the presence of exotic Newcastle disease in young yellow-naped Amazon parrots that died at these establishments," said Bert W. Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Hawkins said state quarantines were placed on the two facilities, Docktor Pet Center in Hunt Valley, Md., and Joan's Exotic Birds in Schenectady, N.Y. At the Maryland site, the disease was confirmed in six birds purchased through a Louisiana bird dealer. All birds have been destroyed to prevent the disease from spreading. At the New York establishment, the disease was confirmed in one of two birds purchased from a California supplier.

"Exotic Newcastle disease can be transmitted rapidly from bird to bird and premise to premise," Hawkins said. "USDA destroys infected or exposed birds to prevent the virus from spreading to commercial poultry operations or other pet bird facilities."

State and USDA officials are tracing the disease outbreak, which is believed to have originated in southern California. Tracing and testing activities are being conducted in 17 states where exposed or possibly exposed birds were shipped.

Exotic Newcastle disease can cause death rates from 50 to 95 percent in infected chicken flocks. The disease poses no health risk to people who eat poultry or eggs. In rare cases, individuals who handle infected birds can contract the virus, which in humans causes a transitory eye inflammation and mild flu-like symptoms.

The most serious U.S. outbreak of Exotic Newcastle disease occurred in 1971-73 in southern California, where the disease spread from infected pet birds to a dense poultry population. Nearly 12 million birds—mostly laying hens—were destroyed at a cost of $56 million.

55 Lots Consigned To NY Polled Hereford Sale

ITHACA, N.Y. - An excellent response from Polled Hereford breeders across New York and New England was received in response to a call for consignments to the Second Annual "Spring Select Sale." Fifty-five lots have now been cataloged and will go on the auction block May 9, at the Cornell Livestock Pavilion in Ithaca.

The bulk of the offering consists of bred and open heifers, plus bred cows and cows with calves at side. There also will be a select group of large-framed young bulls. An added highlight will be the auctioning of breeding certificates to some of the nation's leading sires offered by some of the consignors.

The animals will go on display and start showing in group classes beginning at 9:00 a.m. Judge for the show will be W. W. (Wib) Donaldson from Canada, who was the chief judge at the National Polled Hereford Show in Jackson, Miss., this past February. The sale will begin at 12:30 pm with noted livestock auctioneer "Red" Shaw calling the bids.

Catalogs will be mailed in early April to association members and other breeders throughout the Northeast. They also can be obtained from Winifred Clark (315) 853-5011 and Henry Bono (518) 294-7716.

RPM Farms Posts Spring Sale Results

BEAVERTOWN — RPM Farms held its spring sale on April 10, selling 169 head of Yorkshire, Landrace and commercial swine for a total of $62,570. The sale's 88 head of purebred boars and gilts averaged $490.

New Sheep Breed To Highlight Md. Sheep And Wool Festival

WEST FRIENDSHIP, Md. — Two features of the 14th annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival will, coincidentally, have Soviet origins, according to Mary E. F. Streaker, chairman for the May 2 and 3 event to be held at the Howard County Fairgrounds, West Friendship, Md. The fairgrounds is located off I-70 at Rt. 32.

A group of sheep new to North America, Romanov, has just completed a five-year quarantine in Canada and will be seen in Maryland for the first time, according to their exhibitor, in the breed display barn. This breed originated in the Soviet Union in the 18th century and takes its name from a small town in the Volga Valley, not far from where the Finnish Landrace began.

Another breed new to the festival will be Hog Island sheep, from an island off the coast of Georgia. In all, approximately 30 different breeds will be displayed, states Martha Berger, chairman. These will include breeds normally viewed at fairs and so called "exotic" breeds. These will be in addition to the more than 500 entries of wool sheep to be shown in five shows — Border Leicester, Corriedale, Romney purebreds, plus white wool and natural colored sheep.

Wool sheep will be sold at auction at 3 p.m. Sunday. Available will be purebred and crossbred sheep, both white and natural colored, especially raised for their fleeces for hand spinning. All will have been shown and placed by the judge.

A Soviet-American peace quilt will be the second special attraction. The quilt consists of 40 squares depicting 20 Soviet and 20 American children's faces. It was created to express women's concerns for their children's future. It is lined with wool from American and Soviet sheep spun together into "Peace Fleece", a creation of Peter Hagerty, a Maine wool producer.

Friday at 7 p.m. try your hand at fleece judging at a wool judging and evaluation seminar. This is a continuation of last year's successful program of fleece judging and grading presented by a panel of experts. This will be a "hands-on" opportunity for all as a learning experience.

Festival time has been expanded to 9 p.m. Saturday and events include a novice shearing contest, lamb barbecue demonstration, dancers and fashion show. Crafts persons will be manning their booths so fair goers may see and purchase unique items made of wool or sheepskin. Grounds open at 9 a.m. each day and will close at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Many of the contests formerly held in the main building will be staged at a covered pavilion just opposite the show ring. The lower floor of the dining hall building will house the fleece show and competition, fine arts, skein and garment, posters and related items. Fleece for hand spinning will be for sale and a spinning demonstration will be conducted during the fleece judging. The queen contest will be held at noon Saturday in the main floor of the building.

Two lamb cook-off contests will be held — one for adults, another for juniors, both to take place in the home arts building. Lamb cutting and cooking demonstrations will be held both days.

Shearing demonstrations will be on-going and sheep dogs will round up sheep both days. Feeder lambs will be judged and sold Saturday. Events scheduled Saturday include junior spinning, shepherd's lead, sheep to shawl contest, 4-H and FFA judging. The shawls will be auctioned at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Booths will be selling delicious food, featuring lamb and there will be lamb to purchase for home use. The festival is sponsored by the Maryland Sheep Breeders Association. Admission and parking is free. For further information call Mary Streaker, 301-321-1344, or Florence Hall, 301-845-8744.

Hog Producers Should Air Thoughts On Checkoff

NEWARK, Del. — Speaking up is a right that we all have, and I personally feel that holding in your opinions and feelings on issues that concern you is an unhealthy tactic. It's far better to consider and weigh the options, make a decision and let your views be known.

We in the pork industry need to speak up about the issues facing us. Several months ago, the 100 percent mandatory checkoff went into effect. As you are all aware, this checkoff program mandates that each hog sold be checked off at the rate of .25 of 1 percent of its value. These monies are then collected by the recently formed Pork Board and distributed to promote pork, fund research and educate producers and consumers alike as to the value of pork in the diet.

Many producers favor the checkoff; however, some do not. That's why it's important for you as an individual to speak out, so your opinion can be heard.

Speaking out can only be effective if we speak to the right people.

We in the swine industry are very fortunate to be represented by some fine producer-oriented groups. These groups are producer run and are always looking for interested producers to join their ranks. They represent the pork growers in their respective areas and care about the opinions you have regarding such issues as the checkoff, sulfa residues and "the other white meat" promotional campaign recently initiated by the National Pork Producers Council.

If you raise hogs, these issues affect you directly. Keeping informed can be a challenge to say the least, so membership can provide the information you need to decide where you stand.

I've heard producers say that their association doesn't want them as a member or that their opinions don't count. Nothing could be further from the truth. Associations can't exist without members. As a matter of fact, it's the membership that gives the association its whole reason for existence. It doesn't matter if you're new to pork production or an old hand. Your opinions count and your associations want to hear from you.

The time has come for the swine industry to pull together. Issues that affect all pork producers will be emerging over the next year or so. Your association needs to know where you stand so it can decide where it stands.

An association cannot represent its members unless it hears from them all and acts accordingly. Get involved, speak out and be counted so that a more unified industry can direct itself into the future.

Health Professionals Targeted By Pork Board

DES MOINES, Iowa - The National Livestock and Meat Board (NLSMB) will use a special allocation of pork producer checkoff funds during the remainder of 1987 to increase understanding among the nation's health care professionals of pork and its role as part of a healthy and balanced diet.

The National Pork Board recently set aside $150,000 for the Meat Board's Pork Industry Group project which will include mailing nutritional information about pork directly to approximately 120,000 health care professionals including dietitians, physicians and nutritionists.

Another of the projects to be funded under the program is a series of four seminars jointly sponsored with the American Dietetic Association. While the seminars will deal with nutrient composition and consumption data for meat in general, emphasis will be given to showing how pork can fit dietary recommendations using the 3-ounce portion concept.

Sharon Cooper, NLSMB's Director of Program Development, Pork and Processed Meats, said that the Meat Board projects funded by the National Pork Board should strengthen the promotion effort being directed to consumers through the National Pork Producers Council. "The projects are designed to correct health care professionals' misperceptions about pork, concerning fat, calories and cholesterol. We believe it is an effective way to convince physicians and dietitians that they should be recommending pork as part of a balanced, modified or general wellness diet," Cooper said.

Wool, Mohair Payments Announced

WASHINGTON - Sheep producers will receive about $109 million in federal incentive payments on wool and lambs sold during 1986, according to Milton Hertz, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Mohair payments total $38 million for the same period.

The 1986 support price for shorn wool is $1.78 per pound, determined in accordance with the National Wool Act of 1954, as amended. The 1986 national average market price for shorn wool, 66.8 cents per pound, was 111.2 cents less than the support price.

A 1986 payment rate of 166.5 percent for wool results from dividing the support price by the national average price. The payment rate is the amount required to bring the average price received by producers up to the support price. The 1985 payment rate was 160.7 percent.

For mohair, the 1986 average market price was $2.51 and the support price $4.93, making the payment rate 96.4 percent. The 1985 rate was 28.4 percent.

Hertz said that USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation will not make payments on those parts of a producer's sales proceeds that exceed $2.67 per pound for wool or $10.04 per pound for mohair.

Producers will receive $4.45 per hundredweight in federal payments for unshorn lambs that were sold or slaughtered during 1986. The payment is based on the shorn wool payment rate, the average weight of wool per hundredweight of lamb, and the price of lamb's wool relative to the national average price for shorn wool.

Stamp Reduces Beef Checkoff Paperwork

WASHINGTON - The Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board has approved a rubber stamp for use in certifying that cattle sales are exempt from the $1 per head assessment used for financing the board's activities, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced recently.

Cattle sold by producers in the United States are subject to the assessment, which began Oct. 1 under the Beef Promotion and Research Act, except when the seller in the transaction certifies that his only share of the sale proceeds is a sales commission, handling fee or other service fee. Also, cattle sold by non-producers within 10 days of purchase and with proper certification are not subject to the assessment.

The Beef Board approved the new certification stamp in response to industry requests for an alternative to the official form "Statement of Certification of Non-Producer Status." The new rubber stamp, when used on the sales receipt, should significantly reduce the amount of paperwork required to exempt a sale from assessment, according to Paul M. Fuller, an official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

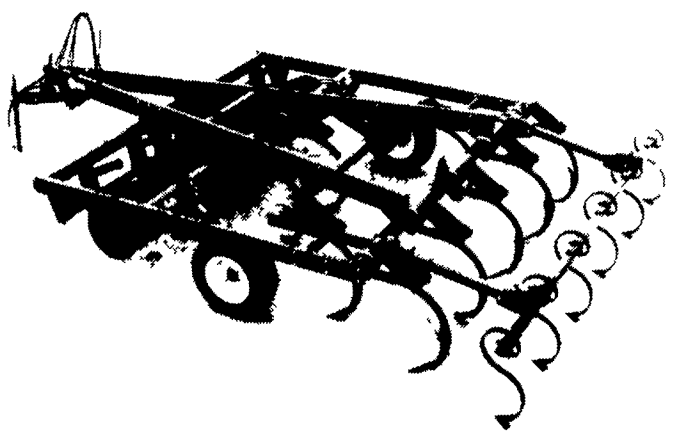
New Coulter-Chisel Cuts Through Trash

WARSAW, Ind. — Unverferth Manufacturing, Kalida, Ohio, is now producing a specially engineered coulter-chisel. The new implement combines heavy, trash-cutting coulters with rugged, chisel-type shanks and an innovative design to provide unusually thorough and effective primary tillage.

The Unverferth Coulter-Chisel is available in 7-, 9-, 11-, and 13-shank models. The 7-shank model features single wheels, the 11- and 13-shank models have tandem wheels, and the 9-shank model is available with either wheel option. All Coulter-Chisels have a 4-by-4-inch heavy wall steel frame with solid steel rock shafts and a rigid 2-by-8-inch V-shaped hitch. As a result, the implement is heavy enough to work effectively without additional weight regardless of crop residue or soil condition.



Unverferth's Coulter-Chisel combines rugged coulters and shanks to provide effective primary tillage.

The implement's 20-inch rippled, self-sharpening coulters are mounted on 7 1/2 inch centers in a combination of 3- and 4-blade gangs, so access and maintenance is easy. The gangs are spring-loaded on a common, hydraulically-controlled rock shaft, allowing cutting depth to be changed "on the go." A standard hydraulic lock valve eliminates bleed-off back to the tractor, so depth remains fixed. Because each gang is independently mounted and pivotable, the coulters "walk" around obstructions and follow high contours individually without affecting the remaining gangs.

Standard 2-by-2-inch and heavy duty 3 inch x 3 inch S-tine leveler attachments to smooth the ridges left by the Coulter-Chisel are available as options. The Coulter-Chisel can also be provided with rigid rather than spring-cushioned shanks.

Massey Introduces Largest Capacity Rotary Combine

BRANTSFORD, Ont. — The first of the new, technologically advanced Massey 8590 Rotary Combines began rolling off the production line in Brantford on March 23. The 8590 features a unique impeller feed to the rotor, and has the largest capacity of any rotary in the world, according to Tony Colvin, Massey's vice-president of marketing services.

"Rotary technology allows us to build a combine with higher capacity than conventional combines without increasing the physical size of the machine," Colvin said.

The 8590 marks the second rotary Massey has developed from the technology acquired from White Farm Limited of Canada in 1985. "Massey will be continuing its line of high performance conventional combines, but has embarked on a new energy in harvesting with the 8590 rotary, designed to handle the largest farming operations," Colvin said.

The 8590 is versatile, it performs in all crops such as wheat, corn, soybeans and rice, as well as other smaller grains and seeds such as barley, canola, alfalfa, safflower and clover. "It is also very easy to maintain and service," Colvin added.

John Bergsma, executive vice president, Massey Combines Corporation, and the new 8590 rotary combine.

Marshall Machinery Receives Ag Safety Award

HONESDALE — Marshall Machinery Inc., of Honesdale, was a recent recipient of a special safety award from the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council. They were recognized for their cooperative and enthusiastic support of agricultural safety programming in Wayne County.

The dealership has co-sponsored a two-day training program on "Farm Accident Situations," which is designed to prepare area ambulance and emergency pesonnel for special rescue procedures on farms. In addition, the dealership co-sponsored an evening program on "Farm Safety Hazards and Personal Protective Equipment for Working on the Farm." Marshall has also been an active supporter of the annual 4-H Tractor Safety and Certification program which trains 4-H youth in the safe operation of farm tractors and equipment.

Patz 'KIP' Reconditions Silo Unloaders

POUND, Wisc. — Owners of Patz silo unloaders can keep their long-life parts and replace the rest of the machine at a new low price.

Most owners find that even after many years of service, they don't have to replace the complete Patz unloader. With the new KIP (Keep It Patz) offer, owners can keep their Patz surface-drive unloader's electric motor, electrical joint, counterweight, lower transmission, drive wheel gearbox, power cutter, gathering chain and options.

The 98B KIP includes adjustable track frame, 30-inch drive wheels, caster wheels, blower less blades, blower cap, chute pole assembly, leveling mechanism, assembly hardware, guards and more. The 98B KIP can be purchased at a substantial savings over a complete unloader.

Also, a similar KIP offer is available for Patz ring-drive unloaders.

Contact a Patz dealer today for all of the details on the new KIP offers. Or, contact Patz Sales, Inc., Pound, Wisconsin 54161-0007. Phone (414) 897-2251.

New Monitor Increases Efficiency

COMPTON, CA — Kubota Tractor Corporation recently introduced its new Tractor Performance Monitor (TPM) for farm tractor models. Designed to maximize efficiency, the new performance monitor provides the operator with accurate readouts of ground speed, engine RPM, total area covered, area covered per hour and PTO RPM.

TPM is offered as a factory installed option on Kubota agricultural tractor models M6950, M7950, M8950, M7030DT and M8030DT.

For easy operation in the field, Kubota's new performance monitor features a large, bright LCD display with extra-large pushbuttons. In addition, accurate readouts are ensured by the TPM's fully computerized control console.

For more information about the TPM, or other Kubota products, please contact Kubota Tractor Corporation, 550 West Artesia Boulevard, Compton, California 90220.

Tam Agri Receives Award

Tam Agri Corporation of Dillsburg received a Bronze Bin Award for their 1986 storage bin sales achievements from Brock Manufacturing, Milford, Indiana. The award is based on the dollar volume of Brock storage bin and bin accessories Tam Agri Corporation sold during 1986. Receiving the award from Rick Van Puffelen (left), district manager for Brock, was Galen M. Julius, Vice President of Tam Agri Corporation.

Less Than 1 Percent Of U.S. Ag Land Is Foreign-Owned

WASHINGTON — Foreign interests held 12.4 million acres, or slightly less than 1 percent, of privately owned U.S. agricultural land as of Dec. 31, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service. This was up 369,000 from the end of 1985.

The analysis also revealed:

• Forest land accounts for 52 percent of all foreign-owned acreage; cropland, 17 percent; pasture and other agricultural land 26 percent; and nonagricultural and unreported uses, 5 percent.

• Corporations own 79 percent of the foreign-held acreage; partnerships, 11 percent; and individuals, 8 percent. The remaining 2 percent is held by estates, trusts, associations, institutions and others.

• U.S. corporations in which foreign persons (individuals and other entities such as corporations and partnerships) have a significant interest or substantial control reported owning 57 percent of all foreign-held acreage. The remaining 43 percent of foreign-held acreage is held by foreign persons not affiliated with a U.S. corporation.

• Some land is held only in part by foreign investors. These partial interests reduce the 12.4 million acres of foreign holdings of U.S. agricultural land to an equivalent of 11.4 million acres.

• Foreign persons from the United Kingdom, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands Antilles and Switzerland own 70 percent of the foreign-held acreage.

• The largest foreign-owned acreage, mostly timberland, was reported in Maine.

According to the foreign owners, they plan to keep 92 percent of their acreage in agricultural production. They also reported no plans to change tenancy or rental arrangements on 45 percent of the acres, some change on 27 percent of the acres and "no response" for 27 percent.

Silage Distributor Developed For High-Rate Blowers

Other distributors of this type, including Level-Flo's familiar Model 1030, use a standard 9-inch gooseneck. The new 1200 Multi-Flo incorporates a larger 12-inch gooseneck, and repositioned spreader fins.

Field tests of the new design on high-rate blowers demonstrate near elimination of problems with plugging. In addition, the wider stream of forage from the gooseneck into the spreader fins produces better distribution. The result, according to company president Henry Stoltzfus, is a more uniformly packed silo.

Other changes on the Model 1200 Multi-Flo include a heavier, stainless steel liner and non-binding hinges.

New Herbicide Controls Broadleaf Weeds

WILMINGTON, Del. — Selective, postemergence control of broadleaf weeds will be available to soybean growers this season with the recent registration of Reflex herbicide.

Reflex, manufactured by ICI Americas Inc., has been labeled for use by the Environmental Protection Agency to control a wide range of broadleaf weeds, including morningglory, cocklebur, pigweed, ragweed, mustard, jimsonweed, smartweed and nightshade.

While Reflex controls target weeds primarily through contact action, it also provides soil residual activity for longer control.

Under the new registration, Reflex herbicide and Fusilade 2000, a selective herbicide for annual and perennial grass control, can be used together in a total postemergence program for broad-spectrum weed control. The herbicides are labeled for application either in a tank mix or sequentially.

Additional information on Reflex and Fusilade 2000 can be obtained by calling ICI Americas Information Service at 1-800-441-7757, extension 3192. In Delaware, call collect at 575-3192.

From the Microbial Genetics Division of Pioneer.
Different jobs take different tools. And having just the right tool can make a big difference in the kind of job you do. Especially when you're making silage.

Pioneer offers you the right tools to make the most of the silage you make. And no matter what your type of operation, Pioneer has a formulation to fit your exact needs.

Apply wet or dry. Whether you spray on new Pioneer® brand 1174 water soluble silage inoculant, or sprinkle the easy-flowing dry Pioneer® brand 1177 silage inoculant, we've got the right formulation for your operation.

NEW water soluble Pioneer® brand 1174 silage inoculant cuts fermentation time in half. New 1174 is a highly concentrated water soluble powder. By mixing one small 150 gram foil packet with 25 gallons of water, you can effectively treat 50 tons of silage.

Pioneer® brand 1177 silage inoculant. The largest selling inoculant on the market today, the easy-flowing, dry formulation continues to prove the difference inoculated silage can make.

Let us prove the difference these management tools can make in your operation. Talk to your Pioneer sales representative. Or, call our customer service department toll free. We have test results that show how these tools help make more pounds of milk from every ton of forage you ensile. Call toll-free 1-800-247-6782. In Iowa call 1-800-342-7119.

Soil Conservation Deadlines Important For USDA Program Benefits

HARRISBURG – Several dates are very important to farmers who want to remain eligible for most U.S. Department of Agriculture program benefits by complying with the conservation provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill, according to Robert Heidecker, USDA Soil Conservation Service. The conservation provisions are commonly called sodbuster, swampbuster and conservation compliance.

Heidecker reported that these provisions encourage the reduction of soil erosion, the retention of wetlands, the reduction of surplus commodity production and make USDA farm and conservation programs more consistant.

SODBUSTER: Effective June 27, 1986. Conservation plan approved by local conservation district is needed immediately.

Program Years 1986, 1987 - Plowing of land in sod, 1981 - 1985, on highly erodible land requires application of soil conservation system to start the year of plowing and be completed the following year.

SWAMPBUSTER: Effective December 23, 1985.

CONSERVATION COMPLIANCE - January 1, 1990 - Deadline for having a conservation plan developed and approved by the local conservation district.

January 1, 1995 - Deadline for COMPLETING the application of soil conservation systems on highly erodible land.

The above dates only apply to farmers who wish to continue receiving other USDA program benefits. "The conservation provisions are voluntary," said Heidecker. "Farmers are not forced to comply with the requirements of the farm bill conservation provisions. However, Congress, in passing this legislation, stated that farmers who do not care for their soil and water resources will not benefit from USDA farm programs."

Heidecker urged farmers to visit their local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and Soil Conservation Service to learn about the opportunities that the farm bill offers.

Prepack Herbicide Combinations Available For '87

NEWARK, Del. — The 1987 crop season is bringing with it many new weed control chemicals and combinations of chemicals for soybeans, and even a few for corn.

"Not only are there plenty of new products," says University of Delaware extension weed specialist Frank Webb, "but some have even changed hands within the industry." Blazer, for example, has been purchased from Rohm and Haas by BASF Company.

Many new prepack chemical combinations of materials are available from a single company. There are also prepacks of chemicals manufactured by two or even three different companies, including products like Commence, Salute and Turbo.

To help growers sort out all these materials, Webb has prepared the following list, which contains the latest information on chemical combination prepack formulation ratios as well as new chemicals now available as single ingredients.

Poultry Sales, Service Conference Slated

UNIVERSITY PARK - A Poultry Sales and Service Conference is slated for April 21 and 22 at the Keller Conference Center on Penn State's University Park Campus.

Conference sessions will address a variety of issues in the poultry industry, including water quality in broiler production, insulation for poultry houses, advantages of chemical disinfectants, diuresis in poultry and the economic outlook for broilers and eggs in 1987.

The conference will also feature a presentation on how biotechnology can lead to better poultry products, and a tour of the Wiley Infectious Containment Facility. Tuesday will wind up with a poultry products smorgasbord at Mountain Acres Lodge.

The registration fee for the conference is $40, which includes all costs of instruction, materials and coffee breaks. Advance registration is required. For more information and a registration form, contact conference chairman Owen D. Keene, 224 Henning Building, University Park, Pa. 16802; (814) 863-2131.

Improving water infiltration may increase crop yields.

The ingredients in Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner have been shown to improve water infiltration, or penetration. This is generally known to have many possible benefits on farms, including improved soil aeration, reduced runoff, reduced erosion, water conservation and increased crop yields. The results you obtain depend on conditions in your own field and your farming practices.

Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner may also enhance the relationship between water, soil and plants. This can help your farm in many ways, because the way that crops get water and nutrients depends on the way that water moves through soil.

Helps promote uniform water penetration

In carefully controlled field studies, Basic-H Concentrated Soil Conditioner substantially increased water infiltration, or penetration, on eight wettable soils. These experiments were all repeated five or six times, producing statistically significant results with a 95% confidence level. This means that the same results would be obtained in 19 out of every 20 experiments.

Domestic Refiners Help Offset Decreasing Corn Exports

WASHINGTON — Corn refiners used nearly 850 million bushels of corn in 1986 to increase their production of starches, sweeteners, alcohol and coproducts to new levels, according to Robert C. Liebenow, president of the Corn Refiners Association, Inc.

Liebenow said the growth of corn refining has already boosted processing demand enough to rival the export demand for corn and predicted that by 1990, corn refiners alone will use over one billion bushels of corn each year.

"USDA projects that 1.13 billion bushels of corn will go into processing this year, compared to 1.25 billion bushels for exports," Liebenow said. "While that's a sad commentary on U.S. export demand, it shows just how important corn refining, which constitutes about 75 percent of processing demand, has become."

Total shipments by CRA member companies reached 36.8 billion pounds in 1986, up from 36.1 billion pounds in 1985. High fructose corn syrup led the industry, with 5.2 billion pounds of 42-HFCS and 8.9 billion pounds of the sweeter 55-HFCS shipped. The 14.1 billion pounds of HFCS, added to 6.4 billion pounds of other sweetener shipments, meant that for the second straight year, Americans used more corn sweeteners than sugar.

Members' starch shipments also increased from 4.2 billion pounds to almost 4.4 billion pounds, while corn oil shipments neared 1.1 billion pounds and feed products totalled 11.7 billion pounds.

The success of corn refining produces a wide variety of benefits, according to Liebenow, who said the most important recent benefit has been that the industry's growth has slowed the drop in corn prices. "While annual exports have fallen over a billion bushels since 1980, total annual corn use has dropped about 450 million bushels, as refining demand picked up much of the slack," Liebenow noted. "Imagine what it would mean to corn prices today if refiners weren't using 855 million bushels in 1987."

The success of high fructose corn syrup has fueled refiners' growth, and Liebenow cited several advantages from the use of HFCS. "HFCS is the most efficiently produced sweetener in the world. It's meant low, stable sweetener prices for American consumers, a growing market for corn use, and reduced reliance on sugar imports. "Our trade deficit could have been even worse without 'made in the USA' HFCS," Liebenow said.

Liebenow noted that the refining industry has also helped ease the trade deficit through the export of corn gluten feed, a major coproduct, while the industry's effect on corn prices has reduced the impact of corn deficiency payments on the federal budget deficit.

Ethanol, which Liebenow said could produce further major increases in corn use, also offers multiple advantages as an octane booster, gasoline extender and clean-burning ingredient which can help clean fuel injection systems. He predicted that as oil prices rise, the merits of ethanol will become increasingly evident in the marketplace.

SCS Reports Progress In Soil Saving Efforts

HARRISBURG — Efforts of a federal conservation agency to target its help to areas with serious soil erosion and water quality problems is paying dividends reports State Conservationist James Olson.

The USDA Soil Conservation Service is using several programs in this effort to make major reductions in soil and water management problems. Tons of soil saved have almost doubled from 1984 to 1986 in the 14 southeastern counties of the Mason-Dixon Erosion Control Area, reports Olson. Over 700,000 tons were saved last year compared to 380,000 in 1984.

Similar progress has been reported in the upper portion of the Conestoga River Watershed through the Rural Clean Water Programs. Since its start in 1982, 74 contracts have been signed covering 5,505 acres. These contracts are to improve both ground and surface water conditions. Monitoring of both surface and ground water quality continues on two farms and a smaller watershed by the U.S. Geologic Survey.

Closely related is the state cost share program in farm nutrient management in six high priority watersheds in portions of Adams, York, Dauphin, Lebanon, Lancaster and Chester Counties. A total of $1.9 million has been obligated for 100 farm nutrient management plans to improve water quality. The USDA Soil Conservation Service assists conservation districts by providing technical planning and application assistance for Best Management Practices.

"All of these programs are located in southeastern Pennsylvania and had an impact of doubling tons of soil saved in the last two years, stated Olson. "However, directing efforts to the most serious problems is happening in other part of the state too."

Land treatment watersheds are providing extra dollars and technical help to four watersheds. Clover Creek, Blair County; Buffalo Creek, Union County; Rock Creek, Adams County; and Cedar Run in Clinton and Centre Counties are involved in this program. According to Olson, Clover Creek was one of the first of this type program in the country. Clover Creek is in its fourth year of a 10-year program. About 70 percent of its funds to reduce soil erosion and improve the quality of Clover Creek have been contracted with farmers in the valley.

"Targeting is occurring in each county," states Olson. "Our field office staffs have been directed to give priority assistance to farmers in these areas."

The Soil Conservation Service is the technical arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It provides help to farmers and other landusers through locally governed county conservation districts.

World's Largest Chicken Barbecue Slated

LANCASTER — The Lancaster Sertoma Club has kicked off its annual ticket sales campaign for the World's Largest Chicken Barbecue. The Club plans to serve 23,000 barbecued chicken halves in this, the 34th annual Barbecue to be held on Saturday, May 16, 1987, at Long's Park in Lancaster.

Barbecue chairman, Steve Duke has announced that the menu for this year's dinner will be a barbecued chicken half, applesauce, drink, potato chips, roll and ice cream. The dinner will cost $4. A barbecued chicken half will also be available. Tickets may be purchased from any Lancaster Sertoma member and can also be purchased on the day of the Barbecue at the Park.

Over 17 tons of chicken will be cooked, using 8 1/2 tons of charcoal. Time for the event is 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Proceeds from the barbecue will be used to benefit Long's Park and other Sertoma charities including speech and hearing.

Soybean Planting Guidelines

BY ROBERT E. LEIBY
and DAVID L. DUNBAR
Lehigh Cooperative Extension

The optimum date for planting soybeans is very similar to that for corn. However, since delayed planting reduces corn yield much more than soybean yield, corn should be planted first. Once corn planting is finished, do not delay soybean planting. Plant soybeans 1 to 1½ inches deep. Do not plant in dry soil. If soil forms a crust before beans emerge, break it with a rotary hoe or spike-tooth harrow. Harrow very shallow.

The preferred row width for full-season beans is 30 inches or less.

Double-crop beans should be planted in approximately 14-inch rows or as close as your equipment allows. With double-crop beans, rows wider than 15 inches are not desirable.

If the previous year's crop was not soybeans, inoculate seed with fresh, viable, nitrogen-fixing bacteria immediately before planting. Triple the inoculant rate if soybeans have not been grown previously in the field.

Seeding Rates for Soybeans

Row Width (inches)	Number of Seeds Planted/Foo l of Row Full Season	Double Crop
7	2.5	3.5
10	3.5	4.5
14	5.0	6.5
15	5.0	6.5
21	7.0
24	8.0
30	10.0

The number of seeds planted per foot of row is based on 85 percent germination and an optimum population of approximately 150,000 plants per acre for full-season beans and 200,000 plants per acre for double-cropped beans. This will require between 60 and 90 pounds per acre of seed, depending on seed size. Use a corn planter with soybean seed plates or a grain drill. Herbicide choice is critical for soybeans planted in rows or solid plantings that cannot be cultivated.

Apple Grading Workshop Slated

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – Grading and inspection of apples and peaches will be the subject of a workshop to be held for inspectors on April 29 and 30, 1987 at the Howard Johnsons Motel, Hagerstown, Maryland.

Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Fruit and Vegetables Division, Fresh Products Branch, this annual seminar gathers technical personnel from six states, providing an annual refresher course in grading and inspections of fresh produce. Representatives from the Departments of Agriculture of New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia, West Virginia, plus USDA staff will be participating.

Growers are encouraged to contact MDA with specific topics which they feel should be addressed by this group. For further information or to share ideas for workshop subjects contact Thomas O. Meredith, Jr., Maryland Dept. of Agriculture, 841-5782.

Ticks Wait On Weeds For Unwary Hosts

NEWARK, Del. — Warmer weather is luring people and pets outside where ticks lurk on the tops of tall grasses and weeds, hoping to hook onto a host.

"It's interesting this time of year to see ticks crawl to the top of a piece of grass and lie there with their legs spread out, waiting for some animal to come by," says Mark Graustein, University of Delaware extension entomologist. He says that ticks are a particular problem here in early spring through early summer and then again in late summer and early fall.

"We don't see so many of them in the really hot part of the summer," he says. "Probably because they dry out easily in the sun." Ticks are found primarily in tall grasses and weeds, often under a canopy of trees.

Because ticks can transmit diseases such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever and Lyme disease, Graustein recommends checking yourself and your children and pets thoroughly after every outing. Ticks are usually found around a dog's ears, neck and between its toes. On humans look along the hairline of the neck, behind ears and in the armpit and groin areas. Check clothing carefully when it is removed, before ticks have time to crawl off.

The simplest way to remove most ticks is use tweezers and a slow, steady pull. Try to remove the mouth parts with the rest of the tick because these can cause a local infection if they remain in the skin. "Don't use fingernail polish, chloroform, ether, kerosene, a hot match or a glowing cigarette," Graustein says. "These methods may cause more serious injury than the bite itself."

Three types of ticks are prevalent in Delaware. The American dog tick, held responsible for spreading Rocky Mountain spotted fever, has a white mottled shield on its back. The brown dog tick, which rarely attacks humans, is similar in size but its shield is the same color as the rest of its body. The black-legged tick, also known as the deer tick, is about two-thirds the size of the two dog ticks. This tick is more orange or amber in color, has a more rounded shield and dark-colored legs. It is a known carrier of Lyme disease, which produces arthritis-like symptoms and can cause liver, heart and lung complications if not treated.

"The mouth parts of the black-legged tick are longer and covered with spines," says Graustein, "so when they attach to the skin it hurts like crazy." Others have likened the bite of this tick to "having a lighted cigarette held against your body."

Graustein says that there were four reported cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in Delaware in 1985 and one in 1986. There was one case of Lyme disease in 1986, according to surveillance reports by the state epideomiologist.

There may be more black-legged ticks around this year, Graustein says. Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station records show outbreaks of this type of tick in 1949 and again 20 years later. "In the last three or four years we've seen more of the black-legged tick, so there seems to be a cyclic reinfestation."

Most standard insect repellants will work against ticks, the specialist says. A new clothing treatment to repel ticks and chiggers, Permenone, is highly successful but difficult to find in Delaware, he adds. When walking in areas that might be infested with ticks, remember to keep clothing buttoned, tuck pant legs into socks and keep shirttails in.

Most tick or flea sprays or powders will help protect your pets. "Check the ingredients to see if Sevin or Baygon (propoxur) are listed," suggests Graustein. Sevin and Diazinon are also recommended for treating infestations by the brown dog tick in the home.

Corn Irrigation: Does It Pay To Install A System?

BY DORIS CROWLEY
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – Despite the high capital cost of installing irrigation and the current low price of corn, it still pays to install a system on drought-prone Delmarva, according to two University of Delaware agricultural economists who have studied the subject extensively.

Their research shows that a system installed to irrigate corn can pay for itself. But deciding to make this investment must be based on economic reality, not wishful thinking.

"Farmers who are already in serious financial trouble because of previous unwise decisions are unlikely to cure existing problems simply by buying an overhead sprinkler system," says extension farm management specialist Dr. Don Tilmon. "Irrigation won't necessarily correct their past mistakes." But where growers can afford the investment, it can be a profitable decision.

As irrigated acreage on the Delmarva peninsula continues to increase, Tilmon and resource economist Dr. John Mackenzie say producers who grow dry-land corn are likely to be at a double disadvantage. Non-irrigators must rely on uncertain rainfall to produce their crop. But they can no longer count on drought-induced shortages to bolster local prices when dry-land yields are down.

Farmers who grow corn in this part of the country must ask themselves two questions, Mackenzie says. "First, "Can I afford to irrigate?" Second, "If I grow cornh, can I afford not to irrigate?" Answering these questions requires a close look at some hard facts.

Tilmon and Mackenzie believe farmers sometimes make major investments more on the basis of emotion than rigorous financial analysis. They also believe the profit margins in today's agriculture are too narrow to let emotions control important financial decisions. So last winter the two economists combined forces to examine the costs, financing, tax incentives, returns and potential payback involved in one important investment decision — whether or not to put in an irrigation system for corn.

Tilmon provided the information on installation and production costs. Mackenzie punched it up on a computer and then developed a formula to analyze the figures and generate spreadsheets for determining the profitability of installing irrigation on any given farm.

"Many of the decisions made by farmers — sometimes even the decision to be a farmer at all — fail even the most basic test of economic feasibility, a simple comparison of the return on investment between the farming enterprise and some safer investment such as an insured certificate of deposit," Mackenzie says. "Our study analyzes investment in irrigation by using a procedure called net present value analysis just the way other industries use it for making capital investment decisions."

The concept of net present value (NPV) or opportunity cost is based on the assumption that "receiving money next year isn't as good as receiving it this year," Mackenzie says. His computer program compares current expenses with current and future returns from irrigating corn. It also looks at the tax consequences of the investment, discounting the costs and returns for each year of the projected 15-year life of the irrigation equipment. Analyzing this information for a given farm shows whether investing in irrigation will pay on that farm.

The computer program is available to interested producers through Tilmon. The software runs on Lotus 1-2-3. Using the software, you just need to plug in your own data on costs, financing terms, taxes, anticipated yield increment and so on. Though easy to use, the results do require the interpretation of an expert. "Farmers should go through this analysis with an economist or an accountant," Mackenzie notes.

Based on some fairly typical assumptions, the economists say their analyses show that the investment in irrigation does yield a satisfactory return under Delmarva growing conditions.

Using a typical production scenario for the region, the program shows that irrigation has the potential to enhance yield by 75 extra bushels per acre. Assuming a corn price of $2.10 a bushel, 10.5 percent financing for three years, and a cost of $29.80 per acre (including plausible labor, fuel and other costs) to apply 10 inches of water per season, the NPV is positive even without possible tax benefits.

Though the program doesn't cover other crops, the economists do have preliminary information which shows that installing an irrigation system for use on soybeans would be less profitable.

Traditionally, in a regional drought with no irrigators, yield goes down and the local corn price rises. But as the number of irrigators increases, because of consistently higher yields they will command a bigger share of the market with less change in price. So non-irrigators will get hit two ways by a drought — they'll lose more of the market share without seeing the price go up.

"The fact is," says Tilmon, "irrigation is going to stabilize production, which in turn will stabilize prices. And that means that the person who doesn't irrigate will be at even greater risk than he was before."

"Irrigation is one of the few investments a corn farmer can make today where we can demonstrate a return on the investment," Tilmon concludes. But he and Mackenzie both stress the importance of analyzing the decision to irrigate on a farm-by-farm basis.

"You must consider your financial position and realize that the behavior of your competitors is affecting the market environment, whether or not you irrigate," Mackenzie says. "But before you spend any money on an irrigation system, take a close look at the economics involved. Buying equipment — tractors, an irrigation system or any other major expense — on the basis of emotion can get you in trouble.

For help in using the computer program to determine the feasibility of installing an irrigation system, Delaware farmers are encouraged to contact their county extension agricultural agent in Newark (451-8934), Dover (697-4000) or Georgetown (856-7303). Or call extension farm management specialist Dr. Don Tilmon directly (451-2511).

Set Priorities For Farm Work

Farmers who can't find time to do everything that needs to be done should take a look at their planning and priorities, according to an Ohio State University of Agricultural Economist.

Probably 80 percent of the value of your farm business is generated from 20 percent of the work you do, says Allan E. Lines. That means you have to identify those jobs that create the most income.

The first step, Lines says, is setting your goals — personal, business, family and individual family member goals. Once goals are set, priorities can be set. Lines offers these hints in setting priorities

- Ask if the job will help accomplish an important goal. If so, who does it? When must it be done? Are other jobs more important?
- Create a "to do" list with jobs listed in order of importance. (Refer to your goal list.) Make sure you have only one list and stick to it.
- Write tasks down. Don't trust your memory. Besides, there's a feeling of accomplishment to be gained by checking things off a list.
- Schedule jobs with some flexibility included. This allows for the unexpected.
- Resolve to bring problems to a close rather than putting them off. Make decisions when the problem arises Procrastinate only if you need more information.

MAMMA Releases 1987 Advertising Schedule

TOWSON, Md. – Stretching from Philadelphia to Washington D.C. and beyond, the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing is undeniably one of the most sought after consumer markets in the country. In this competitive marketplace it is the goal of the Advertising and Promotion Agency of the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area to ensure that the dairy products of Federal Order 4 milk producers are amply and supplied and promoted to consumers through a variety of outlets and media.

To achieve this goal the agency is implementing an advertising and promotion program that will reach the consumer at home, in retail food stores, in restaurants, at special events, and even sporting events. These programs will also work to reach wholesalers, distributors, marketing managers, restaurant owners and food editors. This comprehensive advertising schedule is based on an estimated 1987 budget of $5.2 million.

The programs conducted by MAMMA are developed on both a local level as an independent agency, and on a national basis as a regional unit of the American Dairy Association. On the accompanying advertising schedule, the developed by MAMMA are indicated by the dark bars, the lighter bars indicate the programs of ADA which MAMMA finances and implements here in the Mid-Atlantic market.

Television and radio advertising will play a major role in reaching consumers in a cost efficient manner. A nine month campaign with the slogan, "Milk Has Less Than 4% Fat" concluded in January.

Later this month a new fitness campaign will be launched and run through the end of the year.

Television and radio time to air the commercials of the new campaign will be bought during broadcast of Phillies and Orioles games because baseball receives the highest viewer audiences in the summer. Outdoor billboards of MAMMA sports stars advertising, "Milk Is Fitness You Can Drink," will also seen around the Mid-Atlantic this summer, the most advantageous time of year to use outdoor advertising.

Point-of-sale advertising at the dairy case will complement the electronic media. P.O.S. kits with the fitness theme will promote fluid milk. These kits will be installed at the same time as kits promoting cheese in the spring and the fall. The cheese kits are just two of five seasonal in-store promotions developed by ADA.

Other P.O.S. kits include a butter promotion in January, a multi-product summer campaign, and a holiday promotion between the Thanksgiving and New Years holidays. In-store radio advertising in stores will also be placed by MAMMA to complement the P.O.S. kits.

Special event days planned this year include ice cream promotions in July and ball park promotions with the Orioles and the Phillies in August.

MAMMA's marketing team will be making personal contact and training retailers, restaurant owners, distributors, food editors and home economists to ensure dairy products are promoted in a positive manner.

Alfred College Celebrates Ag Day With Contests, Tours

ALFRED, N.Y. — More than 3,000 visitors learned first hand that agriculture is "alive and well" at Alfred State College during the March 19 observance of National Agriculture Day.

The campus visitors, many of them youngsters who arrived in 63 buses from nearby elementary schools, petted farm animals, saw how farm equipment works, witnessed scientific experiments, and received some valuable nutrition tips from experts.

Of course, most of the youngsters (and adults as well) eventually gravitated toward the many tables of snacks and munched on such treats as cheese, ice cream, yogurt, sausage and other meats. They also sampled dairy products dispensed by dairy princesses Karen Habberfield of Scio and Angela Cornell of Jasper, representing Allegany and Steuben counties, respectively, and Allegany County alternate princess Valerie Krotz of Caneadea.

Collegiate Agricultural Leaders Club members and their adviser, Professor Thomas Cannon, served as hosts to the visitors but also arranged fun and games for their fellow students by sponsoring the college's first Ag Olympics.

Here, students competed in such novel events as hay bale tossing, milk chug-a-lugging, ice cream eating, and cow chip and egg tossing (not at the same time).

Two guest speakers joined in the festivities, and in their brief remarks focused on the importance of agriculture to the state's economy and the "new awareness" which state leaders seem to have developed toward agriculture.

Assemblyman John Hasper of Belfast told Ag Day participants that several actions are being initiated to ensure that agriculture continues as the state's number one industry.

He listed some of these as increased funding for mastitis control and establishment of a state office of rural affairs to coordinate federal, state, and local resources with special emphasis on transportation, land use, natural resources, and economic development.

He also noted the establishment of a legislative commission on dairy industry development to identify specific research needs and propose solutions.

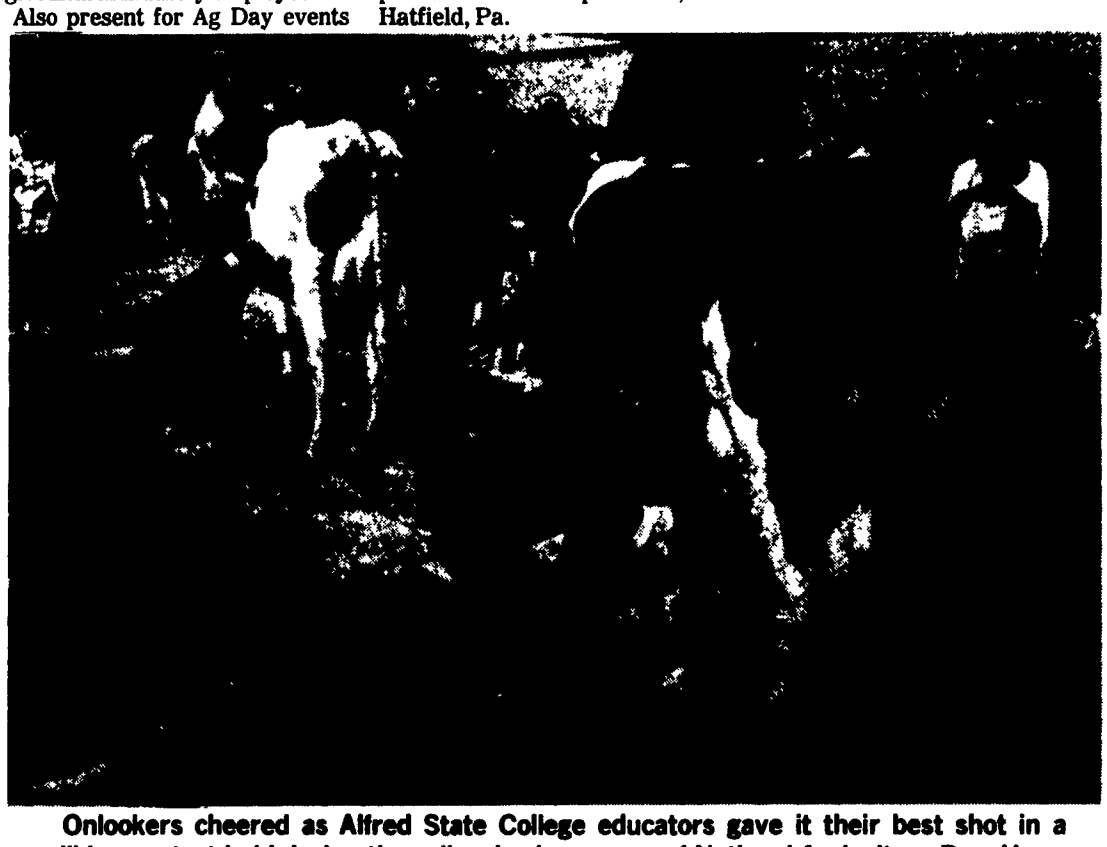
The Assemblyman added that agricultural marketing in the state must be improved because "most of North America's major population centers are located with 500 miles of our producing areas."

William J. Heaney of Belfast, district representative for Congressman Amory Houghton, told the crowd agriculture "is man's most basic vocation."

He said it must endure and thrive through the efforts of educators such as those at Alfred State who have a strong commitment to teaching of agriculture to "produce" today's and tomorrow's farmers and agricultural industry employees.

Also present for Ag Day events were Hatfield Packing Co. representatives Clair (Butch) Clemens, executive vice president, and son, Doug Clemens, hog procurement supervisor, of Hatfield, Pa.

Student co-chairmen for the day's events were Robert Kozlowski of Crittenden and Ronald Chase of South Dayton RD 1.



Onlookers cheered as Alfred State College educators gave it their best shot in a milking contest held during the college's observance of National Agriculture Day. Here, putting the squeeze on two patient Holsteins in what judges will agree is a tie performance, are Dr. Terry Weaver, right, dean of Alfred's School of Agriculture and Allied Health Technologies, and George H. Granger, professor in the Plant and Animal Science Department.

Research At Ag Experiment Stations Yields New Foods

WASHINGTON – New foods are old hat at America's agricultural experiment stations. Located at each land-grant university, these facilities have conducted food and fiber research for 100 years in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Here is just a sampling of the latest experimental foods to emerge from their work:

Blueberry Raisins, University of Maine

Blueberries come fresh, frozen, canned and even freeze-dried. But researchers at the University of Maine beat the bushes until they found yet another way to market their fruit. "Blueberry raisins" are vacuum-dried blueberries with a chewy texture, strong blueberry flavor and a shelf-life of up to one year – just right for use in breakfast cereals and fruit roll-ups. The key to their enormous economic potential for blueberry farmers is that vacuum-drying costs half as much as the costly freeze-drying process.

Buffalo Chips, South Dakota State University

Buffalo meat is horning its way into the snack world, thanks to research at South Dakota State University. "Buffalo Chips" made with unsmoked eye-of-the-round won the praises of sensory evaluation panels after extensive nutrition and cooking studies by university food scientists. Another plus: the meat is high in protein and relatively low in fat and cholesterol, according to the researchers.

"Soygurt," University of Illinois

If you want to eat yogurt but can't eat dairy foods, a soy-based product could be the answer. "Soygurt," developed by University of Illinois researchers, is a non-dairy, zero-cholesterol yogurt clone. It's also a marketing alternative for a major U.S. crop and a potential product for developing countries.

Smoked Catfish Loaf, Mississippi State University

Catfish farming has hooked many farmers looking to increase their profits with alternative crops. But how do you market all that fish? Researchers at Mississippi State University found there's more than one way to skin a catfish: you can mechanically debone it, add binders and curing salts, and mix it all together in a "tumbling" machine. The result is smoked catfish loaf – a high-protein, lowfat food with more consumer appeal than other products made with mechanically deboned fish, say the product's developers.

Sheep Cheeses, University of Minnesota

Imported sheep's milk cheese commands high prices in the U.S. marketplace. So could domestic sheep's milk cheese, say University of Minnesota scientists – that is, if there were a commercial dairy sheep industry in this country. Two research projects at the university could make that dream a reality. One seeks to develop cheese manufacturing processes using existing commercial cultures. The other examines the sheep themselves – their production potential and how to manage it.

HOMETOWN ECONOMICS

By Walt Buescher

A Seven Part Series

Editor's Note: We first heard this humorist give this speech at the ADA-DC Annual Meeting in Syracuse N.Y. but Walt Buescher of Pigeon Forge, Tennessee has spoken in Pennsylvania a good many times too. He always gives farm and agri-business groups the same message, a message that he calls "Hometown Economics," but which can best be described with the words, "cut back or sell."

Since retirement from Allis-Chalmers, Buescher has lived in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee where he operates a sales promotion firm called Grass Roots Communications. For the last 10 years, he has filled speaking dates for Ford New Holland all over the United States. So, here's Part 3 of 7 Parts.

Last time we discussed why our exports have gone to pot... strong dollar, worldwide recession, four presidential embargos in a row.

As if that isn't bad enough, we have lost domestic markets too. U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT says we're not eating the way we used to. On a per capita basis, in the last 15 years, we have begun to eat less bread, potatoes and sugar. We have cut back on pork and beef. We have cut back on dairy products and eggs. The increases in poultry, fruit and vegetables doesn't begin to make up the difference. OK, multiply that loss by 238 million people and that would make a whale of a difference on the streets of Lancaster, Pennsylvania too, wouldn't it?

What happened to our domestic markets? Who clobbered us? First, I say it was price. And you're going to say, "Hey, the USA farmer produces food for the smallest percentage of disposable income of any farmer in the world." You're right. 14%. In the USSR, it's 34%, Japan 23%, England 19%, India 59% and China 60%. Why then do I say "price?"

When our women folks go down the supermarket aisle, they see the price of peas, bread, head lettuce, milk and pork chops on a daily basis, don't they? They only buy furniture twice in their lifetime...when they get married and when the kids leave home, so they don't remember what the price of furniture was last time. But they remember the price of peas and pork chops from yesterday, don't they? When those prices go up, it gets to them. And then they get to the checkout counter and those narrow minded grocers won't take her Visa card... they insist on cash. The only place in town that insists on cash. And here his gal is trying to save up for a TV set for the bathroom so she has to cut back somewhere. She cuts back on food purchases.

Then we all resist change. Do you remember when the officials of Iowa Beef got in hot water because they worked with the Mafia to get boxed beef into New York City? The supermarkets and labor unions resisted change. They didn't want less expensive, nutritious boxed beef in New York City.

The WALL STREET JOURNAL reported that Honolulu dairy farmers are screaming because there's milk coming in from Santa Barbara. Well, if a dairy farmer 10 miles out of Honolulu can't compete with someone 1,500 miles and 5 days away, he had better come back to Penn State for a short course. Right?

In my book, the third and most important reason for the decline of food purchases per capita in this country is the jolly boys and jolly girls who pass themselves off as nutrition experts.

Jimmy Carter's Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Carole Foreman told the world that beef causes heart trouble and pork causes cancer. We're told that fish is full of mercury. Sugar causes hypertension. Fruits and vegetables are acidic... toxic... more toxicity in a tomato than in Three Mile Island. Hot coffee and tea release radon gas. Dairy products, bread and potatoes make us fat we're told and abesity is deadly. They tell us to get off of our fatty acids. That doesn't leave much, does it? Whatever it leaves, the farmers poison with pesticides so USA citizens should not eat, drink or breathe. Thus saith the nutritionist!

George Burns is 90+ years old. He smokes 15 cigars a day, drinks two martinis and avoids fiber in his diet. He has outlived every nutrition expert in the country. When George was asked what his doctor thought about his diet, he replied, "My doctor died 27 years ago."

To me, this is all a little nutty. Our neighbor Buford Barnes has a grandson in Parchment school...third grade. A psychology PhD came out from UT and said, "I would like to test the perception of the students in this class. If the USA is borderd on the north by Canada, on the east by the Atlantic, on the south by the Gulf of Mexico and Mexico and on the west by the Pacific, how old am I?"

Silence.

Then Junior popped up with, "Mister, you're 44." "That's right," the professor proclaimed. "With the clues I gave you, how could you tell that I was 44?"

Junior said, "I got a brother Joe at home who is half nuts...he's 22."

We've got a whole yard full of these liberal activists. There are the "big is bad...small is beautiful" people. The zero growth

Corn Growers Seek U.S. Government Support In Corn Duty Case

ST. LOUIS — The National Corn Growers Association has recently received official documentation from the Canadian Import Tribunal which explains the Tribunal's March 6 decision to assess 84.9 cents per bushel duties on U.S. corn exports to Canada.

The document states that Canadian corn producers are not materially injured by subsidized corn imports from the United States, but rather by U.S. subsidies. Contrary to all prior precedents in countervailing duty cases, the Tribunal found that injury does not have to be caused by imports nor by import contracts.

Mere presence of a subsidy program in a foreign country where that program is deemed to impact Canadian prices is now considered sufficient evidence for the implementation of countervailing duties by Canada.

"We are firmly convinced the Canadian Import Tribunal's decision is totally in conflict with accepted international trade standards under the GATT Subsidies Code and with the Special Import Measures Act of Canada," says NCGA president Harold Cutler of Greenville, NC. "This decision is totally at odds with 89 years of countervailing duty administration in the United States."

Cutler points out the decision is inconsistent with itself because "subsidized imports" going into British Columbia are excluded from the duties. The Tribunal found such imports to be non-injurious. In addition, there was no finding of injury on other imports into Canada. Yet a countervailing duty on corn is in force because the U.S. subsidy program is alleged to exist, and that program allegedly lowers the Canadian price. The lowering of the price in Canada is the only indication of injury which the Tribunal claims it found.

"Economists representing NCGA at the Tribunal's hearing in February clearly demonstrated that corn prices in the United States and Canada would be even lower if the alleged U.S. subsidy programs for basic farm commodities were terminated," adds Cutler. "Thus, Canadian corn producers cannot be injured by the farm program because corn prices would be lower without the program."

Previous USDA studies confirm prices would be lower without a U.S. farm program than with such a program.

The GATT Subsidies Code plus United States, Canadian and European Community laws all require that injury can only be caused by subsidized imports. However, the Tribunal ignored the need for injurious subsidized imports in making their final decision.

The Tribunal's document refers to a potential increase in corn imports from the U.S. that would occur if Canadian producers did not meet U.S. prices. History has shown that corn imports from the U.S. have steadily declined for the past six years, including 1986 when Canada had a shortage of corn.

"We object loudly and clearly to this decision," concludes Cutler. "We also believe the U.S. Government should protest this outrageous decision with Canada and before GATT, and not hesitate to retaliate promptly if rational remedies do not produce satisfactory results."

N.J. FFA Spring Contests Slated For April 30

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — The 64th Annual Spring FFA Judging Contests will be held April 30th at Rutgers University, Cook College, New Brunswick. The New Jersey FFA Association will hold interscholastic contests including floriculture, poultry, agriculture mechanics, nursery/landscape, and agribusiness management for New Jersey FFA students.

High school FFA students will compete for state titles and convention recognition.

The contests are designed to test students' knowledge in different areas of agriculture. An added bonus for FFA members will be recognition on the practical application sections of the contests. FFA affords students the opportunity to compete and excel in areas of their choice. The contests also test the student's knowledge and practical experiences learned in the classroom and in their supervised occupational experience projects.

Drive-Thru Dairy Store K

BY MARTHA J. GEHRINGER

LANCASTER — It was inevitable.

In man's effort to create the greatest physical comfort and convenience for himself in his day-to-day happenings he invented the drive-in which beget the drive-thru.

The drive-thrus are seemingly ubiquitous with everything from banks to restaurants to funeral homes utilizing the method to expedite their systems. Bessie the cow is the latest entrepreneur to join the burgeoning businesses which serve customers while their motors idle.

Customer convenience is the prime concern of the new drive-thru dairy store located outside of Lancaster. It is owned by the Hess family of Pine View Acres. They like to tell people to "come as you are, shop from your car," John Hess said.

Pine View Acres opened its drive-thru dairy store in mid-December following a two-year search for a method to increase sales.

Owners John and Larry Hess have been in the milk jugging business for 15 years. John estimates that five years ago the jugging business hit its peak. "That was when we saw a need to sell our milk through a different outlet," he said. "In order to keep our milk sales up and reduce our surplus we felt we had to do something."

Contributing to reduced sales for the jugging operation was the improved economy. "People are less willing to drive out to save 20 cents at the farm store," John explained.

The Pine View Dairy drive-thru store is located south of Lancaster on Route 222. The store features two drive-in entrances for northbound and southbound traffic. Customers can complete their shopping trip without leaving their car.

John saw drive-thru dairy stores operating in the Los Angeles area 17 years ago when he worked construction on the West Coast. Pine View actually is re-introducing a marketing concept tried in the Lancaster area nearly 20 years ago.

A friend of the Hess family, Bob Goul, who is in the dairy supply business, opened two such stores in the Lancaster locale; one store was located in the center of Lancaster and the second was just outside town. "He just thought that was something the area could use," John noted.

Soon after Goul opened his drive-thru, the convenience stores opened, contributing to the premature demise of his concept in the area, John explained. He speculated Goul was ahead of his time.

As the Hess brothers pondered the possibilities, they kept Goul's earlier trial in the back of their minds.

"Another farm store was not the answer," said Sylvia, John's wife, adding the new dairy would not be able to compete with nearby, established, grocery stores. The jugging operation is located on New Danville Pike strategically between two large grocery stores offering a comprehensive selection of items. "They thought a whole new concept was the way to go...if they could get a location," she added

The site they considered and eventually purchased, John explained, was along Route 222 south of Lancaster. Advantages of the site included its proximity to the farm, 3.5 miles, a growing community, and heavy traffic flow.

Before buying the tract of land located next to the southbound lane, they conducted their own market survey. One afternoon Larry counted the number of cars that passed by the site between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. Using hand-held counters, he recorded 2,500 cars going south and 1,500 cars going north.

Neile McLain waits on a customer at the drive-thru store. Positioned at the roof in front of the car is the menuboard that lists the main items sold in the store.

For people who lived south of Lancaster and worked in Lancaster or north of the city, the location was convenient, the key to the concept.

After what seemed to be an endless battle of red tape, construction on the 16-by-30 building was completed. "I learned a lot from the experience," John recalled. They opened for business in mid-December on a cold, snowy day, Sylvia remembered.

John explained their goal is to offer a limited line of convenience items while giving efficient, courteous service.

Patrons of the drive-thru store follow the arrows on the macadam and stop at the sliding glass doors located next to the driver. At this point the driver can see a listing of the major items in the store via a menuboard positioned under the roof in front of him. The clerk then quickly takes the customer's order and returns with the merchandise, usually within 30 seconds, depending on the size of the purchase.

The clerk will hand the items to the customer, place it in the back seat or in the trunk, John said, whatever is best for the customer. While most people buy one to two gallons of milk, they have had orders amounting to $20, John added.

Gradually, as the idea catches on, the customers' orders have been increasing with successive trips, employee Neile McLain explained.

"It's confusing the first time someone comes. They usually park their car and walk up," Neile said. However, only employees are permitted inside the store, she noted.

"People have a regular place to buy milk," John commented. What we need to do is alter that place, he noted as the key to increasing business.

The price of milk at the drive-thru store is slightly higher than their jugging operation because of its location, John explained. "If you produce, process and sell the milk on the same property as the cows, you can set your own price. However, if you move the milk, you fall under the Pennyslvania Milk Control Board," he said. Due to its classification as a convenience store on a site away from the farm, the milk is priced at the lowest possible price set by the Milk Board.

"We are banking on the fact that the store is convenient," John said.

Some customers are familiar with the Pine View farm store, John noted, but they are not willing to drive the extra distance to the farm store. Despite the proximity of the two stores, the new one has not cut into the clientele of the old one. Sylvia noted the drive-thru is drawing customers from the growing Willow Street community as well as the rush-hour traffic.

John explained that the old customers continue to patronize the store for the reduced milk price and "they like the bags."

When John and Larry went into the jugging business they packaged milk in plastic bags and continue to package the milk and fruit drinks for the farm store in this manner. At that time, 15 years ago, the bags were the state of the art.

However, one drawback of the bags is the need for an explanation of how to manipulate the bags. John noted that to explain this process to new customers at the drive-thru would slow down the system. To accomodate the new customers, the Hess brothers purchased a filling machine for the conventional, blow-molded plastic jugs.

"We want the reputation that even if there is a couple of cars in line, it's not going to take long," John said. For this reason, the new store also does not sell hand-dipped cones. Time is of the essence to the customers.

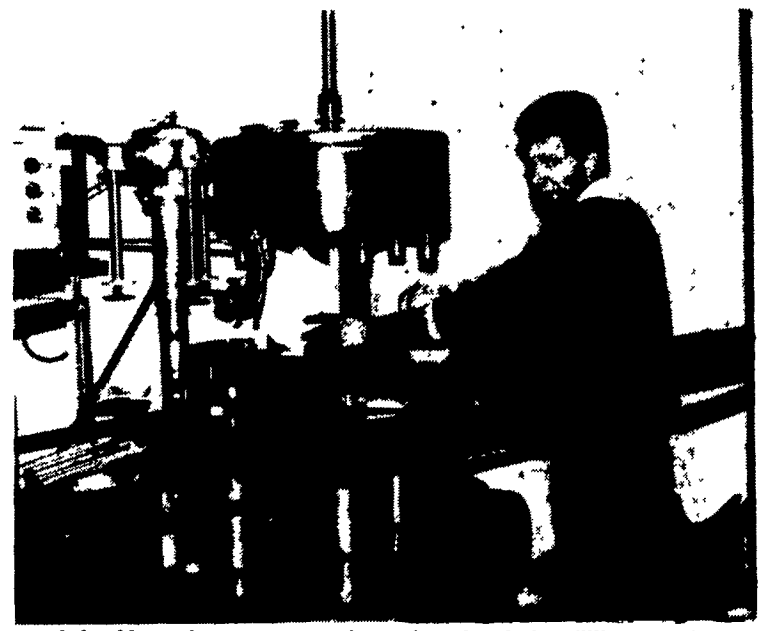
Neile, who has worked for the Hess family since the store opened, said the concept is catching on, especially now that the customers know how quick it is. "A lot of people expect it to be like Turkey Hill," she noted. Customers repeatedly ask for items they have purchased at the other convenience stores. "It's a dairy store that carries mainly things they need," she explained.

The rush at the store in the afternoon occurs between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., Neile explained. Then, the purchases are primarily necessary items.

"Its great for mothers and kids. A lot of mothers have been saying how nice it is," she commented.

Sylvia, a nurse and mother of one, verified the convenience it offers to mothers who have bundled up and strapped a child into a car seat. "On a rainy day I'll definitely stop at a drive-thru."

John and Larry Hess decided to open their jugging operation outside New Danville 15 years ago in an effort to net a better price for their milk than the dairy was paying.



John Hess demonstrates how the plastic jug filling machine works. The farm store packages milk in plastic bags. The new machine fills the plastic containers for sale at the drive-thru store.

Many morning commuters have found it to be the answer for a quick cup of coffee and the morning newspaper, Neile said.

Pine View Dairy drive-thru store offers a "shopping list" which features over 40 items. Included is a full spectrum of dairy products, fruit drinks, iced tea, sodas, spring water, eggs, bakery items and subs — the only pre-made item.

John mixes 20 different flavors of ice cream for sale at the farm store, but only takes the five best selling flavors plus a feature flavor to the drive-thru store because of the limited space. He makes the ice cream for the stores using their own mix which has a 12.5 percent fat content. John also incorporates a 90 percent overrun into the ice cream.

The responsibilities for the operation, store and farm, lie with John and Larry who manage the dairy and processing. John credits Larry's wife, Janet, with carrying a large portion of the work load. She does all the book work and manages the stores, he explained. Janet added items to the farm store as requested by the customers. Today it offers a complete line of convenient items. Jay Swavely works as their herdsman. Jay, John and Larry do the field work on the 170-acre farm.

Drive-thru dairy stores are not a new concept. They have been

ASANA. BREAKING PERFORMANCE BARRIERS IN CUTWORM CONTROL.

Applied as a preventive treatment (PPI or PE) on corn fields having a history of cutworm problems, ASANA insecticide kills cutworms at a lower cost per acre than Lorsban 15G*. Preventive treatments should also be considered for fields especially attractive to cutworm moths for egg-laying, such as bottomlands, wet, weedy and no-till fields. ASANA can be tank mixed with most herbicides for cost-saving one-pass weed-and-insect control. More active than Pounce* or Ambush*, ASANA allows lower use rates (1 gal. treats 63 acres for normal infestations). New tip-"N"-measure* containers help reduce waste.

Applied as a rescue treatment where cutworms are an occasional threat, ASANA saves money because you treat only if insects are a problem. Its staying power and washoff resistance give lasting control to save costly resprays. And ASANA controls other corn pests, including armyworms and stalk borers, so it could be the only insect protection you need. ASANA is backed by a Performance Agreement that assures commercially acceptable control. Your participating dealer can tell you more.

Diversions Maximize Soil Protection In Shale Country

LEESPORT — "Farmers have been building diversions in Berks County since the Conservation District was formed in 1946 and offered conservation assistance through the Soil Conservation Service," says John Fior of the USDA Soil Conservation Service. A diversion is a wide, shallow, grass channel that intercepts surface water runoff from sloping ground, reduces its velocity, and carries it to a safe outlet. A suitable outlet may be a natural depression in ungrazed woodland, densely sodded pastureland or hayland, or a sod or rock-lined waterway built for that purpose. A diversion reduces the slope length or the distance water travels downhill and cuts its erosive power, greatly reducing sheet, rill and gully erosion.

"This is especially beneficial in the shale country of northern Berks County where much farming is done on fairly long steep slopes with erodible soils that are cultivated intensively with short rotations of hay and long rotations of corn and small grain crops," says Fior. The sod cover is minimal and the soil is frequently exposed for long periods between crop harvest and crop establishment. Soil erosion is greatly accelerated during these periods.

"The Soil Conservation Service helps farmers to lay out and build diversions where they will do the most good," says Fior. Diversions should be located every 300 to 400 feet from the top of the slope. "If the field is located in the middle of a long slope where soil and water from neighboring fields, farms and road culverts is washing into it, locate the first diversion as close to the field boundary as possible to intercept surface water runoff," says Fior. "A filter strip 50 to 75 feet wide should be maintained above the diversion to trap sediment from adjacent areas before it settles in the diversion and gradually fills it up, destroying its effectiveness," adds Fior.

Diversions may be constructed without difficulty on farmland where average slopes do not exceed 12 percent. "Construction becomes more difficult on steeper slopes because the soil is shallow to bedrock and it is difficult to obtain sufficient channel depth and sufficient soil to build the ridge and establish proper width," says Fior. "Farmland that has slopes much steeper than 12 percent should be farmed less intensively with hay being the principal crop in the rotation," adds Fior.

"Diversions should be supplemented with the best conservation practices to provide maximum soil protection," says Fior. Good conservation and management practices such as stripcropping, conservation cropping systems, cover crops, conservation tillage, crop residue management, manuring, liming, and fertilizing will help achieve the goal. "Intensive soil management using these conservation and management practices will also improve soil tilth, aeration, percolation, water holding capacity, fertility, and ultimately productivity," says Fior. "These practices definitely make economic sense," adds Fior.

Co-ops Announce Affiliation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative has entered into affiliation agreements with Chateaugay Cooperative Marketing Association and Konhokton Milk Producers, two New York cooperatives representing a total of 450 dairy farmers.

A joint statement by the dairy farmer-presidents of the three co-ops said the affiliations were effective March 1.

"We will be able to assist each other in marketing opportunities," the presidents said, "and working together, we will have a stronger voice on state and national issues affecting dairy farmers."

Eastern President Earl Forwood, Chateaugay President Hamilton Wood and Konhokton President Ron Harris added that under the agreements, the member farmers of Chateaugay and Konhokton also become affiliated members of Eastern.

Konhokton, with 110 farmers in the Southern Tier area, is headquartered in Cohocton, N.Y.

Eastern's Dairy Products Division in Canton, Pa., operates five dairy stores in Pennsylvania and New York, and a bulk-buying service for rural customers in 11 states.

Cooperative Gypsy Moth Suppression Program Begins May 1

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – Treatment of 132,000 gypsy moth-infested acres of trees across the State of Maryland will begin by May 1. Most of the areas to be treated lie in Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, although specific treatment sites are proposed in 19 counties and Baltimore City.

Conducted by the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Forest Pest Management Program in cooperation with other federal, state, and participating county agencies, the program utilizes two insecticides: B.t. (Bacillus thuringiensis), to be used on 33,000 acres, and diflubenzuron, to be used on the remaining 99,000 acres statewide.

A single aerial application of an insecticide will be made to control the caterpillar (larvae) state on the trees in designated areas beginning around May 1 and continuing through early June in the far western counties.

Both B.t. and diflubenzuron are registered with the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the Maryland Department of Agriculture. As applied, they are not harmful to people or pets. B.t. is a biological insecticide which controls the larvae by interfering with the insects' feeding process. Diflubenzuron is a growth regulator which prevents formation of new skin during the molting process of the caterpillar.

MDA has notified all those living in proposed treatment areas by first class mail. Those people who have not received notification are not in a treatment area.

Areas to be treated were selected based on surveys carried out between September 1986 and January 1987 to determine the numbers of gypsy moth eggs, land use values and the susceptibility of trees to attack. Funding is provided by federal, state, and county sources in a cooperative effort.

Homeowners can help combat gypsy moth by placing (sticky bands" around the trucks of yard trees in April to trap newly-hatched larvae. As the season progresses, burlap bags or aprons may be used to give mature caterpillars a place to hide during the day, making it possible to remove them before they reach the leaves. The key is to keep them out of the foliage.

For more information concerning the gypsy moth, contact your local county extension agent. For detailed information about MDA's Cooperative Gypsy Moth Suppression Program, call the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 301-841-5922.

operating in other parts of the country. In Pennsylvania they can be found in Tioga County and the Philadelphia area.

The Hess family has no plans to add a second dairy drive-thru store. "If we can get this one rolling we'll be very satisfied," John said. "We want to keep the company small and keep our customers satisfied."

They are hoping to hold a grand opening for the store at the end of April.

John noted that when they started in the jugging business there were about 300 milk juggers in Pennsylvania. Presently, he estimates there are less than 70. While some juggers have expanded to supermarkets and restaurants, "I think once they see how this one is working we'll see more of them."

For now, the third-generation farm family is hoping the traffic flowing by the store flows into the store and more individuals enjoy the convenience of shopping from their car.

Animals rights... get the pigs back in the mud again, eating slop. Don't spray apples because wormy apples are natural food. Punish South Africa. Don't drain your tile in the ditch and don't farm within two miles of a river. Don't drain the swamp because the Pennsylvania mosquito is an endangered species.

Down in Tennessee it's "save the snail darter." In North Dakota, "save the whooping crane." A bill was introduced in the North Dakota legislature to ban agriculture through the center of North Dakota because that's the flight path of the whooping crane. Out in Colorado, it's "save the coyotes."

The ranchers and environmentalists around Grand Junction had a meeting to resolve their differences. Finally one character with a pony tail got up and said, "I think I understand your problem now... suppose we corral all of the coyotes and neuter the males?" An old gnarled rancher from 10 miles north of Grand Junction got up and said with disgust, "Son, you still don't understand the problem. They ain't rapin' our sheep... they're eatin' 'em!"

Do you remember when they fed 10 tons of cranberries to the rats and the rats got sick? Then they fed a tank car of milk to the rats and the rats got sick. Then they fed 10 carloads of beef to the rats and the rats got sick. We don't need more of these scientists, but I hope Penn State can come up with a hardier breed of rats.

That's all for today. Next time, let's discuss where we go from here.

SCS Employees Define 'Wetlands' For Swampbuster Program

HARRISBURG — Farmers are being told that if they drain or farm a wetland, they will lose benefits from a large number of U.S. Department of Agriculture programs. The question many farmers are asking is, "what is a wetland?"

According to Robert Heidecker, a state resource conservationist with the USDA Soil Conservation Service, under the swampbuster provision of the 1985 Farm Bill, USDA defines a wetland as soils that are covered with standing water or are water saturated most of the year, to the extent that they grow mostly water loving plants. "Both conditions, wet soils and wetlands plants, must exist for the land to be classed as a wetland," added Heidecker. The USDA Soil Conservation Service maintains lists of wet soils and water-loving plants which make up a wetland designation.

Farmers who plant a crop on an existing wetland or on a wetland that was drained or filled since Dec. 23, 1985 will not be able to participate in most other USDA farm programs. This includes such USDA farm program as commodity price supports, Farmers Home Administration loans, crop insurance, CCC storage payments, farm storage facility loans and conservation reserve program annual payments. Heidecker reminded farmers that eligibility will be lost not only for the wetland that is cropped, but for the entire farm operation.

"Eligibility may be regained any year by not planting a crop on the converted wetland," added Heidecker.

Exceptions to the swampbuster provision are (1) if the wetland was drained prior to December 23, 1985; (2) if the wetland results from an artifical condition, such as irrigation; (3) crops were planted on the wetland as a result of natural conditions such as drought; and (4) where SCS has determined that conversion would have a minimal effect on wetland values.

The swampbuster provision of the Food Security Act of 1985, commonly referred to as the 1985 Farm Bill, is aimed at discouraging the conversion of wetland to agricultural purposes. Many farmers have drained and planted wetlands to crops, under incentives offered through various commodity support programs.

More than one-half of the wetlands that existed when America was settled are gone. Wetlands are some of our most diverse and productive habitat for waterfowl and wildlife. They help control floodwaters, recharge aquifers and provide many recreational and environmental opportunities.

For more information on Swampbuster, contact the local office of SCS or the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. SCS conservationists can tell you if you have wetlands. ASCS personnel can provide information about the effects of Swampbuster on USDA assistance programs.

United Severs Ties With NEDCO

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — United Dairy Cooperative Services Inc. announced that it has evolved as a new organization completely independent of Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation Inc. This was a direct result of Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings.

United will continue its operation in Syracuse on the fifth floor of the Syracuse Building, 224 Harrison St. United is also buying the furniture and fixtures from NEDCO so the creditors and former NEDCO dairy farmer members will receive full value of all remaining assets. No impediment to court approval is anticipated.

United Dairy Cooperative Services Inc., a federated cooperative, currently has four member cooperatives: Middlebury Cooperative Milk Producers Association Inc., Otselic Valley Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc., Progressive Dairymen's Cooperative Inc. and Syracuse Dairy Farmers Cooperative Inc. As a bargaining cooperative, United serves its members by providing economic and information services, educational programs, legislative review and representation, and striving to improve the farmer's market.

Serving as officers for United are President James Patsos, Waterloo; Secretary Glen Seeley, Syracuse; and Roland Schallenberg, Westernville. "We are extremely excited about this new venture," stated Patsos.

Bacteria That Attack Weeds Could Replace Herbicides

WASHINGTON — New natural enemies of weeds — bacteria that attack both weed seeds and seedlings without harming crops — have been identified by a U.S. department of Agriculture scientist.

If field tests planned this year succeed, these bacteria could eventually replace some chemical herbicides if applied to the soil every few years, said Robert J. Kremer, a microbiologist for USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

His studies are the first to show that certain strains of bacteria that live in the soil — known as rhizobacteria — rot weed seeds by overcoming their natural defenses. Some rhizobacteria do this with enzymes they produce, he said.

In laboratory tests, rhizobacteria attacked seeds of velvetleaf, which can escape soil-applied herbicides because its seeds germinate deep underground and can stay viable for 40 to 50 years. The bacteria also attacked seeds of jimsonweed, pigweed and morning glory. All four weeds are pests of row crops such as corn and soybeans, especially in the Midwest. Morning glory is one of the worst.

Kremer also discovered that some rhizobacteria rob weed seedlings of vigor, interrupt their flow of nutrients or make their roots susceptible to disease-causing microbes. One way the rhizobacteria do this is through by-products that are toxic to the seedlings.

"We don't yet know everything we need to know about these rhizobacteria, but eventually they should be a commercially feasible means of weed control that will allow less use of chemical herbicides," said Kremer, who is seeking patent protection on his discoveries."

Many bacteria known to attack weeds also harm crops — a flaw not found in the rhizobacteria he is investigating at the agency's crop production research laboratory in Columbia, Mo.

Weeds cause an estimated 12 percent annual loss in crop yields across the United States, which translates to a $20 billion loss in production and cost of weed control to farmers and consumers.

Weed seeds have hard-to-penetrate coats and toxic chemicals that ward off enemy fungi. Some seeds even get protection from "friendly" soil microbes, but Kremer says the rhizobacteria overcome these defenses, too.

"Our challenge now," he said, "is finding how to apply these bacteria in the field so they will cause the seed to decay before it can sprout. Applying the bacteria to the soil every few years should keep their numbers high enough to keep the weeds under control."

He is testing 500 to 600 different strains of rhizobacteria for their potential as natural weed-seed herbicides for crop fields and gardens. Most of these strains are Bacillus, Erwinia, Pseudomonas or Flavobacteria.

Beetles Combat Wasps

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Department of Agriculture Entomologists conducted a survey of the presence and numbers of Mexican bean beetles in soybeans across the entire Eastern Shore in September, 1986. Results showed that only Worcester and Wicomico Counties had areas of heavy infestation, which are considered at risk for the 1987 growing season, if the beetles have good weather (wet spring).

Anticipating a possible heavy bean beetle infestation in Worcester and parts of Wicomico Counties, the MDA has initiated a counter-attack to stem the spread of these pest to other areas on the shore. A natural enemy of the bean beetle, the parasitic wasp, Pediobius oveolatus, will be introduced to those areas expected to have the most beetles. Using the beetle larvae as hosts, the wasps will control beetle population within reasonable economic limits.

Nursery plots of snap beans, about one-eighth acre in size, will be planted in April through early May. These plots will attract Mexican bean beetles which have overwintered in nearby hedgerows and woodlots.

In early May, eggs will be laid in these plots. The resulting larvae will begin to feed on the snap beans grown for that purpose.

When the bean beetle larvae are a proper size, the parasitic wasps will be released into the bean plots to feed on the larvae and multiply in numbers large enough to spread out and combat the general beetle population in adjoining fields.

Is Weather Taking A Turn For The Worse In '80s?

USDA Farmline News Service

Weather has been both friend and foe to agriculture since early man planted the first seed. Most farmers accept weather's fickle nature, its pleasant and unpleasant surprises, with few complaints.

More recently, however, some farmers have begun to ask if weather hasn't become a bit more capricious than it used to be a decade or so ago. And some experts say they could be right, reports a recent issue of FARMLINE magazine, published by USDA's Economic Research Service.

USDA's chief meteorologist, Norton Strommen, claims the nation has been experiencing higher highs and lower lows in temperature, more droughts and more flooding.

"Variations in temperature and precipitation appear to be wider and more frequent today than in many previous decades. More temperature extremes have been recorded in the late 1970s and the 1980s than during the 1950s, 1960s, and early 1970s," Strommen says. "Record-breaking temperatures have been observed by an unusually high number of weather stations."

One example of the weather extremes of the 1980s is last year's drought in the Southeast. Its severity can be measured by the Palmer Drought Index, a climatological tool evised by meteorologist Wayne Palmer in 1964 to look at past droughts. Palmer identified four categories of drought intensity – mild, moderate, severe and extreme. He assigned each category a numerical value.

According to the Palmer Drought Index and precipitation records, the Southeast had the worst drought in more than 100 years last spring and summer, says meteorologist Lyle Denny of the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility in Washington, D.C. Affecting parts of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, and southwest Virginia, the drought registered a -6 to near -7 in western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee, the maximum negative values on record.

This drought was preceded by two major droughts that hit the Corn Belt in 1980 and 1983, but hot, dry spells haven't been the only signs of the weather's erratic behavior. There have been floods and early freezes, as well as seasons of exceptionally good weather in some regions.

The volatility and increased frequency of weather extremes have, of course, left their imprint on U.S. agriculture. Average corn yields nationwide, for instance, have taken a rollercoaster ride, dropping 17 percent in 1980, hitting a record high in 1982, falling 28 percent in 1983, and setting two consecutive records in 1985 and 1986. And Florida's citrus crop has been devastated by four freezes in the last 5 years. "We've been keeping records since 1985, and never have we recorded four severe freezes in 5 years," Strommen says.

Erratic Weather: Here To Stay?

Although weather in the 1980's is more erratic than that seen in the 1950s through early 1970s, Strommen suggests that recent high variability in weather may be closer to the historical norm rather than the exception. Other major swings in temperature have occurred, other records have been set in other decades.

In his view, the 1950s through early 1970s represented a "unique" period in this century, one in which weather was unusually stable. And now? "We're going back to greater variability."

Yet it's too soon to characterize the apparent change as a long-term shift in weather patterns, at least not yet, Strommen says. One decade of capricious weather does not necessarily mean more decades of the same.

Moreover, any forecast into the years ahead would be pure speculation. Despite its many achievements, the science of meteorology does not have the know-how to pinpoint the causes or predict the duration of broad shifts in weather patterns. "The fact is we don't really know whether we're witnessing a fundamental change in weather, a return to past trends, or just a temporary period of extremes," Strommen says.

He explains that climatologists do not yet fully comprehend the complex interaction of variables that produce weather and climate. They are not able to explain in mathematical terms, for instrance, the exchange of energy between ocean and atmosphere, two critical elements of the climate system.

Meteorologist Donald Gilman of the National Weather Service agrees. Gilman points out the hazards of assuming that fundamental changes are occurring, given the lack of better forecasting technology. "It's like being on a gently sloping road with lots of potholes. All you notice is the potholes," he says.

However, there are theories on why weather seems to have taken a turn for the worse in some places. One explanation involves the El Nino, a periodic incursion of warm water along the northwest coast of South America. It can shift rainfall patterns and cause a seesaw of air pressure from east to west.

The El Nino events of 1982-83 were the strongest on record, Strommen says, causing global climate anomalies. Both South Africa and Australia, for instance, experienced droughts in this period that devastated crops. The trouble is that scientists do not know what causes El Nino events, so they cannot predict with certainty when they will take place.

More Theories Than Answers

Many other theories to explain or anticipate shifts in weather have also been offered, none yet proven. Some of the most common are:

- A gradual warming of the earth's climate may be taking place, possibly because more carbon dioxide is entering the atmosphere's ability to release outgoing terrestrial radiation. Trapped radiation can warm the earth's surface temperature. Even if true, though, this "greenhouse effect" still doesn't explain year-to-year changes in temperature.
- Ozone, methane, and other trace gases are being emitted into the atmosphere in larger quantities. These trace gases have proven to be an effective trap for outgoing radiation, perhaps having an even greater warming effect on the earth's climate than carbon

Weather In The '80s

• The energy exchange between ocean surfaces and the atmosphere may explain why recent winters in the United States have been colder. Studies show that when a warm pool of ocean water is present over the north central Pacific, a ridge of high pressure will move over the eastern part of the Pacific and western United States. As a result, cold air is funneled out of Canada and into the United States. However, identical conditions have been present in other decades without causing colder winters, Strommen says, making this theory imprecise at best.

• An increase in volcanic activity, particularly a major eruption, can affect the climate by propelling tons of debris into the atmosphere, to ba carried by air currents around the globe. Volcanic eruptions that occurred in this decade were at El Chichon in Mexico and Mount St. Helens in Washington.

"All the atmospheric and climatological events behind these theories are bits of the puzzle that we're trying to sort our way through," Strommen says.

No Discounting Weather's Role

While meteorologists strive to expand their understanding of weather and their forecasting tools, farmers must still cope with weather's uncertainties and sudden wings. Not everyone thought this would be necessary in the late 20th century.

In the 1950s to early 1970s, a period characterized to rapid technological advances and relatively good weather, some optimists suggested that technology had largely eliminated significant yield variations in agriculture. Everyone realized later, when bad weather returned, that technology alone could not consistently produce high yields without nature's cooperation, Strommen says.

Although meteorologists don't expect weather's role to diminish significantly in the years ahead, they do express confidence that forecasting will become more accurate. Forecasts, especially 30-day forecasts, will be better. That's because the big mathematical models used to predict the movements of air and ocean currents will be pushed to predict temperatures beyond the current 5th-day limit.

Strommen and other meteorologists are optimistic that weather scientists will eventually have better tools to determine if long-term weather patterns are changing, to measure the siognificance of such changes, and to identify some of the causes behind them.

Plantings May Increase

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania farmers intend to plant more acres of oats and soybeans, and harvest more acres of hay during 1987 according to recent information compiled by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service. Intentions are to plant fewer acres of wheat, corn and barley, and harvest fewer acres of tobacco this year than in 1986.

Intended plantings of corn at 1,650,000 acres will be down one percent from last year's 1,670,000 acres. All wheat at 190,000 acres will be down 17 percent from last year's 230,000 acres and could be a record low acreage. Barley planting intentions are 65,000 acres, down seven percent from the 70,000 acres planted in 1986. Intentions are to harvest 10,300 acres of tobacco, six percent below the 11,000 acres harvested last year.

Oats acreage in 1987 could be up 14 percent from 290,000 acres to 330,000 acres in Pennsylvania. Soybean planted acres is intended to be 170,000 acres, three percent more than the 165,000 planted in 1986 and tied with the previous record high acreage in 1985. All hay for harvest intended for 1987 is 2,030,000, up two percent from last year's two million acres.

Speedway To Host Dairy Night, Ice Cream Giveaway

OWEGO, N.Y. — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, Inc., and Borden Inc., jointly announce the signing of a sponsorship agreement with Shangri-La Motor Speedway in Owego for a June dairy promotion.

Shangri-La Speedway owner, Dale Campfield, stated his pleasure with the association by saying, "Agriculture, especially the dairy industry, is one of the largest employers in the New York - Pennsylvania area, Shangri-La is most please to be able to honor the farm families who work so hard to put the food on America's table."

The date of June 20, 1987 has been selected as the "Dairy Day" at Shangri-La. "This coincides with the annual Strawberry Festival in Owego, continued Campfield. "The connection between the two is a natural because everybody loves strawberries and cream."

Paul Nichols of ADA and DC along with Donna Baker of Eastern Milk Producers have come up with a novel ideal for the promotion. "Through the people at Borden's we will build a mountain of Borden Ice Cream and top it with fresh strawberries so everyone arriving at Shangri-La will enjoy a complimentary ice cream sundae from the three race sponsors," said Nichols.

A series of discount coupons will be available to race fans through the ADA and DC newsletter and the Eastern Milk Producers Magazine. "We have also arranged with Shangri-La that anyone showing a Real Seal from any dairy product will receive a discount at the ticket gate off from the nights admission price," said Eastern's Baker.

"We look forward to this being one of the best nights of our year," said Campfield. "We are proud to have the dairy people and all the farm families at Shangri-La. What other race facility has ever offered its fans a free ice cream sundae and a discount off the admission price on the same night? In looking at the combination of the NASCAR modifieds, the exciting Shangri-La Late Models, the great people from Borden, Eastern Milk Producers Co-op and ADA and DC it is obvious that the fans are in for a Real treat on June 20th.

Race fans are reminded that the modified at Shangri-La also carry a real seal of their own because they are the same modifieds that the fans enjoy on the Winston Modified Tour.

Shangri-La Motor Speedway is easy to get to. Just take Exit 64 off Route 17 at Owego, hop across the river and turn left on Route 17C for a mile and a half. Racing starts at 7 p.m., gates and ice cream parlor open at 5 p.m.

Delaware Seeks Exception To Dinoseb Ban

DOVER, Del. – The Delaware Department of Agriculture has applied to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for a Specific Exemption under Section 18 of the Federal Insecticide Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. This application is for the use of dinoseb on green peas, lima beans, snap beans, blackeyed peas and dry beans.

Although a similar request has been denied in other states, the Department is hopeful that the EPA will re-consider the losses Delaware growers may experience without economical and effective alternative controls. Losses due to poor weed control on these crops is expected to exceed 2 million dollars.

An earlier application under Section 18 for the use of the herbicide PURSUIT on snap beans and lima beans was denied by EPA on the grounds that:

1. currently registered alternatives could provide satisfactory control;

2. the potential for significant economic losses had not been demonstrated; and,

3. much of the data necessary to support registration of the "new" chemical was lacking.

The satisfaction that comes from doing a good job of farming

Liming is one of the most important factors in keeping your soil in the highest productive range. A good pasture with a pH of 6.5 or higher, for example will make 300 to 400 lbs of beef per acre and produce up to $100 gross income per acre. This means with the help of lime profits from pastures can compare favorably with feed or grain crops

DEPEND ON

Purina Mills, Inc. & Their Dealers

To Make Your Dry Cows Pay

During these times of uncertain economic conditions, don't overlook your dry cows. They'll help improve your profits if you condition them on Freshstart D&H Chow.

Unlike milking rations, Purina's® Freshstart D&H Chow® brand dry cow ration is especially formulated to meet the critical requirements of your dry cows. Where these requirements are not met, metabolic problems may develop, like milk fever and ketosis. These can cost you money, especially in lost milk.

Order your Freshstart D&H today and help your dry cows store up nutrients for more milk and more income throughout the next lactation.
